
MANNED MISSILE — This is the YF12A which may find its way to NORAD after today's unveiling in California. The super-interceptor is reportedly capable of flying faster than three-times the speed of sound at altitudes up to and possibly beyond 100,000 feet. It carries a new atomic warhead missile in its belly which can be launched to destroy attacking bombers.

Fastest 'Manned Missile' May Be Given to NORAD

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph City Editor

They wheeled out America's first "manned missile" and possibly the fastest aircraft of its type in the world today at Edwards AFB, Calif., but the men who are most interested in the plane are here in Colorado Springs.

The YF12A manned interceptor with its new bomber killing rocket is what Gen. John K. Gerhart and his NORAD staff have been asking for, for the past 11 years.

And today, the officers at NORAD are waiting for word that the super-interceptor with its Mach 3 speed and 100,000 foot altitude reach will be turned over to them for use in carrying out their mission.

It was in April, 1953 that the NORAD component Air Defense Command submitted a requirement for a long-range interceptor. It was an on-again off-again proposition for the request until September, 1959, when the Air Force cancelled development of the F-108 which was supposed to go to NORAD.

And then there was nothing until President Johnson disclosed the existence of the new interceptor last spring over National television.

What is the YF12A?

It is a manned missile capable of speeds of more than three times the speed of sound, the first military aircraft to achieve sustained flight at Mach 3. It reportedly has a range of more than the 4,000 mile range of the U-2, America's longest ranging plane and it is designed to reach its top speed at just over 70,000 feet and to retain that speed to well over 100,000 feet.

The YF12A's unmatched speed, made possible by building wing and fuselage with heat-resisting titanium, reportedly enables it to overtake any bomber in the world including the new XB70's bombers also being flight-tested at Edwards.

The twin-finned, triangle-winged YF12A is powered by two huge jet engines which reportedly generate more than 40,000 pounds of thrust — each, enough to cross the Atlantic in less than 90 minutes.

It carries in its belly one of the most destructive air-to-air missiles devised — the new AIM 47. The missile is carried inside the 90-foot fuselage to protect its nuclear warhead from the more than triple sonic speeds.

Speculation grew at the time of Mr. Johnson's announcement and first reports were that the plane was to be used for long range reconnaissance missions.

Shortly afterwards, some of the nation's aviation magazines claimed that because of its size,

AMERICA'S NEWEST FIGHTER — This is the first look at the Air Force version of the F-111A being developed by General Dynamics. Originally designated the TFX and the subject of much controversy [illegible] announced, the new tactical multi-purpose fighter is capable of speeds up to Mach 2.5 with a ceiling of more than 60,000 feet. The wings of the plane can be extended or retracted as evidenced in this artist's conception released today to the Gazette Telegraph. The planes in flight show the wings swept back for high speeds while those on the ground show the wings extended for slow, high-lift take-off and flight. The 70-foot long craft, which fires both conventional and nuclear weapons, will roll out of the GD-Ft. Worth plant Oct. 17. The range of the craft is described only as "trans-oceanic." The Air Force version—Air Force, Navy and Marines will modify the basic plane to suit their needs—carries air-to-surface missiles while the Navy version carries air-to-air missiles. Defense secretary McNamara said last year that it was "capable of deployment to all parts of the world."

New Risks Seen in Viet Nam War If Red China Explodes A-Bomb

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The expected explosion of a nuclear test bomb by Red China threatens new risks and difficulties for the United States in trying to keep the war in South Viet Nam in bounds and eventually to win a limited victory there.

The chief risk foreseen here is that Red Chinese triumph in the nuclear field may make it much more difficult for the United States to persuade Red China and North Viet Nam that they can't win in South Viet Nam and will have to pay an increasing cost to keep the war going.

The United States is confronted by two overriding problems in Viet Nam.

The most immediate and potentially the most dangerous in the short run is the problem of preventing a political collapse in the battered and war-weary little country which has been rocked by a series of government crises during the past 11 months.

The present U.S. answer to this problem is to provide all-out support to Premier Nguyen Khanh in the hope that he will prove capable of guiding his divided and embattled people through the present government crisis.

A broad outline of U.S. policy was given Tuesday in a speech in Tokyo by Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy, who is presently on a visit to Japan and Korea. Bundy is one of the top Washington officials directly responsible for U. S. policy in Southeast Asia.

"We do not aim at overthrowing the Communist regime of North Viet Nam," Bundy said, "but rather in inducing it to call off the war it directs and supports in South Viet Nam."

Bundy also said that expan-

L.A. Cracks Down on Its Welfare Cases

By DIAL TORGERSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles county relief program has been ordered altered to include this proviso: "Work — or get off relief."

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, which ordered the welfare changes Tuesday, even has a type of work in mind: field hand labor.

Such work on California farms is now done mostly by Mexican nationals imported for the purpose under the state's bracero program.

Efforts to induce unemployed persons to take over the work — most of it so-called stoop labor, at $1.00 to $1.25 an hour — have failed. The bracero program ends Dec. 31.

Supervisor Ernest E. Debs said: "We have a lot of able-bodied boys on the relief program. They will not go to school or learn a trade. It seems about time to say: "Either work or you will not get food.' "

The supervisors enacted a five-point program which brought varying opinions from state and labor officials. A state official said the plan sounded legal. A labor spokesman expressed doubts.

Supervisor Kenneth Kahn estimated Los Angeles County will have 30,000 unemployed youths available to take over the bracero jobs when the labor-importation plan expires Dec. 31.

The supervisors said the new regulations would make these

Mediators Seek to Avoid Dock Strike in U.S.

By MALCOLM STEPHENSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Presidential mediators worked against the clock today trying to prevent a strike by 60,000 dock workers in ports from Maine to Texas at midnight.

A walkout by the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association would tie up more than 500 United States and foreign-flag ships.

A partial break in the three-month deadlock in contract negotiations came early today when the employers accepted — with some modifications — the long list of settlement proposals made by the presidential mediation panel.

The union negotiators rejected the package.

The major obstacle to settlement has been the proposal for gradual reduction of the size of general cargo work gangs from 20 to 17 men in exchange for a guaranteed annual wage for longshoremen.

The union has held fast against any cut in work gang size.

Employer negotiators have refused for a long time to settle

$20 Million Fire Damage Set at Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Full containment was expected today of the Santa Barbara-Montecito fire, whose financial loss has been revised upward to about $20 million.

An army of 2,800 firefighters remained on the fire lines. Control of the disastrous blaze was predicted for Thursday with mop-up operations anticipated to take days.

The man-caused fire had been 90 per cent contained Tuesday night after a week-long rampage in which it blackened about 73,000 acres of valuable watershed, destroyed 78 homes, a college dormitory and damaged other structures.

One fireman was killed and 47 others injured battling the flames.

The U.S. Forest Service and other agencies figured it cost about $2.2 million to fight the fire, which posed further possible hazards from flooding should heavy rains fall before re-seeding is completed.

Watershed loss was fixed at $13 million, although the acreage figure was revised downward after official computations of loss. Property loss remained at about $3.5 million.

Portland Paper Says It May Keep Going

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The daily Portland Reporter, which planned to cease publication today, announced in its first edition it had found financial sources that made continuing publication "a strong possibility."

The Reporter announced plans to close in late February, but public donations and loans enabled it to resume publication.

It announced closure plans again Monday.

The Reporter was started in 1960 by striking employes of the city's other two newspapers — the morning The Oregonian and the afternoon Oregon Journal.

200 Perish as Flood Covers Indian Village

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A reservoir burst near Macherla, in south India, today and first reports said the town was under 10 feet of water with heavy loss of life.

A police superintendent at the nearby town of Vijayapuri said waters from the large irrigation reservoir washed away beds in the government hospital as well as a small bus depot and flooded most homes in the town of about 25,000 people.

He said thousands of persons were taking refuge in trees and on high places.

Macherla is about 240 miles north of Madras.

One unconfirmed report said more than 200 people and 1,000 cattle perished in Macherla.

The report said floodwaters from the Chandravanka River breached two irrigation tanks near the town.

Widespread flooding of the Krishna and Bhima rivers spread havoc over several thousand square miles of the state.

City Manager Won't Attend Protest Meet

City Manager John Biery says he won't attend the protest meeting called by the "Consumers Against Sales Tax."

The anti-sales tax committee has called a public meeting for 3 p.m. Thursday in the Little Theater of City Auditorium, and has invited all consumers, businessmen and anyone interested in protesting the sales tax.

The city manager has recommended that the City Council adopt a two per cent sales tax in 1965. Council will consider his proposal at their Oct. 13 meeting.

Biery gave two reasons why he will not attend the meeting. First, he wasn't invited. Second, he is obligated to attend a Municipal League meeting for District Six Thursday afternoon.

The "Consumers Against Sales Tax" committee was formed Tuesday morning.

Chances Appear Slim for Quick GM Settlement

By GENE SCHROEDER

DETROIT (AP) — Chances appeared slim today for settlement before next week of a nationwide strike that has cut off production of General Motors' 1965 automobiles.

Top negotiators for both GM and the United Auto Workers Union indicated Tuesday that they did not expect to reach agreement on national and local differences by this weekend.

If prolonged, the strike could have a serious effect on the nation's booming economy. GM said that hourly-rated employes in plants struck by the UAW are losing more than $7 million in daily wages.

Red China Not Ready to Be Nuclear Power

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. sources believe that although Red China now has the capability of setting off its first atomic explosion it is still years away from becoming a major nuclear power.

Thursday, the Peking regime's 15th anniversary, is the earliest date in Washington speculation on the timing of China's nuclear debut.

AF Expansion Work Planned Next Spring

Construction is expected to begin next spring under the U.S. Air Force Academy's $40 million expansion program.

The initial work will include a 2,000-cadet dormitory, a base chapel and additions to the utilities system. The dormitory, to be erected west of the dining hall, will cost an estimated $15.8 million.

Congress has appropriated $9,470,000 to begin the program under which the academy will increase its enrollment from the present 2,529 to 4,417 by 1971.

The Air Force plans to ask for $19.5 million for construction during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

In addition to the dormitory, plans call for a fieldhouse to cost an estimated $7 million and additions to the academic building, dining hall, gymnasium, hospital and cadet formation areas.

Last June the academy accepted it largest beginning class, 1,003 boys. About 900 survive the summer shakedown training.

Chenoweth Blasts Prayer, Apportionment Decisions

By GLENN URBAN
Gazette Telegraph
Political Writer

Republican Congressman J. Edgar Chenoweth, seeking election to his 12th term, apparently is going to campaign this season against the U.S. Supreme Court.

Chenoweth listed two Supreme Court decisions Tuesday as main issues in this campaign and said he felt keenly about both of them. He is against both decisions.

The two decisions against which Chenoweth apparently will run this year:

1. The decision on June 15 that has forced reapportionment of many state assemblies as the states comply with the court order that carries out the theme of "One man, one vote." This has caused state senates to be reapportioned as it carries out the idea that both houses must be based on population.

2. The decision banning prayer in the schools.

Chenoweth is facing Democrat Frank Evans, Pueblo attorney and Arkansas Valley banker in the race this year.

However, Chenoweth did not mention Evans or Democrats in his two major appearances in town this week. Instead he jabbed at the Supreme Court and said its decisions are the issues.

Both Chenoweth and Evans are concentrating much of their energy on El Paso County and the seven new eastern counties added to the Congressional District by the reapportionment earlier this year.

Chenoweth has always taken El Paso County and depends upon his winning margin here to help overcome any poor showings in other counties in the district.

The Democratic candidates generally have figured they have to split this country or hold Chenoweth to a thin margin if they are to win.

How each of the two candidates goes about trying to take this county will be one of the more interesting chapters in the book on this year's campaign.

Monday, Chenoweth officially opened his campaign when he spoke at the Republican Women's Roundtable, and Tuesday noon he spoke at the meeting of the East Side Rotary Club at the Red Carpet.

Chenoweth pointed out that he has introduced resolutions into the House of Representatives on both issues, each resolution asking for an amendment to the U.S. Constitution that would nullify the Supreme Court decision involved.

Referring to the reapportion-

Rainy Weather Noted in Many Areas of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy rainfall covered a wide band from northern Alabama to new Jersey today.

For a vast area in eastern and southern sections of the nation it was the third day of rainy weather. Much of the downpour splattered a sector within 100 to 200 hundred miles of a stationary front stretching from the west Gulf to Delaware.

Millville, N.J., measured 2.06 inches of rain and Atlantic City recorded 1-4.3 inches.

The Weather Bureau warned that all interests along the eastern Gulf coast should keep in touch with latest advisories concerning tropical storm Hilda which was centered Tuesday night 500 miles south of Panama City, Fla.

The cool Pacific Northwest also had some rain, but it was fair in the remainder of the western states and most of the central states. Temperatures ranged from the 30s in Maine and the northern Great Lakes region to the low 80s in southern Florida.

Married, Single Deacons Given Council Approval

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council voted approval today to two historic measures — the recognition of shared authority between Pope and bishops, and the creation of a permanent body of married and single deacons.

The approval of the measures came in an over-all vote on the third chapter of the council schema "de ecclesia," on the nature of the Church. The council voted on individual clauses over the past several days.

By today's vote in a council working session in St. Peter's, the assembly established its final text of the chapter.

However, it is still not a full-fledged council decree.

Probers Blast 'Stagnant' Agriculture Bureau in Phony Estes Cotton Deals

By W.B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Investigations subcommittee, reporting on its two-year-old probe of Billie Sol Estes, criticized today what it called "disinterest and stagnation" in the Agriculture Department's handling of the Texas wheeler-dealer's phony cotton deals.

The report said there were many events in the Pecos, Tex., financier's cotton acreage allotment deals "which would have served as a warning to a vigilant organization."

But it said that once Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman was notified of the situation, the department took prompt action to halt Estes' scheming.

Estes currently is free under bond while appealing state and federal convictions for fraud involving his dealings with liquid fertilizer.

The subcommittee's report did not charge that favoritism was given Estes by department officials.

But — in separate views — two Republican members of the subcommittee, Sens. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, contended that "the free-wheeling, gift-giving Billie Sol Estes, received favoritism on the county level, state level, and in the U.S. Department of agriculture."

Curtis and Mundt said the department was "not only inept in its efforts to cope" with Estes but "in many instances it was actually a companion to this fraud through the actions, or failure to act, of its officials in high office."

The subcommittee that conducted the investigation two years ago agreed on the basic report. But additional statements were filed by Mundt and Curtis, by Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and by Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and Edmund, D-Maine.

NORAD to Host Brazilian War College Group

Eighty members of the Brazilian National War College will watch the "deterrence through strength" forces of the U.S. Strategic Air Command and the North American Air Defense Command at work during October.

The visit to the two major war - deterrent military commands located on the North American continent will be the highlight of a three - week tour of U.S. military installations.

The tour of the United States is an annual one for the members of the Brazilian War College and is made so that the students may orient themselves on the United States and its place in the free world military posture.

Headed by Adm. Luis Teixeira Martini, President of the Brazilian War College, the group will arrive at Peterson Field here October 8th, during the late afternoon.

After a short visit to the local Air Force Academy on Friday, the party will meet with Royal Canadian Air Force Air Marshal C. R. Dunlap who will be their host during the Colorado Springs portion of the visit. The NORAD deputy commander in chief will host a luncheon for the group that same day.

During a later trip to the NORAD combat operations center, the Brazilians will watch Canadian and United States personnel working side by side toward the common goal of protecting any part of the American continent from aerospace attack.

They will be briefed by the NORAD staff on the position of aerospace defense in relation to deterrence. They will see the teamwork effort by NORAD and SAC to deter was through strength.

Members of the NORAD staff will explain how the NORAD component services representing the U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force and the Royal Canadian Air Force work together while "serving NORAD."

The NORAD contribution to the deterrent effort by giving the United States and Canada the chance and ability to survive any all-out attack on their countries, regardless of casualties, will be depicted in detail for the visiting Brazilian students.

A late afternoon departure from Colorado Springs for San Diego, Calif., where they will visit the North Island Naval Air Station there is presently scheduled.

Council Dispute Continues on Jewish Question

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY, (AP) — Fear that the original Vatican Ecumenical Council declaration of the Jews might have led to a future interpretation that Christ was not God caused it to be revised, an informed source said today.

The source, close to the council directorate of cardinals, said the council coordinating commission planned when it met during the summer to retain the original reference to Jewish non-Aculpability for deicide, or God-killing.

"But a theologian pointed out a potential hidden danger in the seven-word phrase: 'The Jews are not guilty of deicide,' and the refrence was stricken out," the source said.

"The theological expert explained to the commission that that single statement, while clear in meaning today, could possibly be seen out of context a 100 years from now as showing that the Vatican Council declared that Christ was not God."

In other words, the source explained, future emphasis might shift from the word "Jews" and to the word "deicide" in such a way that it would seem the 1964 council had said Christ was not God.

The new version now before the council says instead: "One should be careful not to attribute to the Jews of our time what was committed during the passion of Christ."

The source did not explain why the coordinating commission decided to restrict the declaration's absolution to "Jews of our time" rather than extending it to the Jewish people as a whole at the time of the crucifixion. This and not the omission of the word deicide is the crux of the controversy which the declaration has generated.

Debate on the revised version opened Monday with cardinals from the United States, Canada and Western Europe urging restoration of the original wording. Five Middle East patriarchs opposed any dclaration on the Jews, contending that it would make trouble for the Church in their area.

A spokesman for the christian Unity Secretariat, which wrote the original text, said Monday night he thought there "is more than a slight possibility" that the original wording will be restored.

Haile Selassie Signs Peace Communique

The communique added:

"Both sides pronounced their resolution to continue to support the fight for the removal of the last remnants of colonialism. They denounced the South African government's policy of apartheid and racial discrimination as incompatible with basic human rights and the principles of the charter of the United Nations."

The Romanian News Agency said Gheorghiu-Dej accepted an invitation to visit Ethiopia. The date of the visit was not announced.

Kidnapers Release Boy Near Paris

PARIS (AP) — Kidnapers grabbed a 10-year-old farm boy on a roadside 26 miles southeast of Paris Monday but released him when they found out his parents had little money.

Police said a man grabbed Georges Roger near Melum as the boy's tenant farmer father watched helplessly from a field. Two men and a woman drove off with Georges.

The boy said the kidnapers released him after he told them his family didn't own many animals.

Police are still searching for the abductors of Christine Guillon, 6, her brother Patrick, 5, and Joel Biet, 5. A man and a woman picked them up Sept. 21 near Poitiers and abandoned them unharmed last Friday near Bordeaux.

Driver Injured As Loaded Truck Crashes Tuesday

A truck loaded with between nine and ten tons of rock went out of control Tuesday and plunged over a 60 foot embankment at the Colorado Lime Co. quarry, the Sheriff's office reported.

Val C. Stizman, driver of the truck, leaped out of the cab just as the truck went over the embankment, according to a Lime Co. spokesman. Stizman, of 421 Marquette Dr., suffered severe head injuries and multiple bruises and was taken to Penrose Hospital.

Sheriff's deputy Robert O. Walters said the heavily-loaded truck was traveling downhill when Stizman lost control on a sharp curve. He apparently applied the brakes but they couldn't hold the vehicle, and skid marks were estimated at 150 to 200 feet. Stizman then tried to turn the truck into a bank, but was unable to do so, and it plunged over the embankment.

The truck was a total loss, Deputy Walters said.

Teenager Has Mad-on; Smashes Three Windows

A 16-year old boy who "got mad" after his drivers license was revoked and smashed three windows, was taken to Zebulon Pike Center Tuesday, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Lee Quein and Dave Sturgeon, the youth returned home from school to find a letter revoking his license. The boy's mother told the officers that he lost his temper, smashed two windows in his home, and one out of his car.

Quein and Sturgeon found him in a telephone booth but when they asked him to come out, he put his foot against the door and said, "Come in and get me." Force had to be used to remove him from the booth and the youth "became very belligerent" and wanted to fight the deputies. The officers said he smelled of alcohol but refused to tell them where he got it.

Fastest 'Manned Missile' May Be Given to NORAD

range and altitude performance it was capable of specialized nuclear strike missions. This was immediately denied by defense officials in Washington.

However, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara said in March of this year that "The A-11 is an interceptor aircraft and it is being developed as such. Hopefully we can have multi-use aircraft evolve from single-purpose designs."

When the announcement was made, the administration was struggling to gain approval to spend some $40 million to develop a manned interceptor for the aerospace system and NORAD.

This was followed by disclosures in aviation publications which said such an aircraft had been under development since 1959 — when the Air Force discontinued work on the F-108.

Today the plane was unveiled at Edwards AFB. It was developed by Lockheed which is also developing the RS71. No details on the RS71 have been released but it is known to carry cameras and electronic gear designed to scan 1,000 square miles a minute at altitudes beyond the reach of most ground-based rockets.

Also being tested at Edwards is the XB70S superbomber which ran into trouble on its intial flight Sept. 21 but is scheduled to be tested again Thursday.

The YF12A, which may find its way into the NORAD armory, flies 1½ times as fast as a 16-inch artillery shell and could set new world speed records with one engine shut down.

If assigned to NORAD, it could give the command a long-range aircraft capable of speeding to the missile-launch point of stand-off bombers, blasting them out of the air before they can fire their missiles.

on any other issues until agreement on the work gang size had been reached. The employers contend that modern methods of handling cargo require even less than 17 men in a work gang.

The New York Shipping Association represents more than 150 shipping and stevedoring companies.

Assistant Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, head of the presidential panel, called the association's action "a very major effort to conclude an agreement" on the basis of the panel's recommendations "with certain modifications."

Reynolds added: "We regret that management's agreement" to accept the panel report "failed to provide the basis for settlement."

As the talks were adjourned at 2:30 a.m. until 10 a.m., Reynolds said: "We will try again. It is our intention to get from the union its position on all aspects of the contract, just as we did with management."

Contracts agreed on here to cover longshoremen from Maine to Norfolk, Va., traditionally set the pattern for South Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

The modifications in the recommendations made by the employers were not explained by Reynolds.

Shipping companies have rushed cargo loading and advanced sailing dates to get their ships at sea before the strike deadline. Forty-five ships are scheduled to sail today before midnight.

If the longshoremen strike, President Johnson could act under the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act to get a federal court injunction sending the men back to work for an 80-day cooling-off period while negotiations continue.

Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce. Present were representatives of all the major shopping areas within city limits.

Chamber officials said that the meeting in their offices did not mean that the Chamber was against the sales tax. "Our offices are always open for our members to hold meetings," said Clay Banta, C of C secretary.

At the organizational meeting it was decided "in mass" to oppose the proposed city sales tax," said Robert Hibbard, president of the Downtown Merchants Association.

A sales tax is an additional tax burden on the already overburdened American consumer, said Hibbard.

He termed the tax discriminatory and regressive and one which harms the working man and old age pensioner and "the little guy in any walk of life" who must spend every dollar he earns to sustain his standard of living. "Such a sales tax is an added burden to him."

Norton Bain, a director of the Downtown Merchants, said a city sales tax would drive business out of the city to Knob Hill, Ivywild, Security, Widefield, Manitou Springs, the 8th Street Shopping Center, Southgate Shopping Center and other shopping areas.

"The committee felt these areas would have a very definite competitive advantage in not having to charge a city sales tax," Bain said, following the meeting in the Chamber offices.

Members of the anti-sales tax committee are Hibbard, of Hibbard & Co. Department Store; Bain, of Bain's Clothing Store; Duane Graham, assistant to the manager of Montgomery Ward and Co.; and Joe Pieper, of Pieper's Rexall Drugs.

Biery's sales tax proposal drew its first public fire Saturday morning during a panel discussion at Colorado College on financing local government, sponsored by the Colorado Springs Charter Association.

Protests then were voiced by Bain and a CC professor.

The professor, Dr. E. Darnell Rucker of the philosophy department, said: "I think a sales tax hits those people least able to pay a tax. The people on the bottom rung of the economic ladder are going to have the hardest time." This was almost the same observation that Hibbard made when the "Consumers Against Sales Tax" was formed last Tuesday.

requirements of employers hired from relief rolsl:

1. That adequate sanitary facilities and other acceptable employment conditions be provided.
2. That the minimum wage be at least $1.25.
3. That, if possible, steady employment should be provided.
4. Adequate transportation shall be provided to the farms.
5. Recipients of public assistance will not be required to work under unusual circumstances, such as illness or other difficult conditions in their families.

William Gilbert, director of the AFL-CIO Organizing Committee for Los Angeles and Orange counties, demanded that the workers get "decent, guaranteed, minimum hourly, daily and weekly wages."

He said that under present systems workers get $1 an hour and must pay $1.75 daily for board in places too distant for daily commuting. This means the worker's net pay could be as little as $31.25 a week, he said.

J.W. Wedemeyer, director of the State Department of Social Welfare, said the program "sounds legal," but said he would have to study it before making a full commitment.

Ellis P. Murphy, director of the county's bureau of public assistance, estimated that 6,000 to 7,000 men would be needed to work in citrus orchards and in truck garden fields when the bracero plan ends.

New Risks Seen if Red China Explodes A-Bomb

sion of the war beyond South Viet Nam is not a course of action which the United States wants but one which "could be forced upon us by the increased external pressures of the Communists," including a rising scale of infiltration.

In giving that new warning that the war might be expanded because of Communist actions, Bundy appeared to strike a note in conflict with the tone of a statement made about the same time by President Johnson during his campaign trip around New England.

"I want to be very cautious," Johnson said, "in dropping bombs that would involve our boys in Asia with 700 million Chinese. We're not going north and drop bombs at this stage of the game and we're not going south and run out and let the Commies take over."

State Department officials insisted that there was no real conflict in the substance of what Johnson said and what Bundy said. They declared Johnson was talking about U.S. policy toward the war as it stands in present circumstances — that is without a step-up in Communist offensive operations — and Bundy was warning about what would happen if the circumstances changed.

As for the larger questions of how to try to bring the war to a conclusion, no major U. S. policy changes are expected until after the November election. Then there may be some changes at least of emphasis.

The key to such possible changes lies in Bundy's statement that the United States seeks to "induce" the Communists to stop the war in South Viet Nam. It is in this sense that the United States aims at a limited victory in the conflict.

The only apparent answer to the problem of how to induce the North Vietnamese and Red Chinese to call off their support for the guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam lies in putting them under actual or threatened military pressures from U.S. power. That is a major reason why there has been so much talk this year of bombings in North Viet Nam.

Red China's explosion of a nuclear test device, as speculatively forecast Tuesday by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, would not change the military balance which exists in Southeast Asia. The Chinese Communists are still a good many years away from becoming a nuclear power in the judgment of the best informed authorities here.

But the mere achievement of a nuclear explosion could engender a cocky, confident attitude on the part of the Communist leadership which would make them much harder to induce to call off their support for the Red guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Communists' penchant for unveiling new developments on their anniversaries. Other estimates ranged into 1965.

Chinese success in building an Chinees success in building an atomic bomb has been predicted for years, an unusual statement by Secretary of State Dean Rusk Tuesday disclosed a recent conclusion by U.S. strategists that Peking's preparations have reached the point where it can fire its nuclear device at any time.

U.S. sources declined to specify what new intelligence data has convinced them that the Chinese Reds have arrived at the edge of an atomic blast.

But having reached this conclusion, it was said, the State Department put out Rusk's statement as a way of toning down the reverberations from a Chinese nuclear explosion when it does come.

Rusk said China's first atomic shot "might occur in the near future" and if so, "we shall know about it and will make the information public."

"The United States," he added, "has fully anticipated the possibility of Peking's entry into the nuclear weapons field and has taken it into full account in determining our military posture and our own nuclear weapons program."

U.S. sources made these points:

—The initial nuclear test would still leave Red China a long way to go before achieving a first-class nuclear arsenal.

By exploding a bomb now, Peking would use up most of its present atomic fuel supply. Its fuel manufacturing capability is limited and years more would be needed to build up a stockpile. The Chinese have yet to develop the sophisticated rockets which an atomic power nation needs to deliver its warheads.

—Peking could use its early atomic development for propaganda and nuclear blackmail against non-atomic Asian neighbors.

—China's first nuclear explosion may be relatively small — the first U.S. test in 1945 was 19 kilotons — and is expected to take place above ground.

—U.S. monitors are confident they can spot a Chinese explosion above ground. How long after a Chinese explosion the U.S. announcement of it would come depends on how much cross checking of the monitoring information is required.

—Unless the U.S. monitors find evidence that Peking has come up with an important new development in the atomic art, the first Chinese explosion is not likely to prompt a U.S. withdrawal from the test-ban treaty. The treaty allows signatories to pull out upon three months notice if there have been "extraordinary events" which jeopardize its "supreme interests."

During the test-ban negotiations last year, the East-West negotiators knew that France was testing and expected Red China would. Thus there was an implication that the signers would not withdraw because of anticipated tests by either of two holdouts.

—The Soviets say their nuclear assistance to Communist China was only in peaceful uses. Whether this is true is not known by U.S. authorities. But it is confirmed that the Russians pulled their atomic technicians out of China in 1959-60.

Married, Single Deacons Given Council Approval

have not yet been approved by the council. Once they are voted in working session, the council must meet in public session with the Pope and cast one last ballot on the entire schema.

But that last public session is largely a formality for the promulgation of the schema as a decree.

The vote on the third chapter of "de ecclesia" was divided into two parts. First the council fathers voted on the nature of the episcopacy, including the concept of collegiality, or the sharing of bishops as a body with the Pope in authority over the Roman Catholic Church.

The vote on the nature of the episcopacy was 1,624 in favor, 567 in favor but with reservations, and 42 against. On the diaconate, the vote was 1,704 in favor, 481 in favor with reservations, and 53 against.

In both cases two-thirds majorities of 1,492 were required. Both votes exceeded this number, even without the support of those voting with reservations.

The council schedule called for resumption of a controversial debate on the sources of divine revelation. Argument about the roles of tradition and scripture became so bitter at the first session in 1962 that the late Pope John XXIII intervened personally.

The concept of shared papal-episcopal power has been described by Pope Paul VI as the decisive issue before the council.

It has implications for Christian unity in that it completes the doctrine of papal primacy proclaimed by the first Vatican Ecumenical Council in 1870. Many Protestants felt that too much emphasis had been put on papal authority.

Pope Paul stressed, as he opened the council session Sept. 14, that the bishops must decide how they share power with him. But He added that the sharing would not lessen either papal primacy or papal infallibility in official pronouncements on matters of Christian faith or morals.

The acceptance of the concept could lead to the establishment of a senate of bishops to aid the Pope in Church government.

Progressive prelates generally supported collegiality. Many conservatives expressed fear that it could weaken the Pope's primacy and therefore the Church itself.

Chenoweth Blasts Prayer, Apportionment Decisions

ment decision, Chenoweth told the Rotarians:

"There is something chilling about a sovereign state asking a three-man panel of judges if the apportionment plan is alright."

He was referring to the three U.S. district judges who approved the Colorado apportionment plans last summer after the Supreme Court decision struck down the earlier apportionment.

Chenoweth said, "There was lots of opposition — much bitter resentment in Congress against that decision."

"I can not sit idly by and let the Supreme Court go ahead and make such decisions," he said.

Chenoweth said the Supreme Court has gone far beyond its constitutional authority to interpret laws made by Congress. "It is writing laws," he said.

He said it was not right when "Five men can sit on the Supreme Court bench and overrule what the people and Congress have voted for."

The Supreme Court has taken jurisdiction for apportionment away from the states by its decision, he said.

"Another issue," said Chenoweth, "is prayer and the Bible."

"Now Congress has a chaplain. We have prayers every day when we open Congress. And the Supreme Court crier, every time the court opens, says, 'God save this honorable court.'"

"The Supreme Court says that students cannot hear God mentioned in the classroom," he said. Chenoweth pointed out that 129 resolutions have been introduced in Congress asking for action to overrule thqt Supreme Court decision.

"There are many rumors," said Chenoweth, "that they are going to take the chaplains out of the Army and Navy, that they are going to take 'under God' out of the Pledge of Allegiance, and take 'In God We Trust' off the money. I don't know what will happen."

"When I was a boy, no one ever objected to the Lord's Prayer, but now there are people seeking to remove God from our life."

"Children can't even thank God, even on Thanksgiving, and that's absurd," said the congressman.

Chenoweth discussed Civil Rights only briefly and did not express an opinion.

Chenoweth pointed out that he voted against the Trade Expansion Act and that he has worked in Congress to protect the local beef industry.

A recent restriction on imported beef was the "first break in the protection of Colorado cattlemen for a long time," he said.

Chenoweth said that he favored keeping a strong national defense policy. "The armed forces are ready to respond to any call."

He also pointed out that Congress passed a resolution to support President Johnson in U.S. retaliatory action taken earlier this year in the Gulf of Tonkin against North Viet Nam.

The congressman pointed out that Colorado Springs is a major defense area:

— About $40 million more will be spent to enlarge the Air Force Academy.

— Ft. Carson will be enlarged by about 80,000 acres.

— Expansion work is going on at Peterson Field.

Chances Appear Slim for Quick GM Settlement

getting some quarter-million workers back on the assembly lines was more than 17,000 local at-the-plant demands covering such subjects as company-furnished coveralls, locker rooms and parking lots.

The UAW called the strike last Friday despite virtual agreement on an economc package similar to one already accepted by the union from GM's chief competitors — Ford and Chrysler.

It calls for higher pensions as an early retirement incentive, longer vacations, additional holidays, increased wages and other improvements.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said the dispute originally was over non-economic national issues and the "human issue of human beings" in GM plants. These included working conditions, production quotas, disciplinary procedures and union representation.

Now that the strike is under way, Reuther indicated it would be difficult to get the workers off the picket lines until the local demands are resolved.

Although some minor progress has been reported at the bargaining table, both sides agreed that discussions on local issues were moving lowly.

"I hope the tempo will step up as the week progresses," said Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president heading the company's bargaining team.

"To bring about a settlement, things will have to move much faster than they are moving now," Reuther agreed in a separate news conference.

Utilizing a selective strike strategy, the UAW ordered GM workers to remain on the job at factories which turn out parts and accessories purchased from GM by its competitors.

Four Cars Stripped In Parking Lot

An employe of Allied Transmission, of 22 W. Las Vegas St., told police that four cars belonging to customers had been stripped of their wheels and tires between Friday and Tuesday. Value of the stolen goods was estimated at $290, police said.

Driver Gets Jail, Fine In City Court

On a recommendation Tuesday by Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac, Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher imposed a 30-day jail sentence on John Collins, 20, 1007 W. Pikes Peak Ave.

Judge Asher found Collins guilty of reckless driving and imposed the jail sentence. On his guilty plea to a charge of careless driving, levied a $25 fine.

In reviewing Collins' record the judge noted that since 1961, the youth had been charged with more than a dozen traffic violations and had been involved in a number of accidents.

In accepting Isaac's recommendation, Judge Asher told Collins the jail sentence would serve "to protect the citizens of Colorado Springs" for a while from his incompetent driving.

On a previous speeding charge, to which Collins was found guilty, the judge had suspended $25 of the fine on condition the youth attend the traffic course held this month in the El Paso County Court House. However, Collins had already been cited for the recent charges before the lecture took place.

In a companion case involving drag racing, Robert Bramble, 18, Ft. Carson, pleaded guilty, and Mrs. Valerie Brown, 18, 3018 W. Pikes Peak Ave., was found guilty by the judge. Mrs. Brown was represented by attorney George Silvola.

The two received fines of $100 each and had their rights to drive in the city suspended for 30 days. Judge Asher said $25 on each fine would be suspended if the soldier and Mrs. Brown would attend the traffic lecture Oct. 14.

Gloria Arnold, 41, 2508 Bennett Ave., was fined $100 on her guilty plea to reckless driving, and had her right to drive in the city suspended for 20 days. Judge Asher also suspended $25 if she attends the traffic course.

Richard Brumfield, 24, Monte Vista, was found guilty of careless driving and was fined $25. A $10 fine was levied against Gerald Trussell, 44, 1004 North Swope Ave., who was found guilty of failing to yield the right of way.

On Isaac's motion, the judge dismissed a careles riving charge against Joan McNeil, 28, Ft. Carson, for insufficient evidence.

Gary Ostrowski, 17, 926 Sunset St., was fined $35 on a careless driving charge, to which he had entered a guilty plea. A writ of execution was ordered issued as the youth did not appear in court.

Dale Williams, 17, 2404 Magellan St., was fined $50 on his guilty plea to reckless driving. He also had his right to drive in the city suspended for 30 days. Half of the fine will be suspended if the youth attends the traffic lecture.

Patrick Muldoon, 18, and Robert Shipley, 25, both of Ft. Carson, were found guilty of riotous conduct and each received fines of $50. Shipley was found guilty of injury to private property and was fined $25.

Arthur Marez, 36, of Manzanola, pleaded guilty to being drunk and was fined $25.

Boy Picked Up After Scooter Theft

Douglas D. Sloan, of 107 N. Logan Ave., told police he left his scooter parked outside a building at 234 N. Tejon St. at 10 a.m. Tuesday. When he returned at 12:10 p.m. the bike was gone.

At 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, police picked up a 14 year old youth who admitted having abandoned the scooter in the 1900 block of West Pikes Peak Avenue. The youth named four other 14 year olds as being involved in the theft.

When police questioned three of the youths, they admitted that one of them had "hotwired" the scooter and had taken it into the foothills where they had all taken turns riding it. Then two of the boys had decided to take it downtown, and had been going down Pikes Peak Avenue when they bumped into the rear of a car. They then abandoned the scooter and ran, and police apprehended one of them.

The scooter was undamaged police said, and the boys were released into the custody of their parents.

NO PLACE TO GO

NEW YORK (UPI) — Unless action is taken to prevent it, by the year 2000 the U.S. population will have reached 350 million and the number of cars will have risen from the present 70 million to 155 million, predicts Robert C. Cook, of the Population Reference Bureau.

What then, of the possibilities for outdoor recreation, the demand for which is expected by that time to have tripled? Where can people go in all those cars to be alone? With more leisure, more money, more mobility, he suggests, we would also have more people underfoot, and a harder time finding a place to one's self.

Fire-Gutted Land Will Be Reseeded

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Forestry workers take on a king-size gardening job today — reseeding 78,000 mountainous acres of watershed burned in the disastrous 8-day Santa Barbara brush fire.

More than 2,000 firefighters remained on the lines today, mopping up mile-high trouble spots in remote back country.

Flood control officials fear a massive ooze of mud will develop if the denuded hills are not supplied with ground cover before it rains.

The U.S. Forest Service said it hoped to completely contain the blaze by 10 a.m. Wednesday. Full control was predicted for 6 p.m. Thursday.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., told Santa Barbara County supervisors Monday he will seek $860,000 in emergency funds to build 10 debris basins in the burned area.

Eleven of the 46 men injured in the blaze still were hospitalized with burns, sprains or cuts. One fireman was killed and 78 homes burned in Santa Barbara and suburban Montecito.

Moscow Papers Print Brief Warren Report

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow papers that did not publish Monday carried brief reports today of the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The Soviet news agency Tass account, printed in varying lengths, emphasized the commission's finding that Lee Oswald, the assassin, was not a member of a Communist plot.

The papers gave prominent play to skeptical reactions in the West — especially to British Lord Russell's rejection of the report.

President Makes 2,500-Mile SAC Round Trip

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, with an assist from the secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has underscored what he calls the "intimate relation" between this country's massive missile-bomber strength and the security of Europe.

This obviously was a major purpose of a 2,500-mile round trip flight Tuesday by Johnson and Manlio Brosio, NATO's new secretary-general, to the headquarters of the Strategic Air Command near Omaha, Neb.

Neither Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, nor French President Charles de Gaulle were mentioned in Johnson's public statements at SAC headquarters. But both men figuratively loomed in the background.

Goldwater has claimed the United States is downgrading the North Atlantic alliance. De Gaulle, favoring a more independent course for Europe, has guestioned whether in a showdown the United States would honor its pledge to defend Western Europe.

While at Offutt Air Force Base, Johnson did not neglect the opportunity to shake hands with some potential voters and to make a pitch for the service vote by reminding a crowd of airmen and their families that he had sponsored a military pay raise this year.

Johnson, Brosio and a group of high-ranging civilian and military officials received a nearly two-hour secret briefing in the SAC command post which extends three stories underground.

Gen. Thomas S. Power, commander in chief of SAC, and members of the joint strategic target planning staff gave the blue ribbon group a rundown on the readiness of SAC's 1,100 long-range bombers and more than 800 intercontinental ballistic missiles to strike at any enemy which might assault the Atlantic community.

When it was over, Johnson stood in brilliant floodlights with SAC headquarters as a backdrop and said he and Brosio "have gained fresh understanding of the intimate relation between the strategic strength of the United States and the defense of he Norh Atlantic alliance."

"We have learned again what we already knew, that the strength and the skill of this command are absolutely vital to the peace of the Atlantic world," the President said. "We recognize that the mission of this command is peace."

Brosio said he had seen SAC's contribution "to the defense not only of the United States, but also of Europe." He called this contribution "absolutely indispensable and decisive."

"That convinces me and convinces all Europeans, I think, of the absolute necessity of continuing the close links which tie us in our essential Atlantic alliance," said Brosio, a former Italian ambassador to the United States.

Johnson headed for SAC headquarters barely 12 hours after rturning to the White House from a hectic swing through New England.

If he was weary — and sometimes his voice seemed to indicate he was — Johnson didn't let that stop him from shaking hands with some of the thousands who gathered beyond a low picket fence to see him arrive.

Johnson took another stroll past crowds massed along the fence near his plane, this time to see him off. Again he reached out with both hands, and in a brief farewell talk said "I enjoyed shaking hands with some of you."

News Correspondent Banned by Network

NEW YORK (AP) — Lisa Howard, a news correspondent for the American Broadcasting Co., had been relieved of all her assignments by the network until the end of the political campaign.

The network said Tuesday that Miss Howard had "chosen to participate publicly in partisan political activities contrary to the long-established ABC news policy."

Miss Howard, whose ABC duties included a daily five-minute news show, is a member of a group of New York Democrats campaigning for the reelection of Sen. Kenneth Keating, a Republican, who is opposed by former Atty Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Humphrey Gets Hearing in Deep South

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

TIFTON, Ga. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey at least received a hearing in his first campaign foray into the Deep South.

The Democratic vice-presidential candidate marched through Georgia Tuesday from the rich farming communities in the South, to Athens and Atlanta in the northern part of the state. He shook the political peach trees and stirred considerable election interest.

The crowds turned out. Their reactions varied, but there was no question that they heard Humphrey. It was one of the most interesting experiments in the otherwise lacklustre 1364 campaign.

His tour, however, only deepens the uncertainty as to how Georgia will vote in the presidential election in November. Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee, is strong here. The civil rights bill, which Humphrey helped enact into law, is a red-hot issue.

Countless placards in the audiences told Humphrey he was in "Goldwater country." He heard booing and heckling.

He also got applause and some laughs. At one point, Humphrey opened his arms wide, as though to embrace the crowd, and said, "They told me I wouldn't dare come here but I'm here and we're getting along just fine."

He started his day in Moultrie, a pretty little community in the heart of the pecan, peanut and cotton country. Only a few hundred people were waiting in front of the courthouse — and most of these appeared to be vociferous Goldwater supporters.

They began booing when he rose to speak. Humphrey, with his apparently unquenchable good humor, thanked them for the "warm welcome." For a time, it appeared that he might not be able to speak at all.

He got in a few licks when the noise died away. He reminded his listeners that Georgia had "never left the Democratic party." (cheers). He said, "The Republicans never lifted a finger to help the South." (bigger cheers.)

Then he went on to Tifton, 28 miles away. Some 2,000 to 3,000 persons were waiting there on a high school football field.

The temperature was hovering around 90 and a merciless sun beat down. Humphrey spoke for about 30 minutes.

At one point, as Humphrey recalled depressed farm prices under a GOP administration, a man yelled, "But we had freedom then." Persons standing close to him clapped.

When Humphrey finished, people crowded around to shake his hand and get autographs. In spite of the crushing heat, a "public press conference" followed. For another 15 to 20 minutes, Humphrey fielded questions. One was about the civil rights bill. "I voted for the civil rights act and I make no apology," he said.

He had a good reception at the University of Georgia later, and he spoke at a fund raising dinner in Atlanta Tuesday night, after attracting clusters of people at the airport and at a downtown hotel.

Did he change any votes?

President Cannot Borrow Dancer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Goeran Gentele, director of Sweden's Royal Opera, says President Johnsin wants to borrow ballet dancer Erik Bruhn for a White House performance Oct. 5, but he won't let Bruhn go.

"The (U.S.) Embassy has called me four or five times and I have also been contacted by the Swedish foreign ministry," Gentele said Tuesday. "But I think it is more important to us that Erik Bruhn stays here. It is our responsibility toward Swedish opera lovers to keep him there."

In Washington, a White House spokesman said the Harkness Ballet of the Rebekah Harkness Foundation will perform there Oct. 5 after a state dinner for President Diosdado Macapogal of the Philippines.

Taras Shevchenko was banished to Central Asia by Imperial Russia and died in 1861. He has been called the "Abraham Lincoln of the Ukraine."

Poor Posture Is Blamed for Strain on Eyes

By MARGERY McELHENY

The student who writes with his head resting on his arm, or reads sprawled out on a sofa with his face buried in the page, is often reading through his own shadow on the printed page.

The experts agree that poor posture not only punishes eyes with strain and tension, but muscle fatigue adds to a shorter interest span, and reduces the ability to concentrate.

Doctors and educators insist on a few "musts" for good study habits, including:

—The need for good light on the page, eighter daylight or adequate artificial light for writing and reading. Light should be over the shoulder and high enough to prevent glare on the page.

—A 75-watt bulb for lamps, or a 150-watt frosted bulb with a drum shade that provides both direct light downward on the print and also upward diffused general lighting.

—A window shade to control glare from bright sunshine.

—A place away from television, radio and family distractions. A desk in a quiet room is ideal, providing it has good tween eyes and printed page or light. An average distance between eyes and printed page or notebook is about 14-18 inches.

A few guides also help to prevent "tired eyes."

—A break of a few moments away from the printed page, with eyes looking far away at a distant view of grass or trees or traffic will rest the eyes temporarily.

—If light is poor, change the bulb to a 75-watt or a 150-watt frosted bulb.

—If a student has eye fatigue, use a few drops of eye lotion for quick relief.

—It is a good idea to walk around the room to stretch larger muscles, or go to the refrigerator for a cool drink or a piece of fruit.

Best of all, good posture helps to build better study habits. Good lighting without glare can promote longer interest span. Taking a break to relieve the monotony also helps add up to a more productive study period.

Lighting should be planned to serve three different needs, including general lighting, area lighting and close work.

SLUMBER TIP

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI) — If it's been 10 years since you bought your last mattress, it may be time to go shopping for a new one. Tips for the best value: shop at a reputable store; buy the best you can; test several mattresses by stretching out on them; make sure ticking is closely woven; read the label to see what's inside the mattress.

The tips, from Jones Laughlin Steel, were coupled with a suggestion that you consider a king - size bed for plenty of stretching and turning room.

Sukarno to Seek New Armament From Reds

MOSCOW (AP) — President Sukarno of Indonesia arrived in Moscow today presumably to ask Premier Khrushchev for more arms to use in his campaign against Malaysia.

Khrushchev headed the welcoming crowd at the airport.

Indonesia's defense minister, Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, come from Jakarta three days ago to participate in the talks. Sukarno has been in Vienna for medical treatment and is going on to Cairo for the opening Oct. 5 of the conference of nonaligned nations.

'Enemy Agent' Infiltrates Barry's Train

ABOARD GOLDWATER TRAIN (AP) — An "enemy agent" managed to infiltrate Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign train as it rolled through Ohio Tuesday but didn't go undetected for long.

The agent was a pretty miss of 23 years who identified herself as Moira O'Connor of New York.

The Republican presidential nominee's press secretary, Paul F. Wagner, said Miss O'Connor managed to infiltrate the Goldwater forces apparently by signing aboard the train as a reporter.

Assistant press secretary Vic Gold saw a trail of mimeographed broadsides called "The Whistle Stop" listing Midwestern newspapers that have declared themselves opposed to Goldwater.

The broadsides were placed in front of each compartment of the 18-car train.

Gold strolled along, picking up each broadside, until he caught up with the pretty culprit. Miss O'Connor then was asked to leave the train at Parkersburg, W.Va. She did — suitcase and all.

Republicans then mimeographed their own edition of "The Whistle Stop," which they said was under new, streamlined ownership.

"This isn't the first time the Democrats have missed the train this year," the Republican version said. The Democratic National Committee spent $225 to get their infiltrator aboard, it said, and the money will help finance Goldwater's Midwestern swing.

The Democratic National Committee in Washington said Miss O'Connor has done occasional volunteer work but has no official connection with the committee.

The Color Slide Club resumed meetings at the West Side Library Friday evening, Sept. 25. Oscar Steinhorst showed beautiful slides of a vacation in the Pacific Northwest. The judge for the evening, Herman Harder, of the Pikes Peak Club, selected the following winners, the subject being cloud pictures: Tied for first were "Red Clouds," by Wm. Mason, and "Bright Angel Glory," by Irma Tesker; second place, "Blue and Silver," by Elmer Tesker; third place, "Heaven's Glow," by Irma Tesker. Honorable mention went to "Hot and Heavy," by Irma Tesker, and "Sky Ridge," by Oscar Steinhorst.

James Didlo returned to Colorado State College at Greeley this week. He is working on his M.A. degree in Counseling Physiology and is also graduate assistant instructor in the physiology department.

Elmer Tesker accompanied Baldwin Burhop of Mequon, Wis., and Lawrence Ofner, of Milwaukee, Wis., on a five-day trip through Utah's colorful interior. They rode a jeep for two days through the newly created Canyon Land National Park, visiting Chesler Park in the Needles Area, and hiked three miles up spectacular Elephant Canyon to Druid Arch, which was featured recently in the National Geographic Magazine. The only person encountered on the jeep trip were the park superintendent and Mr. and Mrs. Ruder of Chipita Park, who were leisurely touring the area in their own four wheel drive Toyota. The President signed the bill only last week to make this 50 square mile area the nation's newest National Park. At present the only access to the park is by horseback, hiking or by four-wheel drive jeep, since the Park has not yet begun the construction of roads and other facilities.

Dr. and Mrs. Jack Carson entertained with a dinner party for Capt. and Mrs. Goodwin, Saturday evening. The Goodwins are moving to Colorado Springs, to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fravel, who have been enjoying a vacation in their summer home, have returned to their home in Kinsley for the winter.

Mrs. Sharon Ernst entertained at a party for her son Mark's fourth birthday Saturday afternoon. The usual party routine was carried out with birthday cake, balloons and games. Connie Pyle and Steven Bost won prizes during the afternoon. The invited guests were: Connie Pyle, Steven and Andy Bost, Erick Anderson, Andy, Darrel and Dennie Heisch, Christopher Goodwin, Dale Bartley and Lesi and Kem Page.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nittman and family, and Mr. and Mrs. George Kaufmann and family were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Ernst Sunday evening.

The Pikes Peak Four Wheel Drive Club enjoyed an outing Sunday. They went up the Rampart Range road and at noon enjoyed an Antelope Barbecue at the Manitou Park. There were about thirty members and guests who enjoyed the dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Christian and family were among the group.

The Womens Club of Cascade will hold a coffee at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth McDowell, Monday, Oct. 12. All Cascade ladies are cordially invited to come. If you are not contacted and wish to come will you please call Mrs. Peterson, telephone 684-9794.

Dr. R. G. Cline and Mr. and Mrs. John Haviland, of Dodge City, Kan., have been here the past weekend closing their house for the winter.

The Board of Directors of Home Owners of Cascade held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth McDowell on Monday evening. The regular business and a discussion on starting Bingo games and other ways of raising money and increasing membership were discussed.

GREEN CHEESE

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Spacemen won't have to go to the moon to find green cheese — it'll be in the rocketship pantry.

And it'll be made from the slimy stuff of stagnant ponds. All it needs to flourish is simulated sunlight and human breath.

It's algae. A single strain has been producing its almost tasteless high protein food since 1961, scientists at Lockheed California Co. said Sunday.

A portion of the rapidly multiplying green cells is harvested daily, and dried into a flour or converted into a green cheese.

The motto "In God We Trust" was originated by Salmon P. Chase, secretary of the treasury, in 1864. It has appeared on all coins minted since then.

Red Viets Deny They Sent Troops to Laos

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam has sent a note to the Laotian government denying its charge that Hanoi introduced troops into Laos, the Hsinhua (New China) news agency reported today.

The North Vietnamese note said U.S. and South Vietnamese authorities "have created false 'proofs'" of the presence of North Vietnamese troops in Laos "to cover up their schemes and acts of intervention in Laos which menace the security" of North Viet Nam.

Food Professor Compiles Table Of Energy Cost

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI)—Sitting and thinking may be exhausting, but it can't match gardening or swimming, dancing or even ironing for burning up unwanted calories.

Frank Konishi, associate professor of food and nutrition at Southern Illinois University, has prepared a table of "energy cost" of various activities. It ranged from 4-10 of one calorie when lying at ease to 10 calories while swimming or running cross country.

One small cola drink (106 calories) will cost 35 minutes of walking, 11 minutes of swimming and 2,650 minutes of just thinking, he said.

To burn up the energy in an icecream soda (255 calories) will require 255 minutes of playing cards, at a calorie per minute, or 64 minutes of golfing, or 26 minutes of trotting.

A piece of cake with fudge icing represents 320 calories and it would take 80 minutes of gardening or 32 minutes of riding a bicycle to absorb it, Konishi said.

Just one martini totals 140 calories, but it can be eliminated from your weight system by washing windows for 70 minutes, ironing for 40½ minutes, or 350 minutes (almost 6 hours) of lying down.

Konishi's "energy cost" chart shows the following calorie absorption per minute: Lying at ease, 0.4; sitting, 0.5; standing, 0.8; playing cards, 1; playing the piano, 1.5; driving a car, 1.8; cleaning windows, 2.0; dressing, 2.5; walking at 3.2 miles per hour, 3; ironing, 3.1; playing drums, 3.1; golfing, 4; gardening, weeding, 4; dancing, foxtrot; 4.2; rhumba, 6; tennis, 6.1; swimming, 10; and running, cross country, 10.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Two police detectives petted their way past two large German shepherd dogs into what they termed one of the largest football bookmaking operations they had ever seen.

Detectives J. R. Weldon and H. S. Wayne said Monday they found the dogs guarding a house surrounded by an eight-foot chain-link fence topped with barbed wire. However, they said the gate was open.

After pacifying the animals the officers entered the house and arrested C D. Young, 44, and his wife, Joan Maxine, 29.

The officers said they seized 20 sheets of betting notations. They said one sheet had bets totaling more than $4,000 with individual bets ranging from $55 to $2,750. The Youngs were charged with operating a lottery.

Hubert Charges Barry Assaults U.S. Community

By HARRY KELLY

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey makes his deepest penetration into the old Confederacy today with the charge that Barry Goldwater's followers are using conservatism to mask "a radical assault upon the very fabric of the American community."

Goldwater, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee said, speaks the language of a nihilist. "And to all men dedicated to the American tradition — whether liberal or conservative — nihilism is the politics of catastrophe."

Humphrey, in his remarks prepared for the University of Georgia, praised the school and extolled Georgia as "that enlightened state which is leading the South toward a new era, both in economic development and in race relations."

Humphrey, a Minnesota liberal who for years has been in the front ranks of those pressing civil rights legislation, has eased a little farther into the South on each campaign sortie — like a bather testing the water temperature before plunging in.

He has gone from Texas into Arkansas and then into Memphis, Tenn., last Saturday. Humphrey and his aides have expressed pleasure at his receptions so far.

The Minnesotan's path today included farm areas in southern Georgia, territory that some observers describe as the state's firmest Goldwater country.

In this atmosphere, the daily Tifton Gazette urged its readers in a front-page editorial Monday to show good manners during Humphrey's visit today.

"Something ugly is happening in Tifton and it needs to be stopped," the Gazette said. "A fear complex is spreading. Since when have we become so narrow that we aren't willing to let the other fellow have his say."

Managing editor James Tucker said the editorial was not inspired by any fear of "rock throwing at Sen. Humphrey but rather a general unfriendliness."

Humphrey, a one-time professor of political science, contended in his university speech that Goldwater has renounced the liberal and conservative consensus that government is "an instrument for facilitating the good life."

He quoted Goldwater as having said "my aim is not to pass laws but to repeal them."

Humphrey declared: "This is not the language of a conservative. It is the language of a nihilist."

PERSONALITY AND DISEASE

Physicians associate certain personality traits with various diseases. These characteristics not only govern the way the individual behaves but also the way his stomach, blood vessels, heart, and other organs react to the ordinary stress of living.

The ulcer personality is said to be evident by the age of 5. Peptic ulcer victims have a certain nervous and physical makeup that creates more acid and pepsin in the stomach.

One of the best descriptions appeared in the Huron Road Hospital Scientific Quarterly. Ccording to the authors, those with peptic ulcers: "Are compulsively perfectionistic. They consider anything which happens or may happen in their life or threat to their security. They tend to double-check and triple-check everything they do, fearing a mistake. They are clean desk people. The failure of an acquaintance to speak to them for any reason may worry them for days. They usually are the best men in their section, yet arrive early and work late . . .What will the boss say? They fail to pay themselves mental wages and are frightened of the new college man though they know their work cold. They are the Catholic in the Protestant town; the country boy in the city. They are the. . .skis, opoluses, and. . . gillottas, working with the Joneses and Smiths. They are the medium-lows trying to get to the high-low area, or the medium-highs trying to attain high-high."

What is said about the ulcer personality could apply to those with migraine headache, coronary thrombosis, or hypertension. Stress is the common denominator and we do not know why it leads to ulcers in some, headache in others, and heart disease in still others.

The alcoholic personality is different in that it borders on immaturity and is more or less in the category of psychoneurosis. These individuals cannot tolerate frustration and tend to act impulsively. They imbibe to escape tension or anxieties. Many have strong feelings of isolation and are unduly sensitive. Their drinking provides a means of self-punishment or of expressing hostility toward individuals or society.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

Narcotic Sale Trial Gets Under Way in Court Here

The trial of Jacob John Martinez, charged with possession and attempted sale of a narcotic drug, got under way in District Court Tuesday afternoon after a jury was selected.

Martinez, 29, 215 E. Las Vegas St., is accused of having marijuana in his possession June 14 and trying to sell it to two employees in a local bar.

Selena Charlton, a bar maid at Duncan's Cotton Club, 25 W. Colorado Ave., testified the defendant came into the bar during the afternoon of June 14 and told her he had "a box with dope in it" which he wanted to sell her. The girl said she would have nothing to do with him and went and spoke to John Rose, the manager. She also added during direct examination in reply to a question put by Deputy District Attorney Jack Roeser that she believed Martinez was drunk.

Roeser got three witneses for the prosecution to testify that the defendant was drunk though "not staggering drunk" as one of them, Police Officer Richard Ballard said.

John Rose, the club's manager took the stand and told the court that Martinez, a complete stranger to him as he was to Miss Charlton, came into his office and pulled out a small match box with some kind of "dry vegetation" which he wanted to sell him. Rose managed to get rid of him and then called the olice.

Police Officer Charles Davis testified he and another officer, Richard Ballard, went to the Cotton Club where they found the defendant seated at the bar. He was taken outside and after searching him a match box containing a "greenweed" was disclosed.

Martinez was conducted to the police department and according to Davis, said he had been walking west on Colorado Avenue when he had found the matchbox and recognized the contents as marijuana. "He said he wanted to make a fast buck," Davis testified, "and took it to a bar to sell it."

Attorney Benjamin Fann who is representing Martinez together with Gordon Cooper, cross-examined Patrolman Ballard who admitted he never obtained any signed statement from the defendant, took no notes during interrogation and that all his testimony was based on memory.

At one point when Fann was cross-examining George Hall, police custodian of property, the presiding judge, Hunter D. Hardeman observed that Fann was "getting pretty argumentative," and Roeser interposed vehemently that "the witnes was being bullied." Judge Hardeman agreed with Roeser and Fann proceeded in a somewhat less hectoring vein.

The court recessed late Tuesday afternoon and reconvened again at 9:30 this morning. It is expected the case will go to the jury later today.

State Mental Health Plan Project Outlined at Meet

An individual is born into a web of parents, peer groups and natural social and psychological pressures, and if his innate mental resources are unequal to coping with the demands made by these factors, he then falls into a net of social, governmental and medical agencies such as the courts, school guidance counselors and mental hospitals.

Such were the opening background remarks of a report on the State Mental Health Planning Project given by Stanley Boucher, A.C.S.W., the assistant director of the project.

Using a series of slides to show how each individual is taken care of by various public and private agencies, Boucher addressed an audience composed of interested professionals and concerned citizens during the one - day mental health workshop on planning for community mental health services, held at Colorado College Tuesday.

Boucher was introduced by David Hamil, the director of the Colorado Department of Institutions. Hamil urged the gathering to inspect the new facilities at the Colorado State Hospital in Pueblo. He said that the new children's wing was designed to handle the increasing numbers of mentally ill children under the age of 16.

Hamil said that the efficiency of the mental health program continues to improve, and that there are now 19 mental health clinics, serving all but the most rural regions. He said that by July, 1965 the committee will be able to present to the people of Colorado a completed and comprehensive workable plan to solve the problems of the mentally ill and their families.

Boucher began his report with the general background data, to explain some terms that are common in the psychologist's and psychiatrist's vocabulary, but which in this specific context would be unfamiliar to a lay audience. He explained the term "prevalence" as meaning the number of people who are mentally ill in a community at a given moment.

Boucher defined mental illness as "anxiety too massive to be handled without major interference in living one's life," and that it is usually temporary.

Retardation, on the other hand, exlained Boucher, is constitutional deficiency in intelligence interferring with normal life, and that it is usually enduring.

Although these problems are not alike in nature or origin, he explained, similar facilities are used in treating them.

It is the mission of the mental health program in the state to conserve the mental health of the population, and to restore, if possible, those who are already ill back to society and their families.

In dealing with the mental health of the community, said Boucher, the illnesses are broken down into the categories of clinical mental illness, the "socially defined disorders" such as alcoholism, delinquency and welfare dependency, and the "biologically defined disorders" such as retardation, senility and physical illness.

Boucher used the rock-climber's device, the piton, to underline the progress that has been made in the treatment of the mentally ill.

At first, explained Boucher, there was only one kind of piton, a large sort of hook that was pounded into the rock through which the climber's rope was threaded to enable the climber to scale the rock's face. Although this one type of piton was useful in climbing certain faces, he said, it could not be used in all situations, and many peaks were unattainable.

So it was with the treatment of the mentally ill, he said. At first the general practice of institutionalization was helpful to some, but it condemned others to a lifetime of being hopelessly ill.

With the development of new and better and more varied types of pitons, Boucher went on, more and more peaks were rendered accessible. There is even a certain tiny piton that can be inserted in hairline cracks in the rock, and this, he said, symbolizes what is being done in the treatment of the mentally ill.

Many different types of treatment are required now, said Boucher, and through the full use of new techniques, almost no type of mental illness is incurable.

Following Boucher's report, Dr. Gordon Riegel, the co-chairman of the Region VIII Mental Health Planning Committee gave a report on Region VIII progress. Within the limits of Region VIII are three public mental hygiene clinics, three voluntary non - profit mental health centers and two private mental hospitals and counseling centers.

The remainder of the morning program of the workshop was devoted to introductions to the individual problems of emotionally disturbed adults, given by Dr. John F. Kelley, of the Colorado Psychopathic Hospital; emotionally disturbed children given by Don Krill, the chief social worker at the Children's Diagnostic Center in Denver; the socially defined disorders given by Dr. Sid Glasman, the assistant chief psychologist at Fort Logan and the problem of mental retardation given by George Jones the co-ordinator of the Mental Retardation Planning Project.

Following lunch, discussion groups were held on each of these four probltms and reports on the resolutions attained by these groups were given at the concluding general session of the workshop.

Mrs. Steward L. Hinds, the co-chairman of the Region VIII Planning Committee, presided over the workshop which was held on the Colorado College Campus.

Denver Doghouse Guest To Compete With Host

By MARGUERITE MITCHELL
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Bomber has invited his doghouse guest, Jiffer, to enter the Mongrel Marathon Sunday and dares him to take a trophy back to Denver.

Jiffer, a Boston Bull Terrier, is owned by Allen, John, and Ann McPherson, 9, 10, and 13. He's staying with Bomber, an English Springer Spaniel entered by Robert Ryan, 16, of 1518 E. Monument St.

The two dogs won't be in competition against each other, however, as Bomber weighs 49 pounds and Jiffer weighs 18 pounds.

Fifty more entries arrived by Monday's deadline, making a grand total now of 137 dogs set to run Sunday when the first of 30 preliminary races begins at 1:30 p.m. at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club.

Four more Poodles have challenged Sambo, the Poodle who won the 1963 MM. They are Mr. B, entered by Mary Jo Suprenand, 14, 1519 Wynkoop Dr.; Pepe, entered by Jem Johnston, 14, Air Force Academy; Frenchie, entered by Veldean Sawyer, 12, 1824 E. There is also a Schnauzer, an old German breed of terriers, ready to run. This is Nosey, 9, entered by Pat and Jim Higgins, 12 and 4, of the Air Force Academy.

The Poodle and the Terrier family thus tie, at 15 each, as the most popular breeds entered.

Two Boxers have challenged Rocky. From 919 S. Weber St., home of Jeffrey Sapp, 9, comes Bullet, and from 4400 N. Weber St., home of Mark Sydow, 10, comes Duchess.

Mandy and Pepper, two Labs, have been nominated by Christine Bothwell, 14, 2223 Condor St., and Susan Lamm, 12, 1016 N. Bennett St. Both dogs weigh 60 pounds. Two Shetland Sheepdogs, Tot and Laddie, will run for Kathy Black, 9, 1226 Kingsley Dr., and Bill Mann, 13, 618 Diamond Dr.

Sandy has a good chance as he's part Greyhound. Cubby is the youngest dog entered; barely two months old. The oldest dog to challenge is Niki, 10, entered by Robbie and Randy Rhule, 3303 N. Prospect St.

Of the 137 dogs entered, 84 are purebreds.

Al Binns, manager of the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club, now has custody of the entry coupons, and is busy arranging the dogs in preliminary races according to their weights.

Youngsters are advised to have the dogs, on leashes, out at the track by noon Sunday. Handlers will be on hand to get the dogs lined up for the 30 preliminary races. The first race starts at 1:30 p.m.

Trophies will be awarded winners of each preliminary race, quarter finals, and semi - finals, and a Grand Trophy will go to the top dog of the day.

The event is being sponsored by the Gazette Telegraph and the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club, with the Pikes Peak Kiwanis Club.

HINTS FROM

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise

When washing Venetian blinds, I use a clip-type clothespin to hold the clean slats together. After washing the two top slats, I clip them together with the clothespin. Then I wash the third slat and lower the pin to clip that slat to the slat above, and so on until I've finished cleaning all of them.

This way I have room between the slats to wash each one without cutting or scraping my hands. —Mrs. H. Latzzis

This is fabulous! Try it, gals . . .

If your blind covers more than one window, or is extra long, use two clothespins . . . one on each end of the blind.

Another thing I like about this is that you can always tell which slats have been washed should you be interrupted during the cleaning job. —Heloise

Dear Heloise

After years of grating cabbage and carrots (and fingers and fingernails) on my grater, I went to the dime store and bought three inexpensive thimbles to wear on my thumb and first two fingers when I am grating anything.

I keep the three thimbles in a little plastic pill bottle in a kitchen drawer. —Irene

Dear Heloise

This is a hint for mothers with children who are always tearing the button holes in shirts and blouses.

Cut a piece of iron-on tape large enough to cover the button hole and iron it on the wrong side underneath the button hole. Then cut a slit in the tape the same size as the butto hole. Your troubles will be over. Believe me, it's a life saver.

I have five boys and three girls and I should know! —Connie C.

Dear Heloise

Have you ever tried using the washing machine in place of a dampening bag?

After washing and drying my clothes, I use a plastic squeeze bottle with a spray head (from the dime store) and dampen the clothes.

I then put them all in my washer, adding just a little more water from the bottle, then turn the machine in "spin" and close the lid . . . then turn off the machine.

The washer holds dampness in the clothes until I am ready to iron. —Mary Harding

Now aren't you the fancy one? The warm water which has been sprinkled on the clothes is distributed beautifully.

Instead of sprinkling my clothes first and when putting them in the machine, I put a layer of dry clothes in the machine, sprinkle them, add another layer, sprinkle some more, etc.

Works beautifully and thanks, Mary, for the fabulous hint. —Heloise

Dear Heloise

Since telephone directories have become so very heavy, I decided to do something to make them easier to handle.

I used a razor blade and split the books in half, where the yellow pages begin. This makes two books, which are much easier to use. —Clara Vernier

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise

When pouring coffee, if the bubbles go to the side of the cup it is sure to rain, and if they stay in the center of the cup the sun will shine. Try it, it's fun. —A.H.M.

Dear Heloise

Whenever I have to carry a small, flat key which is so easily lost if dropped . . .

I always tie a bright colored ribbon, five or six inches long, through the hole in the key. Then if the key is dropped, it is so much easier found because of the bright ribbon.

Saves a lot of time and trouble. —Stella Nutter

The Mature Parent

Listen to Her Arguments

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I am often very ashamed of the way my daughter, 12, argues with me in front of other people. As she is the child of my ex-husband, my husband is her step-father and my youngest daughter her stepsister. Two cousins of his were here the other night and I was so mortified by the argument she started with me over clearing the table. When my husband told her to stop it, she got up from the table and went to her room . . .

ANSWER: It would have been more sensible to have followed her—to have excused yourself from the table, gone upstairs to her, made yourself comfortable in a chair and said, "You must have some more reasons for not wanting to clear the table. You didn't finish telling them to me. What are they?"

Arguing people argue because they don't expect to be listened to. They are not nearly so interested in winning the argument over clearing the table as they seem to be. What they are trying to win is some real attention to what they have to say. The belligerence with which they argue is their certainty that they are not going to get it.

Children who know that they can generally count on our listening to their differing opinions do not argue. They clear the table, not happily, but willingly enough because they can trust us to listen later to their objections.

So, with an arguing child we get nowhere with counter-arguments, no matter how reasonable they are. We have to cut straight through to his conviction that we won't make either time or space for his differing opinions. Otherwise, he will continue to argue as protest against invasion of his right to differ.

It must be awfully annoying to my readers, I sometimes think, to take the trouble to write and ask questions like, "How can I make my arguing child into an unarguing one?" only to be told, "You can't — not until you can make changes in yourself."

Yet there is some advantage to knowing that we don't really want to listen to the opposing wishes of an arguing child. It obliges us to wonder why. It's the wondering that may lead us straight through into the deep problem of our lives: our compelling obligation to indulge any wish expressed to us. We may see then why we can't listen to our arguer's wishes.

Opening lead: King of ♡ West muffed an opportunity to make a "big league" play in today's hand when he neglected to reconstruct the declarer's holding.

Although West was dealt the best hand at the table, he was powerless to prevent North and South from bidding themselves into a game contract in spades.

The king of hearts was opened and West was permitted to hold the trick. East signaled encouragingly with the seven of hearts and West continued with the queen which was taken, by North's ace.

A spade was led to declarer's ace and the ten appeared from West's hand. Another spade put West in with the king. He tried to cash a heart but South duffed drew the last trump and ran his club suit discarding two diamonds from dummy. A diamond trick was conceded to the defense and the rubber was chalked up as a profit for North and South.

To the players, the result appeared to be routine; however, West had overlooked a unique opportunity to score an upset on the deal. Had he thrown his king of spades under declarer's ace when that suit was led, South would have been unable to prevent East from eventually gaining the lead with the jack of trumps in time to make the diamond shift which West so urgently desired.

An unblock in the spade suit by West, although superficially sensational, is in reality a sound maneuver that becomes dictated through necessity. A count of the missing points will reveal that South is marked with the king of diamonds and the remaining club strength as part of his opening bid. Inasmuch as declarer will be able to obtain diamond discards from dummy on his long clubs when trumps are pulled, it becomes a matter of great moment to get East in before it is too late.

When Souh refuses to take a finesse in spades, leading to his ace instead, there is a strong suggestion that it is East who has the jack of trumps. West should therefore unload his high spade honor in a desperate attempt to promote an entry into his partner's hand.

Some analysts may observe that it is always within South's power to fulfill his contract, provided that he does not release his ace of spades immediately. If, for example, he ruffs a heart at trick three to gain access to his hand, and then leads a small spade, West is unable to unblock profitably. If he plays the ten of spades, North covers with the queen, and the next round of the suit can be ducked to West's king, thus preventing East from ever obtaining the lead.

SENTENCE BEGINS

KIEL, Germany (UPI) — Franz Baron von Ruffin entered prison Tuesday to serve an 18-month term for ordering the execution of a German army sergeant who deserted his post in the final days of World War II. He was sentenced in 1960 for manslaughter but appeals delayed start of the sentence.

Housewives Under Forty Typical Candy Buyers

CHICAGO (UPI) — The average candy buyer is usually a housewife under 40 who is influenced by her child to select a particular brand name in a plastic bag at the closest store to her house, according to one national survey.

The survey, made for American Viscose, indicated that candy was purchased by 76 per cent of 1016 women answering the questioners. Seventy-seven per cent said someone in the family bought candy, but only 70 per cent of 106 male respondents said they had made any family candy purchases.

The majority of families who did not buy candy said they refrained from indulging because they simply did not care for it. The next major reason was that candy was too fattening. Many old people felt they were "too old for candy" or said candy was "for kids." Other reasons related to health.

Most respondents said housewives did most of the candy purchasing, but 24 per cent said their children did the buying. As many as 70 per cent of the parents interviewed said at least some portion of their purchases were made at their children's request.

In 45.1 per cent of the families which bought candy, parents were under 40 years old. Of the non-candy buying families interviewed, 76.8 contained adults over 40 years old.

Most of the persons questioned did the bulk of their candy purchasing at supermarkets or other places of convenience.

Brand loyalty was important to 58 per cent of the families. Major reasons for buying by brand were "like the taste," "good chocolate," "like the type," "children like it," "candy is fresh," and "more variety."

Approximately 45 per cent of the buyers said they bought candy for quick energy, 14.8 per cent to "curb" their appetites, 11.7 per cent because they "crave or need" it, 11.6 because "it tastes good," 11 per cent because "some sugar is necessary," 9.4 because it was "good if controlled," and 6.9 per cent because it was "nutritious and healthful."

The survey revealed candy is served with dinner by 10.5 per cent of the families, 24.1 per cent have candy with lunch, and 59.3 per cent thought candy was important for entertaining.

Oil-Gobbling Tutor Can't Digest Apples

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI)—Miles of shiny wiring are the teaching credentials of a new recruit for the faculty of Ray High School here. It's a computer—an electric Eisnstein that will be the center of the first high school course in Texas on computer oriented mathematics.

High school students will now have a whole new vocabulary of baffling jargon to throw at their parents, most of whom still haven't caught up with the "new math," much less computers. But this is fast becoming a computerized world — and school authorities think their students should have the background to deal with it.

"A growing need exists for students in high school to gain an understanding of how to program and use computers," said the school system's mathematics consultant, Preston Kronosky.

He stressed that the course will be in mathematics, using the IBM 440 as a tool. It will definitely not, he said, be a vocational course in data processing. The emphasis is on "why" rather than "how." He said:

"The properties of trigonometric functions will be taught, not so much as a tool for calculation but as an understanding of the properties of logarithmic functions."

Which is not to say that students won't be able to put their new abilities to use.

One farm boy in another state, enrolled in a similar course, put the school computer to work to help irrigate his father's fields. He wanted to know how much water would come through irrigation pipes — of differing sizes — in a specified amount of time.

Fed the facts, the machine reduced a long, complicated arithmetic problem to a clickety-click of electric circuits — and the boy's father had his irrigation paperwork solved.

The course is offered through Ray High School, but students from other schools may enroll if they can work it into their schedules.

But not all students can meet the stringent requirements for admission to the class. It's for seniors with a background of earlier courses in trigonometry or mathematical analysis.

An insecticide may not be necessary to rid house plants of insects and other pests. The U.S. Department of Agriculture says a bath with soapy water and a soft brush, or cloth, may be all that is needed to remove aphids, mealy bugs and scale insects from broad-leved plants. Use two tablespoons of mild detergent to a gallon of water.

Mrs. Rodgers Is Honored Guest Of Auxiliary

The Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, and the Auxiliary, met for luncheon last Saturday at the YWCA.

Special guests were Mrs. Barbara Rodgers, department president, and A. G. Myers, department commander of the Sons.

Approximately twenty members attended, including Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Savage of Pueblo who recently returned from the national convention in Providence, R. I. Both gave reports on the trip.

Mrs. Rodgers will accompany a local group to Denver today, making her official visit to the Denver Auxiliary.

Kiwi Club Members Attend Denver Luncheon

Three local members of the Kiwi Club went to Denver last Thursday to attend the monthly meeting of the Colorado Springs-Denver group. They are Mrs. Edward K. Warren, Mrs. Victor Milner and Mrs. John Murphy.

A luncheon and fashion show were held at the Lakewood Country Club, with Mrs. Jack Driggs as hostess.

All former American Airlines stewardesses interested in becoming members of the club may contact Mrs. Warren, 635-5736.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Stalemate!

DEAR ABBY: In the 16 years that we have been married, my husband has never written a letter to his parents. I didn't mind writing all the thank-you letters for the gifts they sent our preschool children, but I resented having to write letters for their 37-year-old son. He was always too "busy" to write, but he found time to do the things he wanted to do. Last year I became so disgusted with his juvenile attitude that I finally told him that if his parents were going to hear from us, HE would have to write the letters. He didn't write one letter, but each time we'd get a worried letter from them because of the long silence, he would call them long distance. This put a strain on our budget. I wonder how many other wives have husbands like mine, and what do they do about them?—DISGUSTED.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Your husband's type is legion. And most wives break down and assume the writing role again. The more stubborn ones cling to their promises, which usually hurt them far more than it does their husbands.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 47-year-old man who never misses a chance to hold his 17-year-old niece on his lap? I am sending you his picture. Please send it back with your answer. I thank you. WILMINGTON WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I am returning your husband's picture. Now send me a picture of the niece and I'll be able to give you a better answer.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have to get married as soon as possible. My feeonsay is in the Army and is stationed in Germany. He can't get home for a year and a half. He left last month. I can't get ever to Germany. Something has to be done and fast. Is there any way we can be married without being together? No one knows I am in trouble. Not even him. We love each other very much. I can't ask anyone I know to help me. Please put your answer in the paper, Abby.—DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: First, you MUST take your problem to your mother. Then you had better inform your fiance of your condition. Your clergyman should also be consulted. He will know how a couple can be married, though apart. It has been done in the past.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Debbie At UCLA": Next semester include a course in art. It's time you learned where to draw the line.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif.

SAC Network Is Tried Out By President

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — President Johnson tried out the Strategic Air Command's communications network during his visit in the uderground headquarters here Tuesday.

"This is the President. If you ecan hear me, give me verifica*tion," the chief* executive said.

His voice was heard at ap*proximately* 75 SAC unit com*mand posts* throughout North America and in areas of the free world and in dozens of missile launch control centers in the Uited States, but there was no response.

"That's a one-way conversation," Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander, explained. "We give commands and they follow orders. They're not inter*ested in talking back."*

Moments before, the President was invited to call any of SAC's primary command posts overseas. He selected the headquarters of the 16th Air Force at Torrejon Air Base near Madrid, Spain.

"This is the President," said Johnson as he was immediately connected to the Spanish base. "Do you read me?"

"Yes sir, loud and clear," snapped Staff Sgt. Teddy H. Christoph of Hamlet, Ind.

"Thank you," Johnson said.

"Yes sir," came the reply.

Swedish Cops Hunt Thieves of Poison

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Police broadcast urgent warnings throughout Sweden today follwing the theft of enough poison to kill thousands.

The burglars, who also stole a morphine solution, took more than two pounds of pilocarpini hydrochloridum from a pharmacy laboratory at Sundsvall, 190 miles north of Stockholm. The poison, soluble in water, is used in eye drops for glaucoma sufferers.

Expansion of Reserve Officer Corps Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave voice vote approval Monday to expansion of Reserve Officer Training Corps programs in high schools and colleges. It sent the legislation to the House for consideration of amendments.

Two years ago Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara proposed eliminating the high school ROTC program, at a $5-million yearly saving, and telescoping the college program from four years to two.

The Pentagon eventually backed down, but Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., proposed Monday that expansion of the high school program be all but eliminated from the bill. He lost on a 43-10 roll call vote that preceded voice vote approval of the legislation.

Suitcase Contained $2,000 in Jewelery

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — An unidentified woman ran over a battered suitcase lying on the highway Sunday night and it clung to the bottom of her car.

She drove into a service station and asked the attendant to remove it. He did and she left without looking to see what was inside.

The attendant, Robert Trombridge, didn't look either until he heard Monday night that naval Lt. Cmdr. Walter Miner of New London had lost such a suitcase.

Trombridge turned over the suitcase to Miner and got a reward.

The suitcase contained an estimated $2,025 in jewelry.

Rules Proposed In Purchase Of Furniture

By MARGERY McELHENY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wood furniture should be bought with three values in mind — design, construction and finish.

In "The Complete Book of Interior Decorating," by Isabelle Stevenson and Mary Derieux (Hawthorne Books, Inc.), the authors recommend these points to select good furniture.

"Design is largely a matter of taste," but remember the general principles of grace, suitability and comfort.

Hand construction no longer is the only sign of quality, as it once was, because much fine wood furniture is produced, at least partly, by precision machine work.

Good construction, unlike design, follows very definite rules. Examine the corners first because that is where the most stress occurs. Quality furniture will be joined by one of four methods:

—Mortise and tenon: A slot (mortise) is carved in one of the pieces to be joined and a tenon (peg) on the other piece is inserted into the slot.

—Dowel: Instead of a square tenon, a cylindrical dowel attached to one piece is inserted into the joint of the adjoining piece.

—Tongue and groove: Similar to mortise and tenon construction but using more of the tip of the joint for insertion into the adjoining section.

—Dove-tail: Triangular-shaped pieces are cut from one piece and fitted to the triangles left in place on the second piece.

An additional quality mark of well - constructed furniture is the corner block, used for extra reinforcement. It should be screwed into the wood, not nailed, since nails are not used anywhere in well - constructed furniture.

If the furniture has hardware, it should be in scale with the piece and in harmony with the design.

The best grades of furniture have a finish entirely done by hand. It should show the grain of the wood clearly even when it has been stained, and it should not glare.

Check whether furniture pieces are level with the floor. If a large chest of drawers seemed all right in the shop but is not even on the floor, there probably is a defect in the floor. Level the furniture with a small wedge because leaving it on the uneven surface often causes it to settle and throw the drawers out of line.

The quality of upholstered furniture is harder to judge since a large part of the wood framework is hidden and the cushioning is covered by fabrics.

The reliability of the retailer is a good clue to the quality of upholstered furniture he sells. But fact labels tell the material used in the frame, cushioning and cover.

The best wood for the frame is birch, white ash, rock maple or hickory. Springs should be coiled, finely tempered metal with closed ends, set close together and tied with heavy French webbing.

Long - stapled, curled horsehair, usually covered by a layer of cotton felt, is the best material for filling in over the springs.

Seven Billion Pieces Of Yule Mail Forecast

The department said locally addressed greeting cards should be mailed no later than Dec. 15 and local gift parcels by Dec. 14 to ensure delivery before Dec. 25.

Non-airmail parcels destined for overseas should be mailed by Nov. 10. Non-airmail to Hawaii and Alaska should be mailed by Nov. 30. Gift parcels to distant U.S. points should be mailed by Dec. 5. Air parcels overseas and greetings to distant U.S. points should be mailed by Dec. 10.

The department's annual Christmas bulletin said 145,000 assistants will be hired to help move the mail.

Miller Promises Cattle Business To Be Guarded

By ROBERT T. GRAY

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — "Barry Goldwater and I won't let a bunch of bureaucrats ruin the cattle business," Western ranchers worried about falling prices have been promised by the Republican candidate for vice president, William E. Miller.

"The nation's cattle business is facing a grave crisis," Miller said in a speech Tuesday night, asserting that the ranchers had no friend in President Johnson.

He said that administration policies allowing the import of foreign beef were responsible for the lower prices of domestic cattle.

"I enjoy lower prices for beef," Miller said, "but not at the expense of my fellow Americans who raise beef."

He spoke at Laramie, Wyo., on a Western campaign swing that took him today to Grand Junction and to Omaha, Neb.

In earlier speeches to audiences in Midwestern and Western states the GOP is counting on to help it win in November, Miller assailed the farm programs of the Democratic administration and said that Republicans favored retention of oil depletion allowances.

Farming, oil and cattle are economic pillars in the states in which Miller has been traveling in recent days.

His speech Tuesday night was to a rally in the University of Wyoming Fieldhouse. A univeruniversity official estimated the crowd, comprised mostly of students, at 4,000.

Holding up a copy of a newspaper at a rally of about 1,000 persons in the city's Convention Hall, Miller pointed to a front-page story reporting that Johnson had criticized Goldwater as having suggested the possibility of carrying the war in Viet Nam to the north.

On the same page, Miller pointed out, was another story quoting William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, as saying that increased Communist pressure in Viet Nam could lead to an expansion of the war.

Miller's remarks about the cattle market were amplified in a statement in which he said Republicans would work out a program in which domestically produced cattle would "fill our needs and achieve a healthy balance in prices for everyone — cattlemen and consumer alike."

COMMON INTEREST — Colorado Governor John Love (left) and Lt. Col. J. C. Eichholz, Air Force Academy director of materiel, find they have a common interest — traffic safety. The governor is spearheading a drive to reduce Colorado's traffic toll; Colonel Eichholz heads the Academy Directorate of Transportation. The directorate, with its large force of civilian and military drivers, played a major role in the Academy's award of the 1963 Doolittle Tokyo Raiders USAF Traffic Saety Trophy (shown here) for the best comparative vehicle accident record. and prevention program. The hugh trophy, along with the National Safety Council Award of Honor, also earned in 1963, was displayed at the Governor's Traffic Safety Conference in Denver. (Air Force Photo.)

Bond's 'Thunderball' Next for Sean Connery

HOLLYWOOD — The stalemate's over. Kevin McClory owned rights to James Bond's "Thunderball" which involves Bond's single-handed battle with an international crime syndicate that highjacks hydrogen bombs to hold the western world at ransom. Cubby Broccoli and Harry Saltzman had Sean Connery under contract. Kevin couldn't pry Sean loose, and the other fellows couldn't get the story, so they joined forces and shot the film in the Bahamas come January. Sergio Franchi returns after eight months to open Tuesday at the Grove. Then he and Phil Silvers split the high notes and comedy Nov. 10 at the Sahara in Las Vegas.

You'll want to watch Gloria and Jimmy Stewart and their twin daughters on password, and don't be surprised if the twins beat the parents. Ever since that show's been on the air, the family plays it at home trying to beat the contestants.

Nat (King) Cole and Stubby Kaye play wandering cowboy minstrels in "Cat Ballou" with Jane Fonda. Nat sings, but what pleases him most is getting a chance at comedy.

I don't know who does the booking for our local theatres. but they come up with the craziest combinations. With "Fall of the Roman Empire," they have "Lady in a Cage." Pat Boone took his family to see "Goodbye Charlie" in which he plays a comedy role, only to find it coupled with "Carpetbaggers." Paired with "Bridge on the River Kwai" is "Bikini Beach," and the other part of the "Mutiny on the Bounty" double bill is "Beauty and the Body." Someone's got to be kidding.

Forrest tucker chalks up 30 years in show business with the announcement that he'll quit wandering and settle down in Chicago as a morning disk jockey.

I haven't seen all the new TV shows, but two I like are Many Happy Returns with John McGiver (he's a lovable acting Hitchcock) and Slattery's People, put together by Jim Moser, the creator of Ben Casey. Its star, Richard Crenna, is just perfect. It's about our legislative form of government. None of the characters in the first show except James Whitmore looked like actors. They were for real.

Bob Goldstein, former vice president of Twentieth Century-Fox, leaves for Europe to persuade Melina Mercouri to star in his first independent film, "Stiletto," which he'll make here in January.

Well, bless my heart. Carolyn Jones, Morticia in The Addams Family, will be with ex-husband, Aaron Spelling, tomorrow night at the Thalians ball. We hope it's a reconciliation.

Paul Henreid said he didn't want to act any more, but when "Operation Crossbow" with Sophia Loren came up he said yes might quick.

The consul general of Japan told George Cukor that the Japanese version of "My Fair Lady" is the biggest success in his country. It's been running off and on for two years. George is tempted to fly over and see how it compares with the movie he directed.

Just as I had planned a vacation in Montecito at the San Ysidro ranch, the fire burned it to the ground. A couple of cottages were saved, but Melba and Frank Bennett evacuated 40 guests to the Biltmore hotel, and saved 40 horses. In years gone by, when Ronnie Colman owned the ranch, it was filled with Hollywood stars. Since the Bennetts took over not many months age they've done a remarkable job. After evacuating the guests, Frank went back and spent the night helping the firefighters save what they could.

MIAMI, Okla. (AP) — Clara May Dopking, 79, mother of Alva N. Dopking, bureau chief of The Associated Press at Columbus, Ohio, died Tuesday. Mrs. Dopking, a native of Kansas, moved to Oklahoma in 1895 and had lived in Miami for 46 years.

White House Invites College Students

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 200 college student leaders, many of them presidents of student bodies, have been invited to a buffet supper and reception at the White House Saturday evening with President and Mrs. Johnson.

The President, a onetime Texas school teacher, previously honored outstanding high school pupils at a comparable White House party.

The White House did not release the names of the students who were invited Saturday.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market averages nudged higher early this afternoon in a scrambled list. Trading was moderately active.

General Motors lost a fraction as the strike against GM moved into its sixth day while other auto stocks were steady to a little higher.

Steels, retails, aerospace issues and rails were narrowly mixed. Tobaccos drifted off on balance.

The trend was a shade higher among chemicals, oils and nonferrous metals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 326.6 with industrials up .7, rails up .2 and utilities off .1.

Chrysler gained a fraction while Ford and Studebaker were firm.

Occidental Petroleum ran up about 2 points and Getty Oil gained a point. Sunray DX Oil held a gain of about a point. Pure Oil was up a fraction.

J. Ray McDermott a heavily traded gainer Tuesday, rose 1 to a new high. Hunt Foods rose 1⅛ to 33 on 3,100 shares.

Anaconda and Kennecott added close to a point each. There were fractional gains in Phelps Dodge, American Telephone, Jersey Standard, Texaco, New York Central, Santa Fe, United Aircraft, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Allied Chemical, Du Pont and Union Carbide.

Prices were mixed in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds eased.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)— Grain and soybean futures displayed a lower trend in moderately active transactions on the Board of Trade today.

Near the end of the session, soybeans were off a cent or more a bushel after a mostly higher start. A promise of more favorable weather for harvesting brought increased selling by local traders who look for larger receipts and a greater volume of hedging as combing resumes.

There was little demand for wheat and selling by commercial interests turned prices slightly lower. Corn was mixed with the nearby December delivery strongest.

The rye market was said to be very thin and a little selling by local operators forced prices down as much as two cents a bushel at times.

Voters May Get Too Much of a Choice

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — There may be such a thing as giving the voters too much of a choice.

Tom Kranjcevich and his pretty blonde wife, Janet, each sought the Republican nomination for 33rd District state representative in the Sept. 15 primary.

"We just shouldn't have given the voters a choice of two Kranjceviches," says Tom. "Next time there'll be only one."

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all of our many friends who were so kind and thoughtful to our Mother after the passing away of our Father, William S. McLeod, September 19, 1964. After 48 years of marriage the hurt is deep, but the many, many cards, flowers, telephone calls, and personal calls lessened the hurt, knowing how many real friends our father had.

National Airlines Has "Best Business Year"

In his annual report to stockholders, President L. B. Maytag Jr. of National Airlines termed the business year which ended June 30 as "by far the best in our 30 - year history" and outlined a program of continued expansion and improvement pointed toward "even better results for the year ahead."

During the year, he said, National's revenues of $121.4 million adn net income of $7.8 million surpassed "preceeding revenue and net income records by wide margins," and "our much improved financial position enabled us to reinstate cash dividends, the first since 1959, and to acquire additional jets to handle the acelerated demand for service."

Maytag underscored the beneficial effect of the high level of the nation's business activity for both last year and the coming year.

"The teamwork of stockholders, directors, management and employees," he said, "capitalized upon opportunities during the year, including those provided by our stronger financial condition, the improvement in the national economy, and the value of some tax law changes."

"Our performace may be further benefited by improvement in the country's economy and tax law changes resulting in higher business and personal income. We anticipate being able further to reduce our unit cost of operation and increase our share of passenger revenues, which would produce even better results for the year ahead."

Having added four DC - 8 jets to its fleet during the year for a total increase of 20 per cent in capacity, National has ordered 10 Boeing 727 jets, seven of which will be delivered between November 1964 and March 1965, for use during the heavy winter tourist season.

"The 727 airplane," the report related, "is the newest and most versatile jet available, and is particularly well suited to our route system. With its range of over 2,000 miles, it can operate non - stop on all of our flights. Because of exreme versatility, the 727 can efficiently operate on short stage lengths and into smaller airports not presently served by jets, as well as provide excellent additional equipment for our longer flights."

National already has announced schedules starting in mid - December to include some of the 727's and will offer the highest density of flights in its history into Florida from New York, Boston and other east coast cities.

In reference to the supersonic plane of the future, Maytag said "We are keeping abreast of developments in order to take whatever timely action is warranted even though optimistic forecasts do not expect supersonic transports to be operating until the 1970s."

No proposal has been presented for development of a supersonic aircraft "that promises more economical operation on our route system," he related, holding that "the jets we now operate (DC8s) and those we have on order (727s) are of the type expected to be the industry's basic equipment for many years."

Larchmont Homes Offer Two New House Models

Larchmont Homes, now moving into their third year of building in the Colo. Springs area, recently added two models to go with their five basic designs, according to George Southard, superintendent of the development.

The two new motels are a split level and a three bedroom design. With the addition of the two new models, Larchmont now offers seven models in 21 different styles, according to Southard. Three different basement plans, wood floors, tiled concrete floors, and split levels allow for the number of styles.

Located just east of Circle Drive in the vicinity of Gomer Avenue the homes are priced in the $14,000 to $18,000 bracket. Larchmont began builing in the Colorado Springs are two years ago after a survey showed a need existed for homes in this price class, and they're now the largest home builders in the area, Southard said.

"We're very happy with public acceptance of the home Sod, ' since L Homes is homes," said Southard, "especially since Larchmont Homes is from out - of - town." In the two years they've been in Colorado Springs, their sales have topped $2 million. They've built 160 houses in the development, with 180 building sites still remaining, according to Southard.

Student Nurse Shoots Another At Lawn Party

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Police said one student nurse shot another at a nurses lawn party, then held a revolver at the wounded friend's head more than four hours while officers waited for her to give herself up Monday night.

Rosemarie Valdez, 22, of Grand Junction, Colo., finally surrendered on condition that she be allowed to accompany her friend, Diane Cafarelli, 21, of Kearns, Utah, into surgery. Miss Cafarelli, shot in the hip, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Miss Valdez had flunked out of nurses training at St. Benedict's Hospital despite Miss Cafarelli's help.

Sister Estelle, hospital administrator, said, "The student nurses were having a party on the lawn. Rosemarie came out to the lawn and pulled a gun and shot. Nobody knows why Rosemarie did it."

Miss Valdez then carried her friend to a picnic table where she kept police at bay. A psychiatrist and the hospital chaplain talked to her from 7:45 to 11 p.m.

She was placed under heavy sedation after being taken into custody. Darrell Renstrom, assistant county attorney, said he would file a mental illness warrant.

Texas & Pacific Gets 767 - Mile Muskogee RR

The Texas and Pacific Railway, a subsidiary of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, has assumed control of three railroads making up the 767 - mile Muskogee Co. system.

Control of two of the lines, the 203-mile Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf, and the 335 - mile Midland Valley, will be retained by the T & P and operated as part of the Missouri Pacific system.

The third line, the 104-mile Oklahoma city Ada - Atoka Railway, was sold by the TSP to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway.

Downing B. Jenks, president of the Missouri Pacific and the Texas & Pacific, pointed out that control of the KO & G and MV will benefit the railroads, their users and the areas involved.

The end - to end operation which is achieved, he said, will preserve the KO & G as a competitive route in through freight service, linking the Kansas City Gateway and the Southwest. It will also accelerate freight service between these points, he added.

The ultimate result, Jenks, explained, will be better schedules, more dependable car supply and many other improved services for shippers and receivers of freight.

Announcement of approval of control of the three railroads by the Texas & Pacific was made June 29 by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The T & P had filed an application to acquire control of the Muskogee Lines in September 1962.

Wall Street Journal Joins In Bond-Issue Exposure

By SAM CAMPBELL
Santa Ana Register

In mid-August, this column presented a series of three articles that described the banking - engineering - legal - public relations combine that foist municipal bond issues on property owner .

The point was made that such bonds are being loaded on your back in some cases without even the formality of a vote.

But on Sept. 22, The Wall Street Journal handled the subject in language even more forthright than this reporter was able to command. The Journal article was written by that publication' staff reporter Donald Moffitt.

Here are choice excerpts:

"SAN FRANCISCO — On Oct. 6 citizens of Santa Cruz County, Calif., will ballot on a $4 million bond issue to build a new court house. But they won't accomplish much if they vote no. County supervisors already have made plans to get the court house built anyway — by a method that may well cost taxpayers more than the bond issue would.

"The technique they are considering is an old one that's being revived by a growing number of cities; counties and even state to bypass the voters who have been defeating an increasing number of bond issues lately. It's a two - step procedure:

"First, find somebody else to build the court house, school, jail office building, golf course or whatever it is that's involved. That 'somebody' can be a public employes' pension fund or a non-profit corporation created for the purpose. It can even be a governmental agency empowered to issue bonds of a type other than the 'general - obligation' issues that must be approved by voters.

"Then rent the facility under a long - term lease that provides for the government involved to assume ownership when the lease expires; in most case , this rent can be partially applied to the purchase price of the facility.

"Legally, rent payments under such a lease usually have been held to be a current government obligation, payable out of general tax revenue , with no special voter approval required."

Well, that is only a small portion of all that Mr. Moffitt wrote. But it spells out rather clearly what is going on.

Now the Wall Street Journal didn't consult me at any time when Mr. Moffitt was preparing that article. And I didn't consult the Journal when I wrote the August article that appear in The Register.

So there you have the story from two separate observers, acting in complete independence of one another. And it's the same story.

Like the man said, "You can vote yourself into slavery, but you can't vote yourself out."

Rambler Ambassador Production Is Upped

Because of heavy dealer orders and "unusually strong public reception" given the 1965 Rambler Ambassador line, American Motors announced today that it will boost Ambassador daily production schedules by 36 per cent.

President Roy Abernethy said a second Ambassador shift will be added at the company's Kenosha Lakefront plant, beginning Oct. 5. The move will require approximately 900 additional employees in Kenosha.

"We anticipated and are receiving excellent reception for our new American, Classic and Ambassador lines, which were designed to broaden Rambler's variety of choice, from top economy to larger, more luxurious models," Abernethy said.

The new Ramblers were put on sale Wednesday.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

You Can Learn With Questions

A friend of ours, taking a cue from Messrs. Gallup and Roper, recently gave a quiz to a group of high school teenagers. Fifteen questions were involved.

Because we believe in the efficacy of questions as a means of stimulating self-analysis and a checking of one's own premises, we are going to reproduce his questions, together with a tally of the answers given. The students questioned, we would judge, are either average or above.

It happens that the high school where he gave the quiz is in a part of the country usually figured as "conservative." Therefore, they had probably had more than the average expression of view from their own parents and thus came closer to a pro-capitalist viewpoint than might otherwise have been true. Even so, a great deal is left to be desired. It will be observed that some of the persons questioned gave more than one answer to a given problem and others omitted any answer at all in some cases. The total number of students involved was seventy.

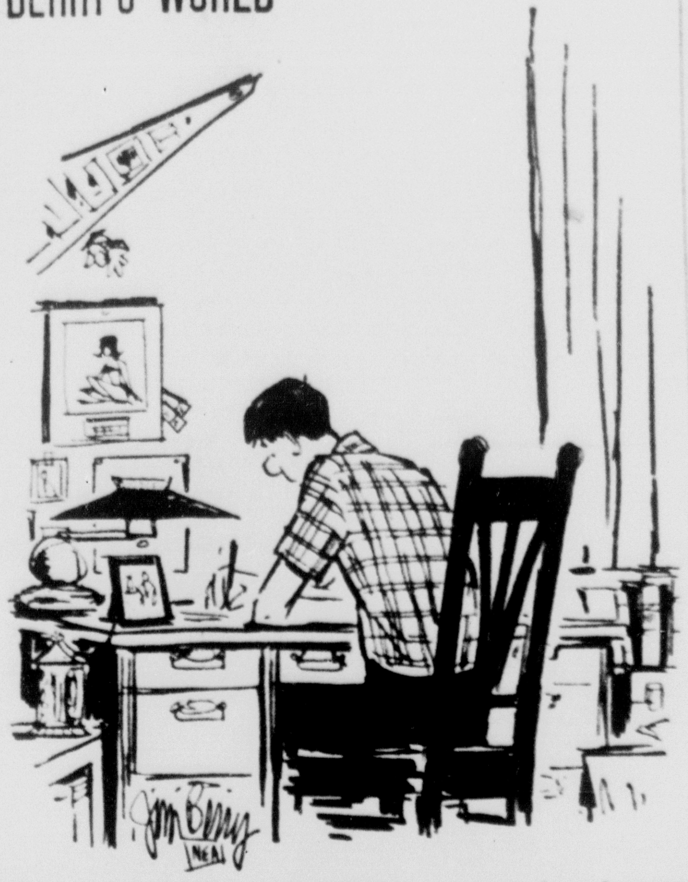
    - 8 Only if a court of law determines that it is to the interest of both parties.
    - 1 Only if it does not go against the consciences of most people.
    - 4 As long as one man does not receive a greater benefit from the contract than another.
    - 49 Should be upheld under all circumstances.
15. If one man has an abundance of wealth and another man has none, the wealthy man should be required to share his wealth with the poorer man.
    - 2 True.
    - 63 False.

Perhaps you would find it of interest to answer these questions yourself. Then you could tell whether you thought the majority was right; the minority, right; or possibly you would have some view not revealed by the choices offered.

While you are asking yourself these questions, you might like to inquire of your own teenagers just where they stand on these same points and then contrast your answer with theirs and with the tabulations given.

BERRY'S WORLD



"... and something unexpected has come up—I need money for tuition!"

My Sympathy Is Sincere

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Believe me, no sarcasm is intended when I write that my sympathy for Mr. Goldwater and Mr. Johnson is sincere. True, the president of the government is just that, but the power of the president of the government is too awful for logical contemplation, since the condition itself is illogical. It seems to me that no rational, thinking human being would dare to take such power over others unto himself. I cannot help but feel sorry for any human being willing to seek such power over others.

It was a good many years ago when I first wondered how any human being could accept a position as the hired executioner of government. I have never found an answer which satisfies me since I cannot even visualize an amount of money which could slightly arouse my interest in connection with such a position. Yet, every election day sees voters handing over power to others, even to the jeopardy of their lives and property — even to the placing of the lives and property of others in the same grave jeopardy.

I am, then, regularly confronted by two mysteries: Why do other men strive for power over me? How can voters dare to elect men to hold power over me? I will not sanction the right of anybody to rule over you. Since I wish no harm to befall you (I will not be a party to your enslavement), I find it strange that you hold so much ill-will against me. Yes, there was a time, too many times, when I did vote, but when I finally learned the facts and could understand my distrust, and clearly saw exactly what I was trying to do to you, my conscience would no longer permit me to sanction your enslavement, the rule of the majority, mob rule over you.

But I continue to wonder at those who believe they know best how to spend my earnings for my benefit, how to jeopardize my life for my protection.

A few years ago, I discovered I was talking with a bureaucrat engaged in an occupation which seemed beneath human dignity to me. I asked him why he ever became so occupied and his reply was, "Well, somebody has to do this job." I disagreed. The man was not employed at gun point.

And so I suppose that all men who seek public office feel that somebody has to do the job but I still find it difficult, now, to understand why anybody seeks such awful power over others. When such a man faces himself in a mirror, what does he see? A benefactor, a benefactor who lives off the earnings and the creative energy and ability of others? Is he different than the slavemaster who ordered a hundred lashes for the slaves who worked so slowly as to arouse his anger? And what about the man who applied the lash, doing the job that somebody has to do?

Are those who vote for mere humans to run my life engaged in retaliation because they believe I want others to rule over them? But by my actions they know I will not sanction a ruler for them. I will not sanction the right of anyone to take from them for my benefit.

Do you understand the feelings of those candidates who ask you to turn your responsibilities over to them, for a price and at the expense of others? What kind of a man seeks power over others?

Can you understand my sympathy for a mere man who wishes to take over responsibility for the lives of millions? Studious, contemplative reasoning indicates that NO MAN really can find happiness in the holding of such awful power over others. Do men who seek a little power weave such a tangled web as to make it impossible to ever again look at the truth with understanding eyes?

Once upon a time, during a telephone conversation, an elected bureaucrat said, "There are times when I do wonder what my grandchildren think of me or will think of me in the future." I replied, "Why don't you ask?" and he ended our conversation by saying, "I will tell you the truth, this time. I don't dare."

And so, when election day brings congratulations to the winners, my sympathy for winners and losers alike will be sincere.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

The Local Scene

The Old Order Changeth

By RUFUS L. PORTER

We drove out today to see my good friend and former boss Bill Klein, at the brand new Styrolite Corporation factory building located in the new industrial park on the Garden of the Gods Road.

Klein was superintendent of the Golden Cycle Corporation's Carlton Gold Mill in the Cripple Creek District during the last several years the huge plant was in operation. I worked under him for five years. He is now superintendent in charge of operations in the new Styrolite factory.

While there I also met Bob Hieronymus, production manager and secretary of the corporation. The place was humming with activity and the men were busily engaged in filling a large rush order for molded plastic containers, a company product. I glanced at some of the finished containers on the way out and noticed that they were the Vicon Corporation, another Colorado Springs enterprise. Their name was very neatly molded in the lids of the plastic boxes.

The new corporation is starting in a small way — show me one that doesn't — but both officials assured me that orders are already piling up and it is anticipated that more help will have to be hired in the not too distant future. The factory was built with growth in mind and there is plenty of room in the new building to serve the needs of expansion for some time. This is the sort of foresightedness that will pay off as the business continues to grow and prosper.

But, after examining the neat and serviceable packages they are turning out, which, are molded to the customer's needs and specifications and which offer super protection for fragile products, I am convinced that the business will outgrow, within a few years, its present commodious quarters and have to build an addition.

If you haven't driven out the Garden of the Gods Road in the past year you will be amazed at the changes that have been wrought in what was so recently a cow pasture, but what is now the PIKES PEAK INDUSTRIAL PARK, which was founded by the Colorado Springs Industrial Foundation, largely through the aid of the Chamber of Commerce.

The first industrial establishment in the new industrial park was the Kaman-Nuclear plant. The next was the Hewlett-Packard Company's big new plant. Judging from the number of employees' cars parked at the sites, these plants have added considerably to the payrolls of the region. The Maytronics company also has a brand new plant in the site and many other choice spots have been spoken for. A railroad spur has been built into the area by the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railway to service the new industries.

This is just one of the several new industrial sites that are being developed around the perimeter of the Springs, and they are all a-building.

Later, we drove out toward the airport and saw the new Walter Drake and Sons fine mail order business building and the Ampex Corporation's huge factory going up. There is more of the same kind of activity going on all around the town. This all represents a healthy growth and it is no wonder that the building industry is booming, both in business buildings and in new homes in the area.

The fact that the Pikes Peak Region has been chosen by so many progressive companies to establish plants in is something we can all take pride in —and thank our very active Chamber of Commerce and many influential and forward-looking individuals.

But we all read with sadness of the final closing of the beautiful and historic old Antlers Hotel. But I believe the site will eventually be filled with something as attractive that will at the same time fill perhaps a greater need of the community. Men just don't buy a property like the Antlers and demolish it for no purpose. The new owners, whoever they may be, certainly have some plans for regaining their investment and making a profit. I will withhold judgment on them until I see what they contrive to "take the place of the Antlers."

I arose betimes this morning and shaved off the wisp of a beard that I have worn now for two-and-a-half years. It was not much as beards go, but it was noticeable — I thought. But I went around all day before anyone missed it. And then it was first missed by my brother-in-law, who is visiting us and others here from California. Not my wife nor other relatives, nor any of my friends and acquaintances, nor fellow workers at the Gazette Telegraph noticed that I had "come out of the brush." I had commenced to think that I was the invisible man. To tell the truth, I didn't miss it myself and even Tammy, the monkey, who liked to pull it, didn't seem to notice any difference in my appearance.

I flatter myself that if I had had a full beard six feet long it might have been missed by all and sundry — it just might have.

Literary Treasure Trove For Children

By RUSSELL KIRK

Whatever the defects of our public schools — and they are many — the intelligent parent has a powerful remedy ready to hand. I mean that he can build up, at small expense, a very decent library of children's books — and read those to his little children, and get his bigger children into the best of educational habits, reflective reading.

As this commentator has remarked elsewhere, schools and public libraries seem to offer less than once they did for the intelligent child-reader. Their physical facilities have improved but their collections, too often, are diminished in style and imagination. One custodian of a Long Island public library recently discarded most "old-fashioned" juvenile books, on the theory that children will take from the shelves only "odd-shaped books" or comics.

Yet it is an ill literary wind that blows nobody good. My friend Mickie — the mother of two delicious and imaginative little girls, called Victoria and Christina — discovered in the library's back room these despised treasures, and carted them home for her offsprings' private library. A few days later, at a ladies' aid sale, she picked up a score more good children's books, second - hand, most of them priced ten cents.

Now I list below, gentle reader, some of the titles which my friend rescued from being pulped or burned — a number of these altogether out of print and in danger of total extinction. Go thou and do likewise, and posterity will bless you.

Ollivant's "Bob, Son of Battle," the best dog-story ever written.

Louisa M. Alcott's "Spinning-Wheel Stories," extremely hard to come by nowadays.

Dickens' "Child's History of England" — despite its prejudices, the best book for interesting young people in the record of Britain.

Skinner's "The White Leader," an admirable novel of Indian and frontier characters on the lower Mississippi.

Bennett's "Master Skylark," all about Shakespeare's England.

And many more as good.

Thus, for the price of so many single-dip ice-cream cones, any reasonable discerning parent can provide an antidote to the dreary diet of ordinary television, and supplement — if not supplant — the puerile "run, Spot, run" school readers which still discourage any lively young mind at the majority of primary and even secondary schools.

Many second-hand stores contain shelf upon shelf of genuine literature for children, one need undertake only a little gleaning. And children often prefer a second - hand volume — which, clearly, other boys and girls have loved — to the glossy new edition (if the book isn't out of print). Here's a form of treasure-hunting with far better prospect of both prompt and ultimate success than the kind of hunting one does with a Geiger counter.

LANDMARKS

To the Editor

The citizens should have the power to protest against wrecking our famous landmarks of historical Pikes Peak region, such as the Antlers Hotel and the Trianon and other mansions. There should be some way to save these for tourist attractions.

This city used to be a lovely, great, sight - seeing spot but not anymore because it is just another Denver.

It is sickening to take note of the dwellings which are not around anymore. There are far more important things that should be done to improve Colorado Springs and a few are clean up the litterbug problem, repair city streets, which are full of chuck holes, and do something to purify the water.

Editor's note: Sentimentality, while unavoidable, is hardly a substitute for paying bills. The Antlers Hotel and the Trianon lost money. The reason they lost money is that the public did not patronize them sufficiently. Instead of moaning over the loss of these historic buildings we ought to rejoice in the growth of the city and the fact that it is moving toward a position in which solvency, rather than insolvency, can be one of the tests of durability. Let's hope that whatever appears in the place of these financial liabilities will be economically sound. We presume they will be and that this is a major reason for the demolition in each case.

Wit and Whimsy

Doctor: "I'll be over right away. What are you doing in the meantime?"

She: "Using my other fountain pen."

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

There are three million Jews in the Soviet Union who can't get out. They are harassed and treated as capitalist pariahs. A book recently smuggled into this country from Kiev in the Ukraine shows the extent to which official Soviet vilification of Jews is willing to go. Called "Judaism Without Embellishment," and carrying the official seal of the Ukrainian Soviet Republic, the book includes caricatures which, in the words of Morris B. Abram, president of the American Jewish Committee, recall the sort of thing that used to appear in the Nazi "Der Stuermer."

While Jews are suffering without recourse in Russia, the state of Israel badly needs immigrants. The question naturally arises: If Khrushchev does not like his Jews, why doesn't he let them go to Israel, where they might pioneer in the desert region of the Negev?

I suppose there are any number of cynical reasons why the question cannot be answered. For one thing, it may not be Soviet policy to risk offending the Arab world. For another thing, it is always convenient for a dictatorial regime to keep a few scapegoats handy in case things go wrong. Nevertheless, the fact that Jews are not wanted in Russia and are needed in Israel would seem to present an opportunity for constructive statesmanship.

LINDBERGH

In the nineteen thirties, the U.S. State Department was willing to make a try at such statesmanship. At the height of the Nazi persecution of all "non-Aryans," the department asked Charles Lindbergh to undertake a mission to Berlin on behalf of the German Jews. The idea was that Lindbergh might cajole his fellow aviator, Hermann Goering, into going to Hitler with a proposition that would allow Jews to emigrate to England or America without a total loss of their possessions. The venture had to be worked out with some delicacy, for a way had to be found to arrange for a meeting that would permit Lindbergh and Goering to talk without any eavesdropping by some of the more rabid anti-Semites in Hitler's high command.

In the course of the mission, Goering pinned a medal on Lindbergh, who couldn't very well refuse it without embarrassing the U.S. State Department. The whole story, for anyone who is interested in it, can be found in a manuscript deposited in the Yale University library by Colonel Truman Smith, who was U.S. military attache in Berlin at the time of Lindbergh's visit.

The Lindbergh mission came to nothing because of a subsequent rapid general deterioration in the relations between Germany and the U.S. but if Hitler had not been committed to making immediate demands for "living space" in eastern Europe, it might have succeeded.

This bit of past history is worth reviving at this moment because the plight of the Jews in Soviet Russia happens to be worsening at the very time that Khrushchev might be disposed to do something to get Western nations to take his side in his controversy with Red China. If Khrushchev is willing to appease the Catholic Church in Hungary, and if he is ready to make a pilgrimage to Bonn in hopes of improving his relations with West Germany, then there is a bare possibility that he might consider ALLOWING Jews in Russia to emigrate to Israel if the West were to make an issue of it.

MISSION

At any rate, the subject should be explored. There ought to be a number of candidates for a quiet mission to Moscow in behalf of the Soviet Jews. If it took an American aviator to get next to Goering in the nineteen thirties, maybe a pro - Soviet American businessman of the stature of Cyrus Eaton could do a comparable job now with Khrushchev. Or maybe Roswell Garst, the Iowa farmer, would be the proper envoy.

The opportunity for constructive statecraft vis-a-vis Soviet Russia is so promising at this moment that one wishes it would be taken up by someone with a little more imagination than is possessed by the Fulbrights of this world. When the Fulbrights say that we must transcend the "frozen" attitude of the forties and the fifties, they simply mean that we should listen to Khrushchev's proposals. Well, why not turn the "unfreezing" around by making some suggestions of our own? We could begin by negotiating to get persecuted Jews out of Russia.

The Old Mountaineer

Yankees

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

What has become of the old original Yankees? Keep in mind that they were all the same sort of people in the North and the South. They were all hard - working folks who did not hesitate to confront adversity by seeking new fields of endeavor. Essentially, they were all quite honest but they were hard bargainers. In time these Southern Yankees softened under climatic plantation life and slavery. According to Mrs. Chestnut's diary, slavery was a burden because those helpless people had to be fed, housed and nursed in sickness.

In the North, the old Yankees hardened and became tight-fisted in money matters and rather stingy in their use of the English language. The rather exaggerated Northern Yankee appeared at "King Arthur's Court"; invented gadgets by the wholesale; took charge of business and government and generally became master of all that he surveyed, filling his pockets in the meantime.

What has become of these old Yankees of the North and South? I think they are still very much alike. The speeches of Governor Wallace sound in every respect as did the speeches of pre-revolutionary founding fathers. North and South based their political beliefs upon the belief in liberty and freedom from tyranny. In going back to fundamentals, the Yankees of the North and the South are slowly drawing together. They are beginning to watch their pocketbooks and both resent spendthrift waste. Both resent bureaucratic lawmaking and the adoption of socialistic writings into the opinions of our Supreme Court. It will be a fortunate day when the old Yankee spirit of the South and the North draw our people together. To lead them they do not need one who proclaims Southern birthright yet lends himself to all too many tenets of Fabian socialism and is endeavoring to ride to political victory upon the flying coat-tails of one who lost his life so tragically, but whose real image was still quite immature and whose real greatness could not be established by a highly paid publicity squad.

Give us back the real Yankees of old — both North and South. Give us back those strong men who will keep our nation strong yet watch the dollars before bankruptcy occurs. Give back to us the sternness of common sense, the recognition of our original virtues and strength of character to hold our ship of state upon an even keel. It looks as though the South is rising again and it also looks as though there are many throughout the country who are ready to join in getting back to the fundamentals of our glorious nation. Let us hope that we are entering into an era which will not stop our forward progress but which will take us back to the days of firm and patriotic fundamentals.

Cutting Cherry Tree Story Is Being Explained

By WILBUR MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did George Washington really cut down his father's cherry tree?

There are still the very young — and maybe some of the not-so-young — who would like to know how this story started, and if it is true.

One of these is Janie Fogle of Bennington, Okla., who wrote to House Democratic leader Carl Albert.

"Our teacher asked me to write you if George Washington really cut down his father's cherry tree. This isn't silly. We have to know this to get a grade this semester. I would appreciate it if you would write it instead of sending me a booklet. It has to be true," Janie wrote.

Albert turned to the Library of Congress. This is what he found:

"Parson Weems," the indefatigable Mason Locke Weems, appears to have been the first to chronicle the tale in print. Weems, a prolific author of "moral tracts," once preached at Pohick church, in whose parish lay Mount Vernon. He later claimed to have been "rector of the Mount Vernon parish."

The story of George and the cherry tree appeared in the fifth edition of his book, "A History of the Life and Death, Virtues and Exploits of General George Washington, Faithfully Taken From Authentic Documents."

Weems wrote that it was "related to me, by an aged lady, who was a distant relative. It is too valuable to be lost, and too true to be doubted."

You know the story: 6-year-old George was trying out his new hatchet and chopped into a young cherry tree, a favorite of his father.

"I can't tell a lie, pa; you know I can't tell a lie," Weems relates the youth crying, "I did cut it with my hatchet."

The father replied:

"Run to my arms, you dearest boy . . . Glad am I, George that you killed my tree; for you have paid for it a thousand fold. Such an act of heroism in my son is worth more than a thousand trees, though blossomed with silver, and their fruits of purest gold."

Historians have laughed at this story on the virtue of truth as a myth, but is it?

In 1899, Richard T. H. Halsey in his book, "Pictures of Early New York on Dark Blue Staffordshire Pottery," made a discovery: an earthen mug, made in Germany between 1770 and 1790, was decorated with a quaint illustration of the cherry tree story. A youth dressed of the continental period was depicted standing near a felled tree. A large hatchet, the letters "G.W." and the numerals "1776" also appeared.

Does this mean the story had been current long before Weems flourished? Was it spread across the Atlantic in Revolutionary times? And does it add more authenticity to the tale?

John T. Rodgers, of the Library of Congress' research division, can only say: "Who can tell? But why not believe it?"

Merrie England Reported Not Changed Much

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA) — The British have not changed much in the past 400 years if the organizers of the "Shakespeare's England" exhibit here are to be believed.

This exhibit, which is a hit with American visitors, is designed to stress the similarities between the Elizabethan ages, rather than their differences.

Consider town planning, for example. Shakespeare's contemporaries were just as worried about sprawling cities, creeping suburbia and the shrinking of green parkland as their successors today, according to the exhibit, which was set up in London's Gore Hotel.

Or take traffic control. The early Elizabethans bit their nails over the congestion of London's narrow streets, just as Britons today curse their own traffic jams.

Sixteenth Century Britain was just as sports mad as it is today, on in those days tastes ran to bear-baiting rather than to soccer and rugby.

In the "Shakespeare's England" exhibition items are arranged so as to show that British tastes have not changed down the centuries. Thus modern comic books are shown alongside 16th Century broadsheets, a TV dinner next to Elizabethan recipes. (The English, it is said, had no more appreciation for good food 400 years ago than they have today.)

There is nothing new even in plumbing. The exhibit includes a replica of the world's first water closet, which was made the drawings of her godson, Sir John Harrington. (Sir John's name, incidentally, explains the Americans use of the word "john" to describe such a convenience.)

Visitors to the exhibit find that Britons as early as 1604 were preoccupied with the problem of smoking. Thus, a diatribe from King James I dated that year, and now on display at the exhibit, describes smoking as "a custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain and dangerous to the lungs."

One of the surprises of the exhibit is that Shakespeare was as big a box-office draw in his lifetime as he is today. One of the rare documents on display shows that in February 1592, Shakespeare's "Henry VI" was making more money than the plays of his rivals Greene and Marlowe put together.

In contrasting the two Elizabethan ages, the organizers of the exhibit make some tall claims for Shakespeare as a "timeless" man.

Thus, if Shakespeare were alive today, he would have great sympathy for the developing countries, the exhibitors claim.

He would also vote for "the party of peace and imagination, if there is one," in the general elections in Britain this year.

The college dropout ratio is the same for both sexes: four out of every ten who enter leave before completing degree requirments.

The ski rental facilities and a large stock of pool, billiard and ping - pong tables are on the second floor.

Brand Names Are Featured Items

Dave Cook Sporting Goods Co.'s "House of Famous Brands" slogan is from "across the board" merchandisign, according to Herb Cook, president.

"We attempt to stock a full range of sizes, prices and styles in every major brand for each popular sport," Cook said. "although this results in a certain amount of duplication in some cases. . . we feel it's advisable to give the customer as wide a variety as possible from which to choose."

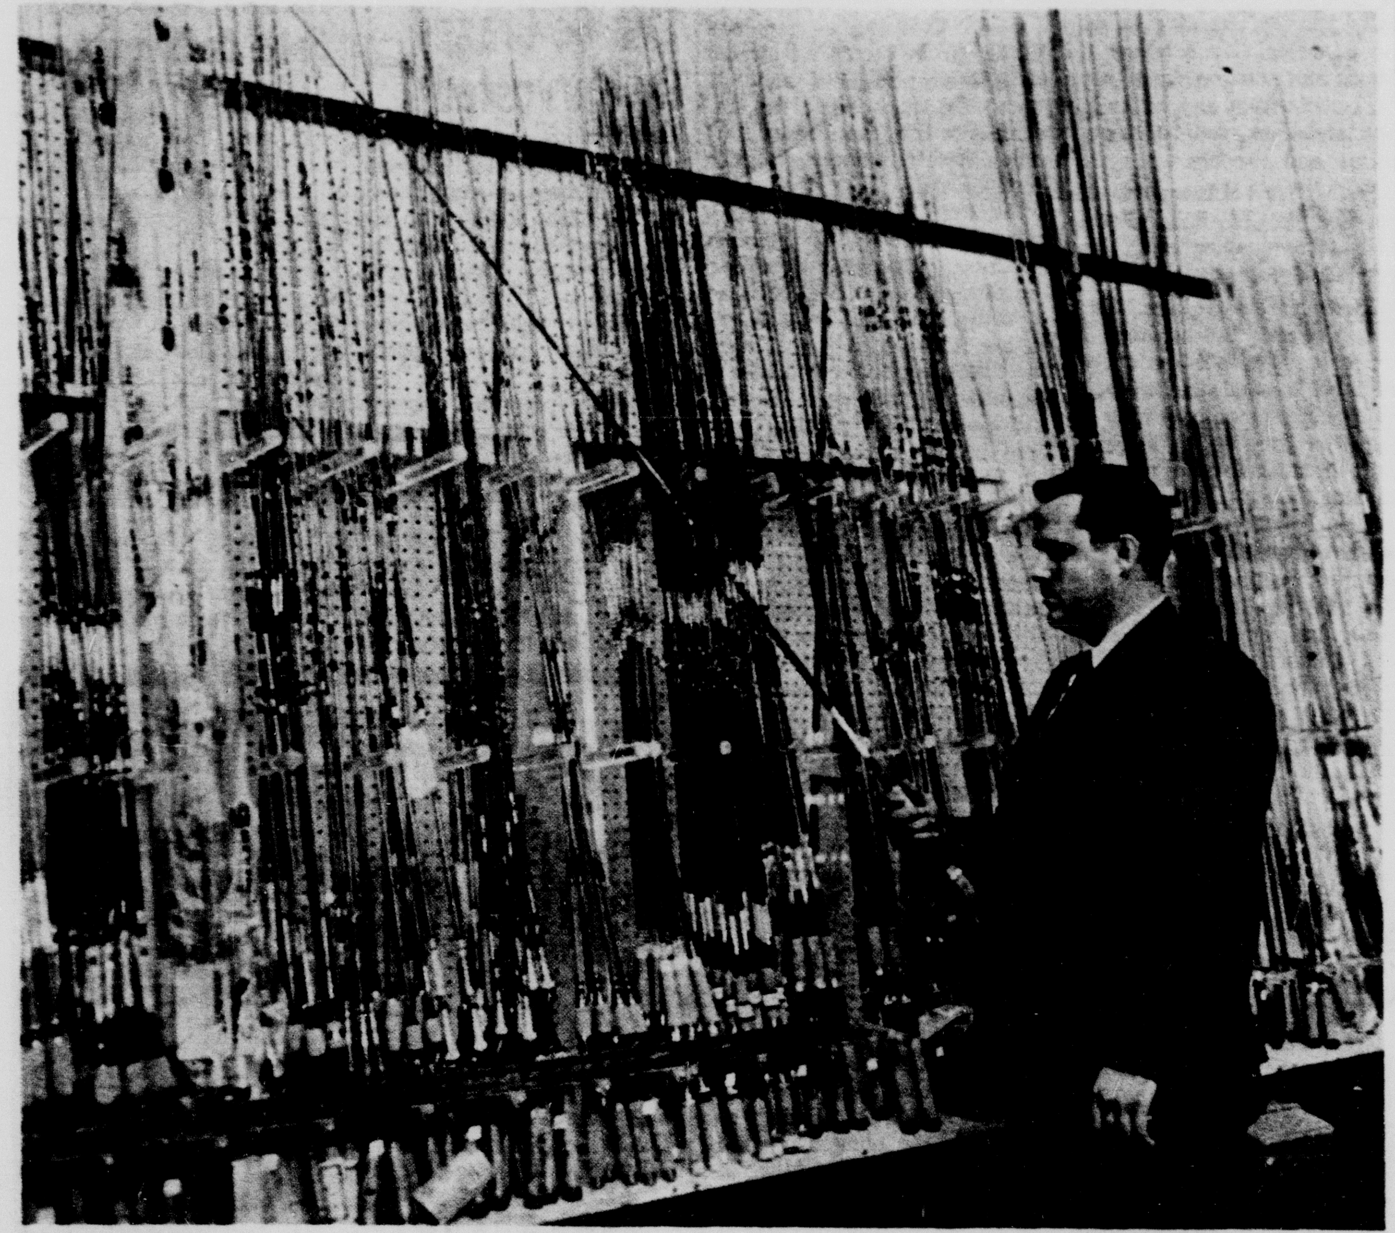
In Cook's gun department are firearms made by Browning, Remington, Winchester, Marlin, Ithaca, Savage, Hi - Standard, Beretta and Smith & Wesson. Also in stock are telescopic sights by Redfield, Lyman, Weaver and Bushnell.

Diversity is also apparent in name brands include Wilson, MacGregor, Spalding Louisville and Buchart - Nicholls. There are also hundreds of fishing rods and every top reel manufactured in the United States.

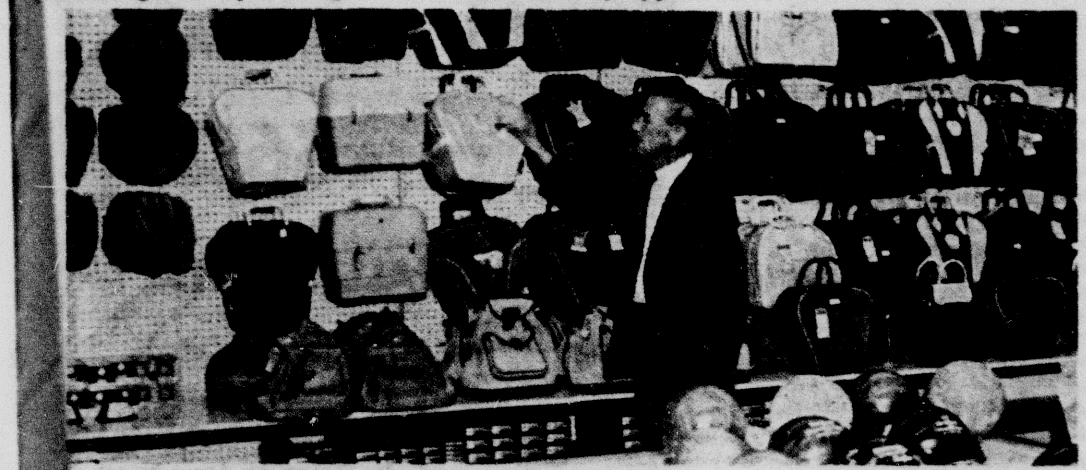
"Where a customer demand indicates a weakness in line," Cook explained. "We attempt to get a manufacturer to produce the required product or we order a quantity made up under one of our own brand names."

This resulted in introduction of the now - famous "Old Timer" fishing tackle, "Speed - Barb" and "Tri - Barb" hooks "StreamWing" flies and "Stream - Tex" line and leaders.

Other items made especially for the chain include "NATO" guns, "Superba" camping gear, "Da - Cote" optical goods, "Challenger" hunting and fishing boots, "Warior" tents, "Tretorn" tennis balls and "Young America" baseballs.



DAVE COOK'S FISHING DEPARTMENT — John Stavniak, a salesman in the new Dave Cook Sporting Goods Store, inspects one of the hundreds of fishing rods in the store. There are rods for spinning, bait casting and fly fishing. In addition to every type of reel to match these rods, anglers are offered a complete selection of lures, waders, nets and the latest fishing togs. The first Colorado Springs store of the Dave Cook chain will open Thursday morning at 106 N. Tejon St.



DAVE COOK'S BOWLING DEPARTMENT — Devertt Bickston, display manager for the Dave Cook Sporting Goods Chain, adds some final touches to the bowling department in the new Colorado Springs store at 106 N. Tejon St. The grand opening is scheduled for Thursday morning. Don Ellis, professional bowler of the Brunswick staff, will demonstrate equipment Friday and Saturday.

Sports Enthusiasts Staff The New Dave Cook Store

The backbone of the Dave Cook Sporting Gods Store, will which will open Thursday at 106 N. Tejon St. are sportsmen on the staff.

As might be expected, most are their own best customers. Practically all confess an addiction to fishing and hunting. Golf and photography is often their secondary interests.

Herb Cook, president of the company, is an avid golfer, fisherman and skier. The late Dave Cook, who founded the firm in the 1920's in Denver was an ardent fisherman who had a weakness for hand tied flies.

Plant Spring Bulbs Now

FORT COLLINS — Fall in the time to plant the spring blooming bulbs which will add color to the home grounds soon after winter snows have retreated, says C. M. Drage, Colorado State University extension horticulturist.

These spring - flowering bulbs include tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, and bulb iris. There are also many smaller and less familiar bulbs, the horticulturist continues. A few of these include scilas or squill, glory of the snow or Chrondoxa, and grape hyacinth or Muscari.

The crocus is sometimes placed in the bulb category, although it is not a true bulb — but a corm, Drage explains. A true bulb is an underground stem and leaves. In the heart of the bulb is a growing point surrounded by thick, fleshy leaves tightly fastened to the bud.

Bulbs are frequently used in home landscapes as flower borders in front of shrubs, or they can be planted in rows in the garden and used for cut flowers. The smaller ones are attractive in rock gardens and can always be used in naturalized areas. Drage suggests. Grouping bulbs of the same color will help make an attractive spring color display.

Bulbs are not too fussy about soil types as long as the area is well - drained, according to Drage. However, sandy soils sometimes dry out and frequently warm too quickly making the plants subject to early spring frost damage. The same is true of bulbs planted in southern exposures. Bulbs should have full sunlight, but will tolerate light shade near the end of their foliage period.

At planting time the soil should be loosened to a depth of 12 to 14 inches, Drage suggests. Incorporate a coffee can full of complete low analysis fertilizer (low in nitrogen and high in phosphate) to each five to ten - foot area, or a handful for a cluster of three to five bulbs. Bone meal is an excellent bulb fertilizer. Its analysis is approximately 2-16-0 and it can be used liberally. Never use fresh manure, Drage warns.

Tulips, daffodils and narcissus should be planted 8 to 12 inches deep. Smaller bulbs should be planted three to four times as deep as their diameter. The deeper plantings are recommended for more sandy soils. The deeper plantings are recommended for more sandy soils.

Normal spacing between plants should about equal depth of the bulbs, the horticulturist indicates. However, wider spacing will mean the bulbs will not have to be lifted and divided so often.

When purchasing bulbs, avoid inexpensive packaged mixtures, Drage recommends. The quality of these products is frequently low and they often do not contain a sufficient variety of colors.

Wool Sewing Contest Open

It is now time to submit Wool Entry blanks for the District 8 Contest, to be held Oct. 31 at the Gym in Agate, Colo., says Mrs. August Beuck, chairman. District 8 includes Lincoln, Kit Carson, Cheyenne, Elbert and Kiowa counties.

At district level, two girls from B Division and one girl from C Division will be chosen to go to the State Contest, to be held in Denver Dec. 3 and 4. The Style Review will be held at the Brown Palace Hotel the night of Dec. 4. Here two girls will be chosen to represent Colorado in the National Contest.

The contest this year is open to girls 10 yrs. and older. There will be adult contest in District 8. This sewing project is among the educational activities approved by the National Association of Secondary-School Principals. Entry blanks must be submitted by Oct. 28.

4-H'ers Excel In Dog Care Projects

The ears of almost 25,000 4-H members across the country are sensitively attuned to the "rrruff rrruff" of their canine friends.

The 4-H Dog Care and Training awards program, now in its sixth year, is attracting a great many urban youngsters and those in rural areas as well, according to the National 4-H Service Committee. It is sponsored by the Ralston Purina Company.

Obedience training is taught, and the young dog handlers soon realize that the animal is an individual. As one 4-H'er put it:

"Each dog is different. Some are shy and need coaxing. Others are ready to go and need coaxing. Others are ready to go and need stricter discipline. Whatever the dog is like, success only comes from hard work and plenty of praise."

Members readily accept the responsibility of owning a dog as they learn proper care and feeding of the animal, club leaders observed. They like to show their pets and demonstrate best methods of grooming and training.

One girl trained dogs for the blind. "You can make training a game instead of work," she declared. "The key to successful training is first to win your dog's confidence."

"At times I felt like giving up," she said, "but when I thought about some blind youngster waiting for a dog, I had to keep on working."

Some 4-H members have helped to finance a college education by raising and selling pedigreed puppies. Also, careers in veterinary medicine or other fields of work with animals have resulted from experiences in a 4-H dog project.

Each year outstanding club members are honored and receive awards from Ralston Purina. The 4-H'er completing the best dog project in the state will get an engraved wrist watch, and will be eligible for one of 10 trips offered national winners to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicgao the week after Thanksgiving. Up to four members in the country can win medals.

All award recipients are selected by the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises the program.

4-H invites young people between 10 and 19 to join during National 4-H Club Week, Sept. 26 — Oct. 3.

Farmers Can Buy Grain At Cut Rates

Government - owned surplus feed grain will be offered to farmers in El Paso County at cut - rate prices, the Department of Agriculture announced Friday. El Paso is one of the 10 drought - stricken Colorado counties which will receive this aid, requested by Gov. John Love Oct. 22. The other counties are Baca, Cheyenne, Crowley, Elbert, Kiowa, Las Animas, Prowers, Pueblo and Washington.

The grain will be available to farmers who do not have enough feed for their livestock and cannot buy feed in normal trade channels without "undue financial hardship," the department said.

The grain can be used only to maintain foundation herds of livestock and not for fattening slaughter cattle. It was understood farmers could purchase the grains at 75 per cent of market price. The grain will come from surplusses stored in Colorado and adjoining states.

Love requested the cheaper grain after his personal inspection tour of the parched southeastern Colorado counties. Kit Carson and Morgan counties, included in Love's request, were not named in the Agriculture Department announcement.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman declared the 12 counties drought disaster areas Oct. 22.

Prairie Ramblers To Hold Gymkhana

The Prairie Rambler Riding Club will hold a gymkhana Sunday, at the Kit Carson Arena on Maizeland Rd. Entry fee is 25 cents for each event, and entries will be accepted at 12:30 p.m. The show will begin at 1 p.m.

The events scheduled are: horsemanship, through 10; horsemanship, 11-13; horsemanship, 14-17; senior western pleasure; reining, open; poles, 4 age groups; barrels, 4 age groups; keyhole race; rescue race, open.

Newsom Praises National Farm Program

National Grange Master Herschel D. Newson, speaking Friday before the 91st Colorado State Gronge convention in Denver, praised the national farm program.

"We are getting domestic pricing policies into a position where we can be competitive with the agriculture of the rest of the world without injustice," he said. He cited the record $6.1 billion worth of agricultural exports last year as support of his praise.

However, he said to the delegates, the United States faces two psychological handicaps in the effort to improve its world trade situation — fear of doing business with Communist countries and the fear of other nations that this country's productive capacity is so great it could ruin them.

4-H Clubs Seek Added Enrollment

El Paso County 4-H clubs are launching a drive to increase enrollment this fall. Any boy or girl between 9 and 19 years may join by agreeing to work on a project and follow 4-H ideals and standards. 4-H members come from city and suburban areas, as well as from farms and ranches.

In 1964 770 4-H members were enrolled in El Paso County, with 141 volunteer adult leaders helping.

There are 49 projects. 4-H is a family centered program because the projects are carried on in or around the home. In each project members may advance in progressive steps to more detail and more complete learning.

Each club is organized around specified projects in which its members have a common interest. Each club is guided by one or more volunteer adult leaders.

4-H is the official youth organization of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It operates under the Cooperative Extension Service, which was started 50 years ago. The four H's are head, heart, hands, and health.

During 1912-1914 clubs wer organized to teach members how to grow better crops and livestock or to become more skilled in food preservation, bread making, and related subjects. Their project demonstrations were helpful in getting the best known methods adopted and put into wider use by adults.

4-H youth are now organized into local clubs in all 50 states, in Puerto Rico, and in some 75 other countries.

4-H started as an organization for rural youth, but now has active programs in towns and cities as well. 48 per cent of members are rural; 31 per cent, rural non-farm; and 21 per cent, urban.

4-H members learn by doing in one of a variety of projects: dog training, safety, automotive, clothing, foods, nutrition, home furnishing, knitting, child care, health, gun safety, garden, horsemanship, beef, soil conservation, photography, leathercraft, and many others.

This year all 4th, 5th, and 6th grade students will get through their school a 4-H folder, telling who may become a 4-H member, how to enroll, how to organize, and what members will get from 4-H.

Those interested in joining 4-H should find others in their community or neighborhood who would like to be in a club. A parent or other adult must volunteer to be a local leader. Adults do not need to have had experience as club leaders. The Extension Office will furnish supplies, enrollment cards, manuals, and other materials, and will help with organization of the club.

Four-H is a national program for farm and city boys and girls between 10 and 19 years of age.

State Rural Electric Group Elects Officers

E. A. Geesen, Agate, Colo., was elected president of the Colorado Rural Electric Association Friday at the concluding session of its three - day convention.

He succeeds Lewis Rhodes of Yuma, Colo. H. R. Macht of Pagosa Springs, Colo., was elected vice president; Ed Pumphrey Jr., of Fort Morgan, Colo., secretary; and Lee Carlson of Denver, treasurer.

The association will wait until its quarterly meeting in Denver in December to select a director to the National Rural Electric Consumers Association. Marion Wilson of Fort Morgan is the current director.

Geesen said 26 associations, serving more than 90 per cent of rural Colorado, belong to the state organization.

Resolutions adopted included one approving a Senate bill which would prohibit the Federal Power Commission from controling rural electric cooperatives.

Another resolution urged that attorneys favorable to these cooperative work for proper representation in the utilities section of the American Bar Association, to the "end that the true contribution of rural electric cooperatives to America be recognized by this group."

CSU Recommends New Grubicides

FORT COLLINS — Two new cattle grub control materials have been registered and will be on the market this fall, according to Bill Hantsbarger, Colorado State University extension entomologist.

The first of the new grubicides is a Co-Ral 4 per cent "pour-on" chemical developed for application to the backline of cattle. The solution is ready to use without additional mixing. Hantsbarger recommends it be used at the rate of one-half fluid ounce for each hundred pounds of animal weight up to a maximum dosage of four ounces per animal.

Co-Ral also is available as a 25 per cent wettable powder to be used as a spray or dip treatment. For spraying, mix 12 pounds of powder to 100 gallons of water. Dip treatment requires 8 pounds of powder to 100 gallons of water.

The other new beef grubicide is Neguvon, which is recommended only on a trial basis. Further CSU tests are necessary before the materiel will be given a full university recommendation, Hantsbarger explains.

To be used as a spray, 80 per cent soluble powder, Neguvon is prepared as a one per cent solution in water. This is approximately 5 pounds of powder to each 50 gallons of water. Each animal should be sprayed to the point of run-off which is about one gallon of spray for each average sized animal. The material should not be used within 14 days of slaughter, the entomologist cautions.

Ruelene, a grubicide alreadv in current use, is another effective grub control material. Ruelene may be used as either a "pour-on" or a spray. The "pour-on" mixture is made by adding one part of Ruelene 25E to two parts of water. Apply one ounce of this mixture for each hundredweight up to a maximum dosage of eight ounces per animal.

A Ruelene spray mixture is prepared by combining one-half gallon of Ruelene 25E with 25 gallons of water. One gallon of this spray will cover animals weighing 300 pounds and over.

Bothe Ruelene and Co-Ral also have a fall use cutoff pe- and horn flies. Co-Ral should not be used on beef animals within seven days of slaughter — Ruelene should not be used 28 days prior to slaughter.

These grub control materials also have a fall use cutoff period, Hantsbarger explains. The cutoff date is important because cattle may react to dead grubs if the grubs are too large when destroyed. Ruelene should not be used after October 1 on the Colorado plains. Co-Ral treatment should be stopped in the plains area on October 15. Both materials should not be used after November 1 in the Colorado mountains.

Land Bank Stockholders To Meet Here

Don Stephens of Lake George, Colorado, president of the Federal Land Bank Association of Colorado Springs, announced today that the Annual Stockholders' Meeting for the association will be held at the Palmer House in Colorado Springs on Monday, Oct. 12th.

"The association holds an annual meeting each year for the purpose of electing directors, providing a report of the year's business," Mr. Stephens said.

The farmer-owned institution has approximately 380 member-stockholders in its territory consisting of Cheyenne, Kit Carson, Lincoln, El Paso, Teller and Park counties. These members are using their own institution to obtain long-term credit required for modern day farm and ranch operations. Stephens reports that the unpaid balance of Land Bank loans serviced by the association as of June 30, 1964 was in excess of $3½ million.

Arrangements for the meeting are being made by Loren Gleason, manager of the association. Mrs. Netta Finch is office assistant for the association which is located at 2609 East St. Vrain in Colorado Springs. Other members of the board of directors, in addition to Mr. Stephens, are Ted Dobler of Burlington, vice president, Joe Carrigan of Wild Horse, Voncent Youngren of Hugo, and ElRoy Stum of Matheson.

Diverted Land Can Be Grazed Or Harvested

Applications are now being accepted for grazing and harvesting of hay on conservation reserve, wheat stabilization and feed grain diverted acres in approved emergency drought counties, the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service reported Monday.

The new program was approved by the Secretary of Agriculture on Sept. 22, and will continue in effect until Dec. 31, 1964.

Farmers are to pay $1.50 per acre for the privilege of grazing or haying.

Colorado counties which have been approved for the program are Baca, Cheyenne, Crowley, Elbert, El Paso, Kiowa, Kit Carson, Las Animas, Morgan, Prowers, Pueblo, and Washington.

Plant Bulbs Now for Spring Flowers

Bulbs will bloom in early spring, but they must be planted this fall. There is a wide choice in flowers of the bulb variety: daffodils, tulips, narcissus, crocus, scilla and hyacinths.

The large trumpet daffodils in yellow, white and bicolor are showiest for cutting and garden use. The medium trumpets and short cups are very good for naturalizing.

Tulips also come in several sizes. First to bloom are the species and hybrid species varieties like Tulip Kafmanniana and Red emperor. Next to bloom are the graceful Cottage Tulip, including both the Lily Flowered and Multiflowered forms. The stalwart Darwin and Breeder types bloom last and are the tallest and most showy of all. Particularly interesting for cutting are the fringed and exotic Parrot Tulips.

Tulips may be planted deeper than the customary five or six inches in light or medium soils. Deep planting from eight to 12 inches can greatly safeguard long life of the bulbs. Bone meal should always be used at the time of planting for stronger root development. Small groups of bulbs can be planted to edge a flower border, outline the side of a walk, or twinkle against a background of shrubs.

Hyacinths are very attractive planted close to an entry way. They come in an array of colors: red, purple, blue, white, pink and yellow.

TEENS & TWEENS

Ava Claycomb, age 14, Rt. 3, Northgate Rd., has submitted the following letter of what 4-H has meant to her:

"I am a future dietitian, chef, dress designer, interior decorator, and landscape artist.

"These are a few of the qualifications of the profession of homemaker. The experience gained through my 4-H projects today is helping to prepare me for this very rewarding career.

As I said, I am a future dietitian and chef. Five years of 4-H Foods has already taught me how to prepare nutritious meals which satisfy even my Dad.

'But a few years ago, the very sight of 'me and my mixing bowl' probably made Dad cringe. As a nine-year old 4-H Foods member, my required exhibit was six, plain frosted cupcakes, and poor Dad ended up the prime sampler of the dozens of practice cupcakes.

"Then I was introduced to 4-H judging. Out of a class of four cupcakes, choosing one that Ithought was best, and giving good reasons for my choice, seemed senseless then, but was really the beginning of the most important phase of my 4-H training for a future homemaker. Today, each time I plan a menu, I automatically think: Is this meal nutritious? Does it have a variety of color, texture, temperature, and taste?

As I mentioned previously, I am also a future dress designer. Before 4-H introduced me to sewing, the sewing machine and I were deadly enemies. But 4-H has taught me that sewing is not only fun and easy, but creative and money saving. A very embarrassing situation is to go to a school activity and meet face to face with a girl wearing a dress exactly like your's. But when I design and make my own clothes, I never have to worry about this happening. By makking my own clothes today, I am not only saving money, but gaining priceless experience and gnowledge needed as a future homemaker to make clothes for my family.

Another one of my qualifications as a future homemaker is that of interior decorator. I am gaining experience in this field through the 4-H Home Furnishings project. Wehn my family moved to this region eight years ago, I had the opportunity to finish my own room as my first year's Home Furnishings project. For my future Home Furnishings project, I plan to redecorate my room. This time I will make a better choice of colors and need less assistance. 4-H Home Furnishings has also taught me new and better cleaning methods which will be invaluable in my future home.

"As a future landscape artist, this was my first year in 4-H Home Beautification. Growing a flower garden has not only taught me how to raise plants, but how to cope with Colorado's hot, dry winds and lack of moisture.

"Yes, 4-H is helping to prepare me for the future career of homemaker, by training me as a future dietitian, chef, dress designer, interior decorator, and landscape artist."

PINE TREE

Tom Chilcott, Rt. 1, Box 141, has submitted the following explanation of what he learned from a 4-H project in poultry:

Five years ago I decided to raise chickens in 4-H. I started out by raising a small flock of 30 chicks. Of these chickens, I kept 15 to start a laying flock.

"The second year I financed my chickens with my own money. An important part of 4-H is to keep records and to manage finances. That year I lost money but I learned to manage it with the help of records.

"The next year I decided to raise show chickens. Among the unusual varieties, was a breed of chickens that lays green eggs. Since a green egg-laying chicken sounds impossible, I was given a hard time until finally I got an olive - green egg from one of the hens. This egg was preserved for as long as possible. That year I showed my chickens for the first time at the El Paso County Fair. It was a very exciting experience.

"I continued to enlarge my flock the following year. For the first time I made a sizeable profit. I exhibited my chickens at both the County and State Fairs.

"This year I specialized in several breeds of common and unusual breeds. I raised about 300 more chickens. I took about 100 of these to both the County and State Fairs. I received a Grand Champion Award on my Buff Polish Pullet and 17 first places on my other chickens at the State Fair.

"In five years of raising chickens I have had some unusual experiences. Everything has happened from eating a ball of string to getting caught inside quart jars. I have learned to keep records and manage finances and to be a good sport in competition — win or lose."

TURKEY DRINKS — Dr. Eldon W. Kienholz, poultry nutritionist at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, displays one of the turkeys being used in his study, and a sample of the plastic water carboys he has used to collect and store water from various parts of the state. Purpose of the project is to assay samples of water which are thought to hamper normal turkey growth, especially water containing mineral salts and nitrates.

'Loaded Drinks' Troubled Turkeys, Prof Suspects

FORT COLLINS — There's more to water than "wet," and a poultry nutritionist at Colorado State University thinks there is a possibility that some undetermined turkey troubles are due to drinking water that is naturally "spiked" with mineral salts or nitrates.

Dr. Eldon W. Kienholz, assistant poultry professor and poultry nutritionist with the Colorado Agricultural Experiment Station, is in charge of a new project to study the toxicity problem in water.

The object, he says, is to determine how sensitive turkeys are to various elements in their drinking water, especially mineral salts and nitrates.

One aim of the project is to evaluate water being used by turkey growers, especially where problems have cropped up that no one has been able to pinpoint. "The problem may be in the drinking water, and we don't realize it," he said.

"We suspect that minerals — such as magnesium salts — may affect the metabolism or other elements in the diet. We know that excessive nitrates can affect the kidneys in cattle, and tie up Vitamin A so that it can't be assimilated. We're not sure what effect these elements may have on turkeys, but we want to find out."

Kienholz has been collecting water samples from areas of the state where problems are suspected. He is also experimenting with turkey poults in the laboratory by adding various levels of mineral salts to their drinking water.

Dr. R. E. Moreng, head of CSU's poultry section, hopes that the turkey water study will eventually lead to a "biological assay' process that will provide a more critical analysis of drinking water, for all kinds of livestock as well as turkeys.

'We may find water conditions in our turkey project that are affecting cattle and other livestock," he said.

The project was started with a $1,000 grant from the Colorado Turkey Federation. The Colorado Turkey Breeders, Incorporated, of Cherew, Colorado, have donated eggs for the production of turkey poults for the project, and the Gingrich Hatchery of Keenesburg, has given turkey poults to the researchers.

"We hope to reach some successful conclusions to the immediate problem, and perhaps we will even be able to expand our study to provide more detailed results in the future," Dr. Moreng said.

Cavalier Riding Club Gives Trophies

Mrs. George F. Jubb of Colorado Springs took second place, riding Hard Tack. She is a former Fort Carson riding instructor.

In the junior class, 14- - year old Sharon Jubb, riding Blue, won the grand champion trophy. Reserve champion was Susan Light.

Major General Autrey J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized), Fort Carson Commander, presented the trophies. Ribbons were awarded to all winners in 12 events. The judge was "Murphy" Butler.

The day's events, including both western and English competition, started with a grand entry. Carson bandsmen furnished music for the occasion. Mrs. Arthur Herzberger was MC.

Riders were required to work their horses over a series of obstacles including low jumps which were typical of hilly trail horse event in which 17 riders competed. Each rider then had to dismount on the wrong side and remount after a short walk.

Cattle Cycle in Crucial Phase

FORT COLLINS — The current cattle cycle is approaching a new and crucial phase for the cattle industry, according to Richard Fenwick, research assistant with the Colorado State University extension economics section.

It was during this phase of the last cattle cycle that choice slaughter steers at Chicago dropped from $32.50 tp $22 between September, 1952 and Apri 1953, Fenwick continues.

Our present cycle began in 1958 with a low point of 59.2 million head of beef cattle. The buildup was gradual at first and then began to pick up momentum in 1962 and 1963. During these two years, beef cattle numbers increased by about five percent per year, Fenwick explains. The impact of expansion was felt in both years when fed cattle and feeder prices declined sharply. Numbers are continuing to grow this year, but at a reduced rate.

This leveling - off phase in beef cattle expansion is crucial for two reasons, Fenwick suggests. First, the rapid expansion of beef cattle numbers during the past two years will be reflected in fed cattle slaughter through 1966. Second, a leveling - off in the expansion of beef herds means closer culling of cows and more heifers available for feeding.

A reduction in the rate of expansion in the industry is a necessary adjustment, Fenwick states. A five percent per year increase in beef cattle numbers is more than the market can absorb at steady prices. On the other hand, a rapid transition from expansion to liquidation of cattle numbers can compound the short - term problem by releasing large numbers of breeding stock to the slaughter market.

However, Fenwick suggests today's cattle market may not be as vulnerable as it was in 1953 - 55. One major reason for the liquidation in the last cattle cycle was deterioration of range conditions in the Great Plains. Today, changing patterns in beef production could ease the effect of forced liquidation due to sectional drought.

For example, 12 southeastern states now contain about 23 per cent of all beef cows two years and older. These states have expanded their beef production in the past several years and will probably continue to expand their numbers considerably faster than other areas of the nation.

One estimation, by the Economic Research Service, suggests over 40 per cent of our beef cow herd will be located in that area by 1975. The area could absorb some beef cattle liquidated in other parts of the nation because of drought.

In addition, high per capita income permits us to maintain beef consumption at record levels, Fenwick points out. The general economy is less dependent upon the agricultural economy than it has been in the past. Thus, per capita income may remain relatively high even though farm incomes decline.

As shown earlier this year, large supplies of beef can be consumed quickly, preventing extremely large buildups of cold storage beef. Per capita beef consumption totaled nearly 79 pounds last year and may rise to over 100 pounds this year.

Terrors Preparing For League Opener

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Eight points.

That's the margin that separated Palmer's Terrors from an undefeated, untied non-conference season. And the Terrors will remember those eight points as they open South Central League play against Pueblo Centennial Friday night in Wasson Stadium.

Palmer finished non - league tuneups with a 2-1-1 mark. The Terrors lost to Golden, 7-0, and failed to score that eighth point as they tied powerful Loveland, 9-19 last week.

The Terrors did pick up an expected 26-13 victory over Aurora Hinkley, a school in its sophomore year, not yet ready for full-dress Class AAA battle. And the Terrors ground out a thrilling 20-17 win over Lamar, last year's state Class AA finalist.

Centennial is getting along with difficulty this season after copping the district crown last fall. The Bulldogs have amassed a 1-3 record this year, including a slight moral victory in a 12-6 loss to Pueblo East last week. The six points are the only count chalked against East this year in four starts.

Injuries have weakened the Terrors at several positions, but tackle is the weakest spot thus far. Jesse Bragg and Rex Bauer both are sidelined with assorted injuries, leaving the meat positions to Gary Stockdale, a regular who has been injured and is not fully recovered, and regular center Ron Smith Smith was moved over last week and performed creditably.

But tackle, beyond those two, is weak and coach Bill Westbay is seeking a way to shore up that position as well as several others.

Back Jesse Martinez still has his leg in a cast and will be out. Another back, senior Bob Wake, has re-injured the leg that kept him out of action in non-conference play and will not see action this week.

Besides the wounded, Westbay has several other stalwarts who have been ill or have minor aches and pains which could slow their performance against a small but exceptionally fast Centennial team.

But if statistics can scare Centennial, and there is no assurance the Bulldogs will roll over and play dead in Palmer's first league outing, the Terrors have them to present.

Fullback Ben Bryant, workhorse of the Terrors, has carried 82 times for 395 yards, exactly half of Palmer's total ground yardage. Bryant is averaging 4.8 yards a carry and Dennis Bair, with a net 244 yards gained, is averaging 5.1 yards a carry.

The Terrors lead their four opponents in all categories except passing. Although the Palmer defense has intercepted three passes this year, the Terrors are more dangerous against rushing plays. They have limited their foes to 433 yards rushing and have given up 392 yards in the air.

Claude Spears has kicked 11 punts for a creditable 34.7 average, which does not include several kicks that sailed into the end zone. His kicking mate, Ken Rose, has booted twice for a 45.5 average.

Duke Coach Gives 'Flapjack' Grid Lessons

To succeed, all you have to do is turn over at the right time.

The veteran coach estimated the new defensive system he has installed has cut down the defensive assignments his player must learn at least 50 per cent.

"You don't have a left or right in this defense," said Murray. "The defensive players simply rotate to the wide side of the field. When the opposing team shifts, your defense must rotate with that shift. The same applies in different passing patterns by the opposition."

Lehigh and Lafayette first played football in 1884. Lafayette won 50-0.

MRS. LOIS RYAN, Colorado Springs, Colo., a car owner who tried a sample of Skelly's additive, Keotane, reports: "We got 2 more miles per gallon. Our car has been starting much better with Keotane. There was a definite increase in power." (from Keotane Report #6)

Product to Sell

Don't blame the fans!

It's probably the natural reaction to point the finger of blame on the guy who fails to line up at the ticket booth when the area—and particularly Denver—is accused of being poor backers of athletics.

The truth of the matter is that Sam Fan will take or leave what he wants and no name calling nor plea for community loyalty will change that. And is that really so strange?

A shameful diget has been pointed at the entire region for the failure of several athletic ventures. It's said that people around the Rockies will back only a winner — and then there's some doubt.

But the sames ones who are taking a crack at the would-be fans should rather take a mirrored view of what they are offering. If it's worth the price, the stands will be packed.

The case in point at this writing is the Denver Broncos, who are on the verge of slipping into oblivion. Only a small miracle could keep the American Football League's franchise in Colorado's capitol city alive for the future. . .and those in charge of the Broncs seem to be just a little short of magic at this point.

It was just about the last straw last Sunday when they were pasted for a third straight time in league play. Perhaps the first two might have been brushed off since they were on the East Coast and excuses were far more plentiful than points for the Denver club.

But the last venture was before the noses of the home fans and the Broncos not only were left smarting from the short end of a 38-17 talley to Houston, but also the cat-calls from the stands must have left a burning memory of their fatal mistakes to all the players on the field.

The point is, with television subsidation right around the corner the fate of the league is no longer in doubt. But unless Denver can come up with a solid product worth selling, some of those cities which have been clammoring for transfer of a team in the pro leagues will be renewing their efforts to send the Broncos galloping to other parts.

Not that any place could do well with a team as obviously sick as this one. However, if moved the new owners undoubtedly would completely revamp the setup and at least try to build a winner. It would be wise if the owners in Denver would look at it the same way.

What the Broncos need is a little hard to pinpoint. The main trouble, thet way I see it, it attitude and probably a few new faces in key positions. But they shouldn't expect the fans to change their attitude about what they want to buy.

This week the management of the Broncos were reported to have given Coach Jack Faulkner a new vote of confidence. That is, they said he still has a job this week. However, some experts in the field feel Denver has some of the best talent in the AFL — so it's no wonder a few have suggested a pink slip for the team's leader. That was the message on several signs hoisted out of the crowd at the stadium last weekend.

The Broncos certainly aren't the first to suffer from an anemic gate. . .and probably won't be the last. But is this really the fault of the fans?

Right here in Colorado Springs we saw professional baseball move out when the receipts barely cleared the bills. In that case the product from the Western League Sky Sox was top caliber for its class, but it was competing against a free show of the Major Leagues on the magic tube plus a general decline in interest throughout the country towards all but the best in baseball.

Denver also suffered through an agonizing but futile drive aimed at community pride (not unlike our Save the Sky Sox Drive) which was to preserve professional ice hockey in the Mile High City. Some felt the Invaders of the Western Hockey League were real artists at the mayhem of the sport, and they were backed up by the fact that Denver won the league the first time out with ease.

But if the public really wanted the Invaders they would have enlongated the ticket line during the regular season. Some gave the excuse that the fans had to be orientated to the game, but they were forgetting that the sport of hockey through the colleges has been in the area for some time.

JACK FAULKNER
Gets the Message

The pros preach perfection — and this is supposed to be their big drawing power. If that is the case, it's easy to see why there are so many empty seats at the Broncos games.

But with perfection ,you are without much of the element of the unexpected. And evidently there are quite a few who enjoy the surprises that go with high school and college games among the amateurs.

Here, too, the product must be worth the price. And those in Denver who wielded the shovels to bury DU football a few years back will testify to that. The Pioneers were simple caught in the squeeze of the uptown bargains at Colorado U. and the Air Force Academy when it came to competing for the weekend fan.

Loyalty is one thing, but spending the hard-earned buck is another. Why else would the stadium at the AFA be about half full for this Saturday's game against Colorado State University, while fans are going begging for ducats for the following week's game with Notre Dame.

Promoters — here or anywhere else — had better get off this kick of appealing to community spirit and the threat of removal if the stands aren't filled. They have but one objective: to satisfy the public. And if they can't the would-be fans will send them on their way.

Bob Toof Leads SCL Scorers

Bob Toof, Wasson's swift fullback, grabbed the South Central League scoring lead during the first round of games last weekend by running across two touchdowns in the Thunderbirds' 19-14 victory over Pueblo South.

Toof was the only SCL player to tally more than once in the three league contests. Both Mike Bosso and Tony Maccagnan of Trinidad had a single touchdown and an extra point to share second place.

A total of 13 players were involved in the first week scoring. Palmer, which played a non-conference game against Loveland, has yet to open league action.

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Barney Schultz has been pitching for 20 years with 18 clubs in 12 different leagues. And no one has paid much interest.

They didn't this year either.

"There was a time when we were asking other clubs if they were interested in Barney," said St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane Tuesday night.

"But no one paid any attention to us."

So Keane kept the 38-year-old knuckle ball specialist — and suddenly he's turned into a key figure in the Cardinals' drive toward their first National League pennant since 1946.

Schultz bailed out a Cardinal starter for the fifth straight game Tuesday, preserving Ray Sadecki's 20th victory as St. Louis extended its winning streak to seven with a 4-2 victory over floundering Philadelphia.

That pulled the Cardinals into a flat-footed tie for first place with the Cincinnati Reds, who had their winning streak snapped at nine games in a 2-0 loss to Bob Friend and the Pittsburgh Pirates

The Reds and Cardinals each have four games remaining — and the way Keane figures it, Schultz may be in every one.

"He can pitch nine days in a row if they're short stints," said Keane.

Most of Schultz' short stints have been in the majors. He was with the Cardinals in 1955, the Detroit Tigers in 1959 and the Chicago Cubs the last three years before winding up back at St. Louis. In between, he was at Bradford, Hagerstown, Rock Hill and other points along the minor league trail.

His major league record is 19-18 but it's what he's done for the Cardinals that has impressed Keane. Schultz has been in 28 games since late July, pitching 47 2-3 innings and compiling an eye-opening 1.69 earned run average. In those all-important last five games, he's allowed one hit.

The Phillies used six pitchers and 22 players altogether in an attempt to weed off their ninth consecutive defeat. But they couldn't do it and remained 1½ games behind with only three left to play.

Elsewhere, San Francisco remained mathematically alive in the pennant race by edging Houston 5-4 in 11 innings on Matty Alou's first homer in exactly two years, the Chicago Cubs edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 and Milwaukee downed the New York Mets 7-6.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox closed to within 2½ games of the first-place New York Yankees edging the Los Angeles Angels 2-1 and Kansas City defeated Minnesota 7-6 in 15 innings. Every one else was rained out.

The Cardinals scored a run in the first inning against Phillies starter Dennis Bennett on Curt Flood's single and a double by Dick Groat, then scored two more in the second on Julian Javier's double, singles by Mike Shannon and Tim McCarver and Flood's grounder.

The Phillies struck back for two runs in the fourth when Sadecki walked the bases loaded and pinch hitter Gus Triandos rapped a single. Then, after Bill White homered for the Cardinals in the sixth, Philadelphia started to peck away at Sadecki again in the seventh.

Johnny Callison, who didn't start because he had the flu, stroked a pinch-hit single with one out. Cookie Rojas grounded out, but a passed ball got Callison to third and Tony Taylor walked.

So did Keane — out to the mound.

"When I left the dugout, I didn't know if I'd bring in Schultz," said Keane. "But by the time I reached the mound, I knew I needed to get one man out, and Schultz was the man to do it."

Richie Allen was the batter. He popped up.

Schultz allowed only a harmless walk the rest of the way.

At Cincinnati, Friend, 13-18, and Reds' rookie Billy McCool were locked in a scoreless duel until the ninth. Friend, who allowed 11 hits, had turned back threat after threat — the Reds had two men on in four of the first five innings — while McCool had allowed only three hits.

Bob Bailey opened the ninth with a single for the Pirates and one out later raced to third on Roberto Clemente's double. McCool then walked Gene Freese and got Donn Clendenon on a foul pop. But Bill Mazeroski rifled a single to center for two runs and the victory.

Tom Haller homered for the Giants in the sixth inning for a 32 lead, then walked and eventually scored the tying run in the eighth after the Colts had moved ahead on consecutive bases-empty homers by Jim Beauchamp and Rusty Staub.

Alou won it with his homer in the 11th as Masanori Murakami picked up his first victory in the majors.

Ron Campbell's single and a double by Jimmy Stewart drove in the tie-breaking run for the Cubs in the eighth inning against the Dodgers.

T-Birds Working Hard To Eliminate Fumbles

BY TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

"I think this has been the strangest football year I've ever experienced," a wistful Gib Funk said Tuesday, even while he was making preparations for his team's assault on Pueblo Central Friday night in a battle that could go a long way toward determining Wasson's role in this year's South Central League race.

"Thinking back over the things that have happened, we could actually be 4-0 today," Gib commiserated concerning his club which finally won its first game last Friday night.

That idea may appear somewhat far - fetched on the surface, but the majority of fans who have seen the Thunderbirds play this fall find themselves in a position of having to agree. "We fumbled away that game to Aurora Central," Funk said Tuesday. "Then Lakewood beat us on three long runs. And, of course, we played a miserable game against Arvada West."

Following these three non-league defeats, the T-Birds rebounded last Friday against Pueblo South — but in a performance that kept the fans in suspense until the final few minutes. The Birds thoroughly thrashed South in every phase if the game but surrendered five fumbles and a pass interception and were forced to come from behind to post the 19-14 victory.

"This team probably has more offensive potential than any I've coached at Wasson," Funk said Tuesday. "But we make so many mistakes we don't give ourselves much chance to score. Usually a high school team can figure on getting possession of the ball about 13 times during a game. Well, we gave it up five times on fumbles and once on an interception Friday so you can see how much chance that gives us to get it across the goal line."

Funk, however, has instituted a reminder that may help the T-Bird backs get over their tendency to bobble the ball. The Wasson coach was presented a minature football in a pail at the Quarterback Club meeting Monday, with the idea that the Thunderbirds need something in which to carry the ball — other than their hands.

The veteran mentor passed the advice on by ruling that the Wasson back who mishandles the ball the most frequently must carry that pail and ball wherever he goes the following day. Ironically, the midweek victim was fullback Bob Toof, who set a school rushing record against Pueblo South last Friday by running for 150 yars in 26 carries. Toof, who was starting only his second game, eclipsed a mark set by Mike Teague in the final contest of last season.

Toof was only one of three backs who turned in an outstanding game against the Colts. The T - Bird fullback scored on runs of 48 and nine yards but it was a one yard plunge by quarterback Jim Smith that won the contest. Smith, who gained 108 yards while playing oct of both halfbacks and quarterback, gained the praise of Funk for "two plays that probably won the game for us." And Bob Oyler was cited for excellent blocking.

Smith knifed through a wall of blockers to spill a Colt back on a screen pass that seemed destined to gain a healthy chunk of yards. Offensively, it was his brilliant effort on a fourth down and five situation that went for seven yards to the one yard line and set up the 'Birds' winning touchdown. That had to be considered the key play of the game.

Despite Smith's heroics, Toof took over the team rushing lead with 257 yards in 54 carries, a 4.8 average. Smith follows closely with 234 yards in 56 tries for a 4.2 mean while Bob Oyler, who moved in at right-half last week, has a 4.2 average.

Too, although playing consistently in only two of the team's our games, leads the scoring with 18 points. Smith is second with 13 and still tops the pass receivers with six the pass receivers with six catches for 80 yards.

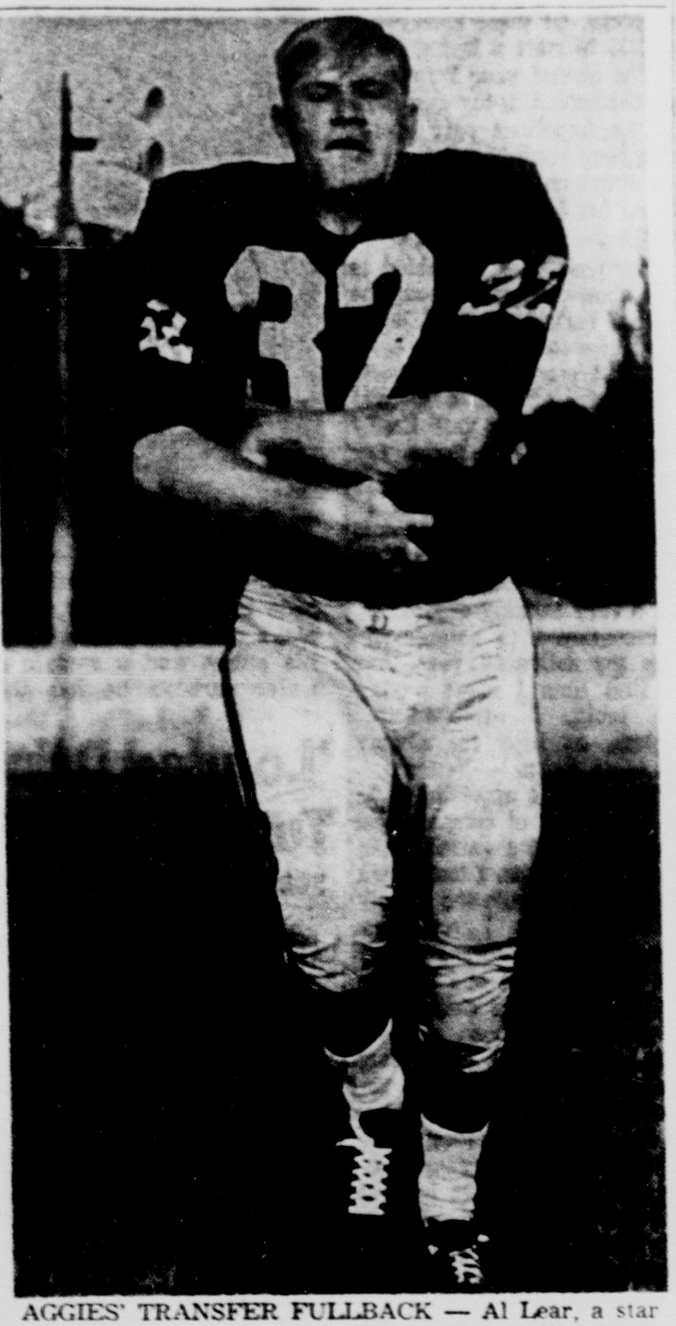
Tiger-Cats Defeat Eskimos, 43-14

EDMONTON (AP) — The Hamilton Tiger-Cats, taking advantage of early fumbles, trounced the Edmonton Eskimos 43-14 Monday night in a Canadian Football League game before 13,000 fans.

The result left Hamilton two points in back of the Ottawa Rough Riders in teh Eastern Conference. Fullback Art Baker scored two touchdowns to pace Hamilton.



AGGIES' TRANSFER FULLBACK — Al Lear, a star fullback in the prep circles while at Fort Collins High, is expected to be one of the main cogs in the Colorado State U. offense this Saturday when the Aggies meet Air Force in Falcon Stadium. Lear, a 214-pound junior, is a transfer from Oklahoma U., where he lettered as a sophomore. He was on the red shirt squad at CSU last year.

Fundamentals for Falcons

Coach Ben Martin sent his Cadets back to learning fundamentals in practice sessions early this week, trying to eliminate some of the mistakes which cost the Air Force Academy in last Saturday's 24-7 defeat at Michigan. The Falcons, who lost the ball three times on fumbles and twice more on pass interceptions at Ann Arbor, were running basic drills on Tuesday.

Martin also was displeased with the AFA defense that allowed Michigan to go for several long runs in last weekend's contest. The week before in the season's opener the AF defense was praised for its 3-2 standoff with Washington.

Fairly heavy drills were expected today and Thursday as the Air Force gets ready for this Saturday's home opener against Colorado State University.

Meanwhile, Coach Mike Lude at CSU has been working his Rams overtime on pass defense, fearing the shots from AFA quarterback Tim Murphy to the bevy of fine receivers he hit in the loss to Michigan. Murphy passed for 215 yards — just four short of a school record set by Rich Mayo.

Both teams are looking for their second wins in three games. CSU lost its opener to Wyoming 31-7, and eked out a 7-0 decision over Pacific last weekend.

Buffs Lose Reese; Big Fullback Quits

BOULDER (AP) —Colorado's football team has lost its third fullback this season by voluntary quitting.

George Reese, 5-foot-11, 190 pounds, from Jackson, Miss., who was switched from halfback to help out at the manpower-short position, dropped off the team Tuesday.

Reese, who started both of Colorado's games this season, was rated one of the team's hardest runners.

"George was dissatisfied with his play at fullback," Coach Eddie Crowder said. "He felt he had lost his desire to play and quit. We encouraged him to consider his future and that of the team, but he was determined to quit."

Crowder said Terry McCarthy No. 1 fullback in spring training who's been on the No. 3 unit, will move into Reese's vacated spot. Ben Howe, fullback on the No. 2 platoon, is primarily a linebacker.

McCarthy, who normally weighs around 198 or 200, reported at 181 pounds this fall after trying out this summer for the Olympic wrestling team.

Crowder said McCarthy has been gaining weight and strength and should prove an adequate replacement. He's a sophomore from Hayward, Calif.

Two other fullbacks listed on the Buffaloes' preseason roster, Teddy Washington of Baton Rouge, La., and Norm Patera of Portland, Ore., dropped after the first day's practice.

McCarthy is expected to start against Kansas State in Colorado's Big Eight Conference opener at Boulder Saturday.

Hawkins' Dwarfs Aid Colts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Alex Hawkins is leader of the dwarfs on the Baltimore Colts who whistle while they work. His gang plays only for kicks — punts, kickoffs and field goals.

"The teams," as the specialists are called, are common on all National Football League squads. But Baltimore has tried to make something extra special out of them.

Both Coach Don Shula and quarterback John Unitas mentioned them after last Sunday's 52-0 squashing of the Chicago Bears.

"The teams kept us in good field position and Alex Hawkins as their captain did a tremendous job," said Shula. "This is the second straight week the teams have done this. They gave us good field position at Green Bay, too, when we won 21-20."

"Hawk's teams kept giving us the ball at midfield instead of deep in our own territory and that helped a lot," added Unitas.

Hawkins attributes the success to the spirit adopted by those assigned to the one-play units. Virtually all were collegiate stars.

U.S. Olympic Cagers Lose To NBA Team; Iba Satisfied

"I've been playing 12 players to take a look at everybody," Coach Hank Iba said. "Now, I'm going to start putting the team together."

The Olympic squad, playing aggressively, battled the Baltimore Bullets on even terms for about 32 minutes Tuesday night before losing to the National Basketball Association team 72-62.

"I'm satisfied with the progress of the team," said Iba, the veteran coach from Oklahoma State. "The boys have come a long way since we first got together. They have played very well against the professionals."

The Olympians whipped the San Francisco Warriors and lost to the Cincinnati Royals before dropping the decision to Baltimore.

"We have enough speed and height," Iba said, "and the boys shoot well from 18 to 20 feet out. We're not too strong under the boards yet, but I think we will be. And, we're still making too many mistakes."

Iba, and assistant coach Hank Vaughn from the Akron-Goodyear Wingfoots AAU team, plan workouts at the University of Southern California today

Kentucky Coach Has His Day

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — On a Saturday afternoon two years ago in this Mississippi capital city, the radio in the motel room blared out college football scores.

"Xavier 14, Kentucky 9," the announcer said.

The big man shook his head. Only 10 months before he had been offered the head coaching job at Kentucky — his alma mater.

But Charlie McClendon said no. He stayed at Baton Rouge, La., and stepped into the spot vacated by Paul Dietzel, who said he'd never leave Louisiana State but jumped to Army.

McClendon had been a Dietzel assistant, in charge of the Tiger defense the year LSU won the national championship.

The Kentucky coaching job went to Charley Bradshaw, who, like McClendon, was a graduate of the hard-nosed football played by Paul (Bear) Bryant at Kentucky. Bradshaw had been an aide to Bryant when Bear went to Alabama after a stop at Texas A & M.

For awhile, Charlie McClendon wondered if he had made the right choice. He had been offered more money at Kentucky.

That fall Saturday afternoon in 1962, found McClendon in Jackson waiting until his Tigers played — and won — that night against Mississippi State.

McClendon had six victories, one defeat and one tie under his belt. The victory over Mississippi State and another one the following week over Tulane gave him an 8-1-1 record — best of any rookie head coach in the nation. The Tigers went to the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day and beat Texas 13-0 — the last time, incidentally, the Longhorns lost a game.

Kentucky's gridiron stock was at its lowest ebb after the loss to Xavier. Bradshaw was down to 26 players; the rest had quit the team. He finished the season with a 3-5-2 mark.

As the radio droned on, someone said to Charlie McClendon:

"You know, now, don't you, Charlie, that you made the right decision by staying at LSU and not going back to Kentucky?"

The 1963 season found McClendon posting a 7-2-1 record and going to another bowl.

There was one blemish on McClendon's record: there was one team which he hadn't been able to beat — Mississippi.

Bradshaw had another dismal season — finishing 3-6-1.

Then came another Saturday afternoon. Just the other day, in fact.

This time it was Charley Bradshaw who was in Jackson.

Standing in his dressing room, Charley Bradshaw wept. Tears welled out of his steel blue eyes; his voice was choked with emotion. But Charley Bradshaw was happy . . . and he'd done something that Charlie McClendon hadn't.

Kentucky had just pulled the upset of the 1964 season by thoroughly and completely demolishing Mississippi, ranked as the No. 1 collegiate team in the country, by a 27-21 score.

"We're just starting," said Bradshaw.

He wasn't asked, but you can bet Charley Bradshaw never realized until that day just how tickled he was that Charlie McClendon had decided against taking the Kentucky job.

Angels Need Two Victories

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels, if they hope to finish in fifth place in the American League, will have to come up with at least two victories in their last four games.

Manager Bill Rigney, who's signed his contract for next season, also estimated what the club needs if it's going to finish better than fifth next year.

"We need a couple more pitchers and another hitter," he said, "someone who can drive in runs.

"I don't know if we can get a third baseman or not. But we need someone to take the pressure off Willie Smith and Jim Fregosi."

French Gal Big Heroine In Olympics

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — At the age of 16, Christine Caron has become as much of a celebrity in France as Maurice Chevalier, Pablo Picasso or Georges Carpentier.

Her fame may not be as lasting, but during an Olympic year it is in full bloom. Especially since she set a world record of 1:08.6 in the 100-meter swimming backstroke.

The fact that Genny Duenkel, of West Orange, N. J., bettered this mark with a 1:08.3 performance at Los Angeles Sunday only heightened the interest. Frenchmen were almost counting the Olympic gold medal as won. Now with a direct challenge in sight, every Chauvinistic French heart will be beating with Christine's through all the Olympic heats.

Christine likes the feeling of being known.

"People look at their newspapers in the subway, then look at me, then look back at the newspaper," she said. "It's very nice, kind of funny. Boys talk to me, even when they don't say a word to a girl who is prettier than I am."

But her trainer, Mme. Suzanne Berlioux, said "She's still a child. It's too often forgotten. She doesn't lead a real life, you know. She had to stop school. It was impossible.

In a bigger country, where the harvest of Olympic gold medals might be bigger, Christine might pass almost unnoticed outside the little world of swimming. But France hopes for six gold medals — at the very best — at Tokyo, so what Christine does is important.

Mme. Berlioux and Christine went to Tokyo three weeks ahead of the Olympic opening to get acclimated to Japanese weather and conditions. They got the word there that Miss Duenkel had taken the record. Mme. Berlioux said it might be all to the good since "Christine was a little too calm and maybe a bit over-confident."

Given her first swimming lesson at four, Christine said "I hated it. I screamed and kicked and bellowed."

But she learned, and by the time she was 11 her older sister Annie had set a French record for the 100-meter breaststroke. Following her big sister's activities naturally led Christine into competitive swimming.

In 1962, she set European records in both 100 and 200-meter backstroke events. She bettered both records earlier this year, and went on to the world record.

Christine trains about four hours a day, and has to race against the boys to get any competition.

Mme. Berloioux feels American girls may have an advantage because of this.

"Americans are accustomed to battling one another all during the season, even outside their specialties," she said.

Florence Fullback Has Lead in PPL Scoring

The Pikes Peak League scoring title could change hands easily this week and three hands are there to pick it up.

Dick Shadwell, hard-running fullback from Florence, scored four TDs and an extra point last week in disposing of Fowler singlehanded. Dan Grigsby of Fountain and Salida's Keith Baker each have tallied two touchdowns.

Shadwell and Baker may have the roughest times getting points. Their respective teams play each other in what many fans feel will be the district championship game. Baker scored his markers against winless Crowley County, which has not scored a point this year

Fowler has scored 18 points this year, in four losses, and meets Fountain Friday night, a team which is certain to add to the 105 points scored against Fowler. Grigsby should have opportunity to compound his total.

Manitou Springs, the fourth member of the first round win group in league play, shucks off a surprising 19-14 verdict over Leadville and prepares for Buena Vista. The Demons suffered a 34-0 league loss last week to undefeated Fountain. It was Buena Vista's first loss this fall.

Leadville and Crowley County meet in the other game, as losers seek to escape the collar.

Cheyenne Slim Choice to Snare First Will Rogers Championship

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

(Editor's note: The following is a prospective roundup of the Will Rogers League chase which starts Friday night and a close-up of the five teams in the newly formed Triple-A league).

With new head football coaches at the helm, the five teams in the Will Roger League launched their non-conference nearly a month ago and the WRL circuit is presently batting better than .500 in the won-loss department.

Composed of four area schools — Widefield, Air Academy High, Cheyenne Mountain and Harrison, along with Canon City — the WRL members face the formidable task competing against highly poised and established Class - AAA schools in state competition since they advanced from the Double-A division.

The winner of the WRL is scheduled to meet the victor of the competitive Southern League for a berth in the state playoffs. The winner of that playoff game is slated to tangle with the South Central League champion in the state quarterfinals.

At the beginning of the season, we picked the 1963 State Double-A champion Cheyenne Mountain as a solid choice to sew up the first WRL championship with the talented Kadets of Air Academy High the top challenger and rated Widefield the loop's darkhorse.

Despite the fact that the Cheyenne gridders lost two games in four outings, the Indians must rate as the favorite to clinch the title. However, the WRL pennant chase won't be an easy task for the Indians such as they experienced last year wrapping up the Pikes Peak League undefeated and at a 55-point per game clip.

Terry Mackey, who performed miracles at Harrison for two years, has constructed a sound running team at Academy High in his first term and the Kadets have a respectable non-loop record to date posting three wins and one loss.

The key to the WRL race will undoubtedly be decided when Cheyenne and Academy tangle a week from Friday, Oct. 9. That contest could go either way and the winner of that encounter could sew up the title.

Greg Cramblit, who was chosen last year on the All-City, All-PPL and All-State teams, has been the Indians mainstay and his consistent running from the fullback position makes the Cheyenne team effective. The WRL teams will have to stop Cramblit to stop Cheyenne.

This looks like the year for fullbacks as all five teams boast big and hard runners at that position.

The Kadets have veteran Roger Karolick at fullback and his blocking and running has been an important factor in Academy High's successful non-league slate. The Big Blue also has an explosive and swift halfback in Rhode Island transfer Bill Wood, who leads the Kadets in rushing and scoring.

Widefield's new grid boss, Norm Theiss who is a veteran of 12 football campaigns, has managed to get the Gladiators to jell as a unit and last weekend the Widefield team scored a decisive 33-13 win over Westminster.

Not only did the Glads display a flair for aggressive tackling and blocking, but Theiss came up with four dandy runners to give his team depth in the backfield. Eldon Lee, a 160-pound converted quarterback who runs with authority and poise from the halfback slot, and 206-pound fullback Tom Nigbur make the Gladiators a threat to both Cheyenne and Academy.

In addition, Theiss has his 17-year-old son, Dave Theiss, directing the Gladiators' forward attack at quarterback. The younger. Theiss is capable of throwing the football and in the last outing he was in excellent form barking commands and leading the Gladiator offense.

Two other speedsters, Steve Hughes and Dave Kindsfater, give the Widefield team reserve strength in the backfield.

Bob Irving took the head coaching job at Harrison knowing that the majority of the varsity corps there had graduated last spring. But the former Cheyenne coach has come up with a winning combination which enables the Panthers to enjoy a 3-1 won-loss record to date.

The Panthers have lettermen Jerry Williams, halfback, and fullback Dick Maki in the backfield to make them a running threat and coupled with the passing capabilities of junior quarterback Bill Doud, the Harrison gridders could upset the WRL applecart.

At Canon City, the Tigers have the same problem lack of experienced personnel. Don Stimack, a former University of Colorado assistant football coach, took over the duties of head coach at Canon City with a small corps of returning lettermen. The entire 1963 starting unit graduated last year.

But they have three strong runners in Dennis Meese, who is probably the fastest runner in the WRL, 205-pound fullback Tom Firestack and Mickey Gann. Meese is the Tigers top ground gainer and leading scorer.

BACK

Jim Smith, 142-pound star of the Wasson Thunderbirds, has been named Back of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for his outstanding play in his team's 19-14 victory over Pueblo South last Friday.

Smith, who started at quarterback but played three different backfield positions during the night, gained 106 yards in 19 carries, including a seven yard trip down the sidelines to set up the final touchdown, a run that primarily was a product of his own effort. Smith carried over the winning T.D. on the next play. He also was a standout defensively for the T-Birds.

The firey senior is in his third year as a starter for the Wasson football team. In addition he was an All-City basketball player last winter and an all-conference baseball star.

Others considered for th honor this week were Sam Zavatti of St. Mary's, Danny Wheeler of Manitou Springs, Dan Grigsby of Fountain, Bill Wood of Academy High, Dave Kindsfater of Widefield, Doug Heyliger of Cheyenne Mountain, Bill Doud of Harrison, Bob Toof and Bob Oyler of Wasson, and Ken Heaton and Ben Bryant of Palmer.

LINEMAN

Ron Petty, Widefield's defensive captain and middle linebacker, was selected the Lineman of the Week for his outstanding blocking and tackling last week against Westminster. He was chosen for the award by the Gazette Telegraph sports staff.

The 155-pound guard was a menace to the Westminster forward attack as the Gladiators stopped the upstate team, 33-13. Widefield's head coach Norm Theiss rates the converted fullback as a coachable player with good moves and speed.

Theiss also said that it was Petty's blocking which enabled the Gladiators to move the ball and compile a remarkable 381 total yards gained.

Stengel's Hiring No Surprise to Old Casey

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — At the ripe old age of 74, Casey Stengel has agreed to a fourth term as manager of the cellar-chained New York Mets.

The announcement at a Tuesday noon press conference came as no surprise to old Case but apparently it jolted some of his listeners.

"Were you surprised?" a man with a microphone asked Stengel.

"I think you was," said Case. "Why should I be? You don't know my business. I get paid by people who understand my line of business. The people who employ me own the ball club. No radio station owns it."

In typical Stengelese he said his new one-year contract called for a "very splendid raise." When he was asked how much "splendid" meant, he replied, "I don't have to say."

An educated guess set his salary at $90,000 but, like most sports salaries, this was purely an estimate.

Eternally young for a man who has been in baseball since 1910, Stengel looked hopefully to the future.

"I think we are starting on the right course," he said, referring to the announcement that Bing Devine and Eddie Stanky, late of the St. Louis Cardinals, had joined the Mets' front office. Devine will be an assistant to President George Weiss and Stanky will be in charge of player development.

"Certainly we have improved," said Stengel. "We have pitchers that other managers want to get ownership of. They must be better I've got some men who actually can pitch nine innings. Now they are calling us up and asking about our players.

"Evidently the Philadelphia pitching blowed. And Milwaukee doesn't have the best pitching staff in the league."

Stengel said he did not expect to see the World Series this year and had thought of making a trip to the Orient.

"I did have an idea of going to Japan and bringing back one of those Japanese players," he said. "Our Japanese attendance could be improved."

Donald Grant, chairman of the board, said the Mets never had any intention of hiring anybody else but did talk to one or two men who might be available if Casey decided to retire.

"As soon as Casey told me he wanted to manage, that was it," said Grant. Weiss said he and Stengel got together Monday.

Stanky was due to start work immediately, joining the Mets on their final road trip to assess young talent. He also will visit the Winter League in Florida where coach Don Heffner will be the manager.

CAPITOL STUFF

By RICHARD McGOWAN

Washington — President Johnson has been downright fervent in wooing labor groups this fall. His pleading has been so ardent, in fact, that in any other campaign it would seem misplaced or, worse, wasted.

But with the sweeping civil rights law fresh on the books, this is no ordinary election year. The Democrats have reason to fear that in 1964 they cannot necessarily count on the solid union support which customarily channels dollars and votes to their candidates.

So the President is all but doing nip - ups to get labor's rank - and - file into step with his campaign song, "Hello, Lyndon."

Sure, the Johnson - Humphrey ticket has the hearty endorsement of practically every one of the nation's major labor leaders. It's among the membership where the reluctance to hop onto the LBJ bandwagon shows up.

In Washington this hesitancy is called the "union backlash." It has cut sharply into campaign contributions by rank - and - filers in major craft and construction unions. The fugitive dollars could total millions.

Chiefs of union locals in both North and South blame the disaffection overwhelmingly on the civil rights law, although top labor leaders here try to play it down as a problem.

"The rank-and-file are scared to death that the rights bill will mean losing their jobs," one local leader commented at this week's steelworkers convention in Atlantic City. "They are particularly critical of those sections dealing with equal employment opportunity and unsegregated union membership."

Strength Theme in Union Talks

Johnson has tried to end these misgivings since he opened his campaign on Labor Day in Detroit with an address to an AFL-CIO rally. He has continued his "in unions there is strength" theme with speeches to the machinists, steelworkers and electrical unions.

Even his 30 - minute talk to the electrical workers Wednes- circuit TV to the conventions of the United Rubber Workers in Chicago, the tobacco workers in Miami, the United Textile Workers in New York, the Minnesota AFL-CIO in St. Paul and the Missouri AFL-CIO in Kansas City.

In every one of these speeches, all laced with denunciations of "extremists," Johnson referred in some way to the rights law. He pleaded for "fair and just and equal opportunity for every American of every race and color and religion and belief."

"No one has anything to fear in our beloved land from increasing opportunity for all Americans," Johnson told the steelworkers.

Long before the rights law became a reality, Johnson urged both labor and business leaders to set up seminars to learn the intricacies of the controversial measure and the fact that it does not necessitate the loss of jobs for anyone. Most major unions have established such civil rights "workshops."

AFL-CIO President George Meany, United Auto Workers President Walter Reuther and steelworkers' President David J. McDonald are but a few of the leaders in this movement. All have declared their support for Johnson.

A Labor Backlash Has Developed

Despite these actions, the fact remains that a definite labor backlash has developed and is eating into the unions' political coffers.

A spokesman for one of the nation's largest industrial unions said voluntary political contributions in this outfit's districts in a score of states — both North and South — "amount to almost nothing this year."

Normally, he said, these contributions "come in 100 per cent like clockwork."

Most large industrial unions operate their own political action committees. Their funds are raised by voluntary contributions from workers and kept apart from regular union treasuries. This is because federal law prohibits use of union dues for partisan political purposes if the union is to get full use of federal negotiating services.

Part of these union funds are sent as contributions to the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education — COPE — and the rest are used by the union's political action committees to support their favored candidates.

COPE contributes funds to Presidential, Senatorial, Congressional and local candidates, provides campaign literature and a doorbell-ringing, get-out-and-vote service.

Generally, the action groups and COPE have vigorously supported Democratic candidates. But the bucks to do this again are just not coming in this year.

There has been no accurate measurement of the union backlash against the rights bill or opposition to policies of the Johnson Administration in general. A few carefully - guarded polls, however, have indicated definite defections in such areas as Detroit, Cleveland and Pittsburgh which are alarming union leadership.

AFA Falcons Prepare For CSU Home Opener

It's bound to be busy around Falcon Stadium this Saturday as the Air Force Academy's varsity footballers open their home schedule with a game against regional rival Colorado State University from Ft. Collins.

However, the rest of the action at the Academy will be curtailed with only a cross country match slated this Saturday between the Falcons, CSU and New Mexico, and a soccer game on the road with the Cadets traveling to Berkley against the University of California on Friday and at San Jose State College on Saturday.

After an impressive debut last Saturday, the Falcon junior varsity now girds for a meeting Friday, Oct. 16, with a USAFA Prep School squad that has been tagged "big and tough."

Last Saturday, Coach Bernie Raetz' Jay-Vee's squashed Northeastern Junior College at Sterling, 41-7, in their season opener. Scoring honors went to Falcon halfback Phil Bechtel, a junior from Ft. Worth, Tex., who tallied three times for the Silver and Blue, while teammate Bill Manning, another halfback from Paul, Idaho, scored two more times.

With the Academy's great Jim Murphy sitting on the sidelines, the Falcon harriers took on Kearney (Neb.) State and Western Michigan last defeating Nebraska 21-40 while losing to Western Michigan 40-17.

The Falcons, now 2-1 for the short season will host New Mexico and Colorado State University this Saturday at the Academy's Eisenhower Golf Course in a meet scheduled for 10 a. m. The meet will be free of charge, and the public is invited to attend.

Murphy, who missed last week's action because of a sore leg, should be running at full steam Saturday.

A bit awed at the prospect of playing St. Louis University — four-time national champions — the Falcon soccer team was behind 3-0 at the half last Saturday before rallying and almost upsetting the visitors.

Following two goals by Falcon star Jim Thames, the Academy was back in the game with a good chance to tie, or possibly win, until the last 90 seconds of game. At that time, St. Louis' Carl Gentile, one of the squads two Olympic team mebers, booted in a penalty shot to close out the Falcons with a final score of 4-2.

Capt. Carmen Annillo, the Falcons' new coach, was proud of the squad in its season debut, and has high hopes for wins this weekend when the Academy journeys west for a meeting Friday with the University of California and a game the following day with San Jose State College.

Spokane Hitter Charged With Shooting Gun

SPOKANE (AP) — Lou Johnson, outfielder for the Spokane Indians and the No. 2 hitter in the Pacific Coast Baseball League last season, was charged in a justice court complaint here Tuesday with aiming or discharging a firearm.

Johnson, who is accused of aiming a pistol at an 18-year-old Spokane man and "discharging a firearm in a place where people would be endangered," was ordered to appear in justice court Oct. 7 to answer the complaint. No arrest warrant was issued.

Pros. Atty. George A. Kain said the two men involved, Michael J. O'Neil, 18, and Patrick W. Wetherell, 20, told him they felt they were equally responsible for the incident the night of Sept. 21 and that it was all a mistake.

Officers said the two told them they followed Johnson's car after it took off fast from an intersection.

Postcard Draw For Roses Set

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)— A postcard drawing will be held next month to decide who will get to buy 3,500 Rose Bowl tickets—the only ones to be placed on public sale for the New Year's Day football game.

If you want tickets, the Tournament of Roses Association said Tuesday, here's what to do:

Send a postcard bearing your name and address to Rose Bowl, Bin 1800, Pasadena, Calif. Send no money. The mailing deadline is Oct. 15. Each applicant should send only one card.

Soon after Oct. 15, 1,750 cards will be drawn from Bin 1800 and the sender of each will be notified he may buy two tickets.

Having established who is entitled to the tickets, it will then remain only to determine which teams will play the game.

Pirates Face Crucial Test Saturday Against Mullen in DPL Pennant Race

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Can the Bucs do it?

Can Chuck Haering's touted St. Mary's "Outlaws" defensive unit stop the prolific Mullen attack and remain in contention for the Denver Pahochial League championship.

This Saturday the Pirates journey north to answer the challenge as the St. Mary's aggregation attempts for the second straight year to record a victory over the potent Mustangs. The game is scheduled for Mullen Saturday afternoon with kick-off time slated for 2 p.m.

Haering's charges will be faced with stopping the Mullen gridders and even though the Mustangs pulled a 6-0 squeaker over St. Joseph's to post their second win in DPL play, they are still favored to capture the championship.

The Pirates lead the DPL chase with three triumphs followed by Mullen and the mighty Raiders of Regis, the perennial loop champion.

Last year the Bucs stopped heavily favored Mullen, but succumbed to old nemesis Regis and had to settle for a second-place tie with the Mustangs in the final DPL standings.

Saturday's outing with Mullen is the key to the Bucs' bid for a uccessful league campaign but the St. Mary's team also faces snaping the Regis jinx when they go against the Raiders, Oct. 18. That contest is scheduled to be played in Colorado Spring at Wasson Stadium.

And the Pirates will be looking for their first win over the DPL perennial champion Regis!

Last weekend the Pirates swept to their fourth straight win when they handled Annunciation quite handily via a 27-14 triumph which saw Haering clear his bench in the fourth period.

It was in the final period that the Cardinals managed to score both TDs with the second and third St. Mary's units in the ball game.

Sam Zavatti, the Bucs' most consistent and hard-driving 167-pound fullback, zipped through the Cardinal beefy line to pound out 112 yards rushing via 23 carriers. Zavatti, the All-Paroke fullback, leads the Pirates in rushing with 273 net yards for 48 carriers.

In addition, Zavatti tops the team in scoring with six touchdowns. The senior fullback is also outstanding on defense and spearheads the spirited defensive team the "Outlaws" at the middle linebacker slot.

To cite an example of the Pirates aggressiveness: in four games the St. Mary's eleven has only yielded 270 net yards rushing while the Buc have compiled 813 yards rushing.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE, AFLOAT

SS Trade Fair is a spectacular showcase for American products and services, ranging from pumps to paint, from computers to milking machines. It is, as its name implies, a trade fair afloat. It will tour the world, hitting 12 ports in northern Europe on its first cruise and visiting 52 major ports in all. Each of these ports is the major marketing center of the specific country. Primary object of SS Trade Fair is to expand international commerce. Secondary aim is to show other nations the U.S. private enterprise system as it is. The floating exhibition hall is a converted T-2 tanker out of New York. Shown below are cutaway portions of the ship and the departments housed therein; at right, how exhibit areas will look.

Bear Proves No Pet for Household

Four times the bear broke out of its cage in her back yard.

Mrs. Page said she bought Yogi for her husband, a trainer of guard dogs with a yen to train bears. He was away on business.

After the fourth escape the neighbors called the police. They stood by with rifles until animal experts arrived to take Yogi to the Manchester Zoo.

Concert Faces Disaster; Only 60 Seats Sold

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Two weeks ago, Robert Brawley says, he mailed 10,000 brochures and order blanks for a concert he's to conduct Wednesday night at Philharmonic Hall in New York City.

As of Monday night, the box office had sold 60 seats — none to anyone on the 10,000-name mailing list.

"It is something of a catastrope," said Brawley, conductor and director of the Hartford Festival of Music Orchestra and Chorus.

He learned about the lack of response on Friday when he called the box office in New York to find out how tickets were selling.

Brawley began checking people whose names he knew were on the list. They didn't get the brochure. He checked the post office here. It had a receipt for the two bags of mailed brochures, sent to New York.

In New York, postal authorities couldn't find out what happened to them, Brawley said.

"We weren't expecting to make money," he said, "but we had hoped to break even."

He said the break-even point is $6,000. Ticket sales so far total $195.

Italy's Top Tailors Go All Way Out in Fashion

By WALTER LOGAN
United PressInternational

NEW YORK (UPI) — Italian tailors are among the best in the world and their straight forward business suits look pretty much like straightforward business suits anywhere else. When they start going far out, though, they go farther out than anybody.

What will come of the recent showings of Fall and Winter clothes by some of Italy's top tailors—Brioni, Datti, Franzoni and Litrico—remains to be seen. One of the coats shown was a long frock coat of the round-the-world-in-80-days era.

Brioni's stylings tended to feature a softened look. Jackets were subtly fitted and the line was cut high. Trousers were slim and cuffless. For evening he showed dinner jackets in multicolor silks patterned with small designs (In addition to formal jackets in wool mohair and silk shantung.)

One Brioni jacket was a honey-colored worsted wool cardigan with pockets stitch outlined. Another was a beige mohair jacket with a brown overcheck and brown buckskin buttons. The jacket was pinched at the waist, flared at the bottom and the checks on the pockets ran at a 45 degree angle to the rest of the jacket.

Datti's unique stylings relied heavily on new fabrics, definite detailing and intricate seaming. One sports jacket had long pointed flaps which came down and buttoned over each breast pocket. Another had obliquely set patch pockets which gave a V-line pointing downward.

Datti also advocated coordinates in separate fabrics for business wear. Business suits came out as combinations of darker coats worn with lighter trousers or vice versa. A grey tweed coat was shown with brown trousers, a camel jacket with grey pants.

Franzoni came up with the frock coat, inspired by Passepartout, companion to Phineas Phogg on that trip around the world. One was in herringbone-patterned corduroy for a "squire's country weekend." Shoulders were narrow, lapels wide, waist fitted, color squirrel brown.

Franzoni showed heavy tweed coats in loden with beaver collars, bottle blue and Prussian green velvet suits and coats, a belted sports jacket with wide pointed lapels. His modern line featured a highwaisted, narrow shouldered look with shawl collar and single vent.

Litrico's fashions for Fall and Winter were slightly Edwardian in feeling. Shoulders were unpadded and slightly raised. Jackets were slightly cut away from bottom button to hem, giving a slimming look. Coats were on the short side and the top buttons a bit higher. He hates shawl collars and his single breasted dinner jacket had peaked lapels detailed with braiding.

One of Litrico's handsomer efforts was a blue sports jacket in wool which was woven to look like linen. It had fairly wide lapels, two deep vents, regular patch pockets and a slanted breast pocket.

Europeans in Congo Province Flee Again

BUKAVU, the Congo (AP) — Some Europeans in Bukavu packed and fled to the Rwanda border today as rumors spread that rebels were coming.

A rebel attack on Bukavu, capital of Kivu Province, was repelled last month.

Congolese Col. Leonard Mulamba set up temporory headquarters at a major crossroads and tried to stop the panic. He said rebels on foot had been spotted near Walungu and Burhale, a few miles west of Bukavu, but there was "nothing serious."

Mulomba was rallying soldiers and drawing up a defense plan for the town. Local European volunteers were aiding him.

An unidentified American missionary nurse drove up in a bullet-pierced car at 10 a.m. She said she had been hit by machine gun fire 15 miles to the West.

Miller Charges Demo Have 'No Principles'

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — President Johnson and his running mate "seem to have a policy and a program for everyone" as they travel about the country, Rep. William E. Miller said Monday night, but "they don't seem to really have a principle anywhere."

In a round of speeches Monday, Miller accused the Democratic nominees of adjusting their views to suit the prevailing political winds in the locality they happen to be visiting.

Comparing GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and President Johnson, Miller said at an airport rally in Oklahoma City, that:

"I would rather have a man in this day and age who is elected president because of what he believes in because he has the courage of his convictions, rather than some man who changes his opinion every week in order to get votes wherever he happens to be."

Miller flew from Oklahoma City to St. Louis late Monday night. His schedule in St. Louis called for a speech, a television interview and a news conference before leaving for Hutchinson, Kan.

The GOP candidate addressed a full house of 700 Republicans in Oklahoma City and received a cheering, enthusiastic welcome.

Miller remained aloof from group singing of songs that contained sharply etched lyrics about topics that included Mrs. Johnson's financial holdings. Lyrics of other songs referred to the acquisition of the Johnson family fortune.

Although he has been critical of the President on the subject of the acquisition of the Johnson family wealth, Miller has not referred to Mrs. Johnson nor has he accused the President of wrongdoing.

In charging the Democrat views, Miller offered an example, the stand of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, his opponent for vice president, on the issue of oil depletion allowances.

The allowances are tax benefits given to oil producers to encourage them to discover and develop oil wells.

Humphrey, Miller said, had a long history of supporting efforts to reduce the oil depletion allowance, while Goldwater and he had opposed such efforts.

"What kind of politics is this?" Miller asked. "I say beware of any man who attempts to change a whole record and whole philosophy in order to win votes in any election year."

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: I just cannot conceive of eternity, endless existence. This bothers me. Sometimes I sit and ponder this matter of endlessness, and I almost get ill thinking about it. Can you explain eternity? —F. L.

ANSWER: Our finite minds cannot comprehend infinity.

We have trouble enough comprehending the mysteries of time and space. For eaxmple, who can comprehend what a billion dollars is? A newspaper man wrote: "To spend a billion dollars you would have to spend $81 every minute from Nero's day until this moment. Our national debt is over three hundred billion dollars. It would take thirty one years to count a billion dollars at the rate of $11 per second. It would take two hundred and seventy three years to give away a billion dollars at the rate of $10,000 per day. It would take 23,751 years to give away our three hundred billion dollar national debt at the rate of $10,000 per day."

Staggering! But think of the magnitude of a trillion; which is a million billion.

We say this to say that if we find such difficulty in conceiving of the things of time, how can we grasp the length of eternity? I only know that I do not want to spend it apart from God.

NO GOLD

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (AP) — The water in the ocean off Convention Hall will not be dyed gold after all in honor of Sen. Barry Goldwater.

This city's Republican mayor, Thomas F. Shebell, turned thumbs down on the City Development Commission's plan to drop a capsule containing gold-colored dye in the water when Goldwater, the GOP presidential candidate, campaigns here Oct. 7.

Shebell said city officials agreed such a display would show partiality and be resented by some individuals. In recent years, dye capsules have been used to turn the ocean green on St. Patrick's Day and purple on Columbus Day.

Trip to Europe Is Planned by Lyndon Johnson

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, if elected, hopes to go to Europe in November or December to meet with leaders and representatives of the 14 other countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Looking further to the future, Johnson expects to meet fairly soon with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, if the Soviet leader is willing. Such a session, however, probably would not be held until 1965.

The President, it was learned today, is thinking in terms of an appearance either at the November meeting of NATO Parliamentarians or at the December session of the NATO Council. Both conferences will be held in Paris.

As for a Johnson-Khrushchev meeting, it was learned the President feels that sessions with leaders of allied countries would have to come first.

There was nothing to indicate that Johnson, at this point at least, wants to turn either of the NATO meetings in Paris into a summit session involving the heads of member governments.

It was believed likely, however, that Johnson, during any trip to Europe, would seek individual meetings with some national leaders. He was known to be most anxious to meet with President Charles de Gaulle of France, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany and the prime minister of Great Britain.

Should Johnson travel to Europe late this year, it would mark a departure from his announced policy against leaving the country at a time when there is no vice president.

However, he feels that this self-imposed prohibition would no longer be applicable after the election because then there would be a vice president-elect.

The President, it was learned, believes his talks Tuesday with Manlio Brosio, the new secretary general of NATO, helped point the way toward a presidential appearance in Paris later this year.

While no firm plans have been made, if only because solid planning would have to await the election results, Johnson seems to be hopeful of arranging an appearance before the Parliamentarians, an unofficial body composed of appointed representatives of the parliaments and congresses of NATO countries.

As Senate Democratic leader, Johnson attended several of these conferences. He went to one after his election as vice president.

While Johnson may feel a special kinship for the Parliamentarians, because of his own background as a legislator, the NATO Council has official status and wields considerable power. The December Council meeting will bring together ministers of foreign affairs, defense and finance from all the NATO countries.

In looking toward a possible official attendance at either of the NATO meetings, Johnson has in mind the promotion of greater unity with-in the alliance. He particularly wants to see De Gaulle walking in step with other Western leaders and any trip to Paris would be certain to include talks with De Gaulle.

Such a presidential journey also would be likely to feature efforts by Johnson to advance proposals for a multilateral nuclear force within NATO — a topic that is expected to come up for intensive discussion starting in November.

The nuclear force plan, conceived at a 1962 conference of President John F. Kennedy and the British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, would give NATO a fleet of surface ships, manned by mixed crews from member countries and armed with Polaris missiles.

Looking beyond unity talks within NATO, Johnson wants to explore with Khrushchev possible further steps to lessen East-West tensions. He looks upon the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, establishment of the Washington-Moscow "hot line" and last winter's wheat sale to the Soviets as hopeful signs that further steps can be undertaken.

The word "scallion" comes from Ascalon, an ancient Palestine port which shipped onions to the Mediterranean markets.

Lowest cost living area on a sidehill lot is a deck extended out from the downhill side of the home at living room level. Sturdy deck timbers of Douglas fir create inexpensive living area for the outdoor time of the year.

Electric Organ Picks Up Radio Programs

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — It's no laughing matter when Melvin Berg sits down to his electric organ and a radio program comes out.

Berg says ever since the family moved into a new home two months ago the organ, which he has had for years, started picking up radio stations, some as far away as San Francisco.

Experts have been usable to find the trouble. Sometimes the radio music is soft; sometimes loud.

Berg's daughter, Joan, 11, says, "I'll be playing something on the organ and pretty soon the radio station is louder than I am. It bugs me, it really bugs me."

At the beginning of 1964, some 421,000 annuities were being given to retired railroad employes, the Railroad Retirement Board reports.

Joseph Cotten To Complete 'Hush' Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Last May Joseph Cotten began work on a movie which he expected to last two months. He hopes to finish the job sometime this month.

The movie is called "Hush . . Hush, Sweet Charlotte." That's the studio's punctuation, and I guess you've heard about it. That was the one which was supposed to repeat Bette Davis' and Joan Crawford's success with "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane," only Miss Crawford got sick and had to be replaced by Olivia deHavilland.

Whatever happened to Joan Crawford? She has recovered enough to sign for another movie to start this month, "I Saw What You Did."

The man caught in the middle of the brannigan was amiable Joe Cotten, who doesn't seemed bothered at all. True, he has been earning a pleasant paycheck through the whole distressing business. But he claims that is incidental.

Cotten took time out from his nefarious doings — he and Olivia had just given Bette a knockout pill in a scene before lunch was called. He paused to defend the actor's inherent right to get sick.

"I've never been able to understand this business about 'the show must go on,'" he declared. "It's absolute nonsense. People in other lines of work are allowed to be sick now and then. Why shouldn't actors?

"If we owe anything to the theater — and I've never been convinced of that — it is to get well so we can give a good performance.

"Joan had to be sick — you can bet the insurance doctors would not have advised her replacement if she wasn't. The only sensible thing to do was to hire someone else, because the company couldn't wait for her any longer."

Cotten practices his preachment. Last year he and his wife, Patricia Medina, were playing in "Calculated Risk" on Broadway. She had a bad case of the flu but still wanted to do the play.

"I wouldn't let her do it," he said. "And I can tell you this: I would much rather make love to her on the stage than to her understudy."

Knocking on the nearest wood, Cotton admitted that he himself has never missed a curtain although there have been nights when he didn't feel up to snuff. He has been absent on only one movie.

"That was a Western at Universal some years ago," he recalled. "I had a back injury in the middle of it and they had to suspend production for two or three weeks."

As for "Hush . . . Hush," he reported that it is moving right along with its new costar and will be finished in time for a December opening — producer-director Robert Aldrich wants to qualify it for the Oscars.

DENIED

WASHINGTON (UPI)— James J. Saxon, U.S. Comptroller of the Currency, Monday denied two applications for new national banks in Colorado.

The denials were for the proposed Grand Valley National Bank in the heart of the oil shale country and the proposed Loveland National Bank.

No reason was given for the denials.

Plastic Tube Lost In Bloodstream

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Dr. Alfred W. Brody Jr., a Creighton University heart researcher, lost a three-inch plastic tube in his bloodstream a week ago but he is not apprehensive.

The tube, about one-eighth inch thick, could cause an infection or a blood clot, he conceded. As a precaution he is taking anti-infection and anti-coagulant medications.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — Special to the Gazette Telegraph)— Chances that the Bolte program will be considered in this session of Congress are nil. If the next Congress should considmendations is most likely that the Pentagon will be asked to again review the program to update it before Congressional hearings are held. The net result might well be that the Department of Defense will set up a new ad hoc committee to consider the recommendations.

Personnel planners are showing concern over the Army and Air Force retirement of active duty Reserve officers in ROPA grades. Latest strength report figures indicate that 62 per cent of retirement among career active duty officers are Reserve officers.

For example the Air Force has increased by 100 per cent disability retirement, and disability discharges, in the past 4 years. The net of Air Force retirement is now about 25,000 a year. Survey of retirement orders indicate that the disability retirement for officers is mostly among Reserve officers on active duty.

Leaders of the Retired Federal employes will seek a personal conference with President Johnson to enlist his support in behalf of the pending measure to give a 10 per cent increase in employe retired pay. The increase would have a ceiling of $240 a year.

If the retired Civil Service employes secure their increase, politically informed sources here say that Congress will not have any grounds for denying the same exception to the existing law governing retired pay increase, and will give military retirees a 10 per cent increase with an identical ceiling of $240 per year. The majority of military retirees receive less than $3600 a year retired pay.

A newly-released annual report on Service Medicare alleges that some physicians try to collect more fees than the law provides. This is done to some extent by the physicians trying to charge the military families for any excess over the Government scales. Families so sued will find that the Department of Justice will come to their assistance if the fees are in addition to what the Government pays.

Service members seeking employment after duty hours may find it a good policy to secure written permission from their commanders to seek such employment.

Former West Point Cadet John H. Dunmar, ousted from the Academy a few days prior to 1964 graduation, lost his latest round for re-instatement here in the District Court. The Government contended that the former Cadet did not act honorably and he was separated, not discharged, from the Army. Lawyers for Dunmar say that they will take the case to the U. S. Court of Appeals.

Reduction in retired pay of Regular officers taking Federal civilian jobs will be on the basis of pay periods. In other words each monthly retired check will be reduced on the basis of 12 such checks a year.

The 1964 convention of the Defense Supply Association will be held in Washington Oct. 28-30.

Army Reserve Maj. Gen. Ralph Palladino, Executive to the Armed Forces Reserve Policy Board, is to retire Oct. 1. He will be retained after his retirement for an additional two years on active duty. There is to be no change in his assignment. Defense was hard put to find a qualified replacement, hence the retention on active duty.

While the commissary controversy will probably go over to the next Congress, it is understood here that unless the Department of Defense submits a clarifying proposal one of the joint subcommittees may introduce a bill to do this.

Congressional hearings on any measure would be the responsibility of the two Armed Services Committees. It is understood from reliable sources that the majority of members of the two committees in question favor retention without change of both commissaries and post exchanges.

Under a new ruling of the Department of Defense, Service members in a limited number of states may authorize allotments from their pay to be made to the combined charity drive. The limited area for the new policy is that it is to be conducted on a test basis.

Lack of Congressional action has compelled the Army to cancel for the time being its ROTC flight training program.

Viet Nam Ruler Seeks to Boost His Safeguards

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A controversial member of South Viet Nam's ruling military triumvirate today was reported preparing to leave the country Thursday as Premier Nguyen Khanh sought to safeguard himself against another coup attempt.

A high government source said Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem would go to Europe for several weeks, ostensibly to thank Western governments for supporting South Viet Nam's battle against the Communist Viet Cong.

It also was reported that Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, Khanh's press aide and a target of the unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Khanh on Sept. 13, would accompany Khiem to Europe.

Khiem, a Catholic in predominantly Buddhist Viet Nam, had been looked on until recently as one of the most powerful men in the country.

Reports circulated early this month that Khanh was under Buddhist pressure to get rid of Khiem and that the premier planned to send him on a goodwill tour of Southeast Asia until feeling subsided.

After the unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Khanh Khiem came under fire from the group of young generals — known as the Young Turks — whose refusal to join the rebellion saved Khanh.

The government source said Saturday the young officers had demanded again that Khanh exile Khiem and dismiss five other older generals. The source said today the Young Turks had given Khanh until Oct. 25 to purge the officer corps.

The government news agency published a communique today, purportedly from the young officers, denying that they had given Khanh an ultimatum. They said they "earnestly hope" the government would soon satisfy their request "for a purge of corrupt elements from the leading echelon of the military and the administration."

The government source said the leader of the Young Turks, Air Force Commander Nguyen Cao Ky, could count on support from the navy, the marines and some airborne units as well as from his own officers.

Freed, Accused Ax Killer Faces More Charges

By ROGER GOELZ

DETROIT (AP) — Accused ax-murderer William Gravlin was released from a mental hospital last year largely because of the pleadings of his wife, the institution's clinical director said Tuesday.

According to Prosecutor William Lang, Gravlin admitted the ax and hammer slayings of his wife, his daughter Bette Sue, 5; and his stepchildren Ben, 17; Judy, 16; Dorrie, 15; Paul, 12; and Walter, 10.

Gravlin stood mute at his arraignment Tuesday on charges of first-degree murder in the slaying of Judy.

"We've got as much of a court case with one victim as with seven," Lang said.

The felonious assault charge resulted in three years' probation and a proviso that Gravlin take psychiatric treatments at Pontiac State Hospital, a mental institution.

The hospital clinical director, Robert Braun, said that Gravlin's premature release in July 1963 resulted in part from repeated urgings by the patient's wife.

Braun said the woman "commented on the notable change in his disposition" as the treatments continued. Braun also said a thorough study of Gravlin's records just two months ago showed "no mental weaknesses that might have made him dangerous to society."

Lang said marital difficulties may have been involved in the slayings.

The seven bodies were found Tuesday morning when a Madison Heights patrolman, Ronald Pearche, was sent to the Gravlin home after a tip from Earl Stone.

Stone phoned authorities and said Gravlin had told him: "Call the police. I killed my family in that house last weekend."

Police said each of the bodies bore a note identifying it and saying:

"I love you. I'm sorry. It couldn't be helped."

Ninth Daughter Added To New York Family

RENSSELAER, N.Y. (AP) — Francis Bullis says he faced the facts — all nine of them — and gave up hope of having a son. His wife gave birth to their ninth daughter last week.

Ranging in age from 5 days to almost 20 years, they are "good kids and will do everything they're told," Bullis says. But, he adds, living with that many women is "not easy."

West German Credit Reds Want Long-Term

BONN, Germany (AP) — Communist East Germany wants a long-term credit of several hundred million marks from West Germany, an Economic Ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

Other Bon officials said the East German regime threatened reprisals against the big trade between West Germany and West Berlin if its demands are not met.

The spokesman would not specify the amount sought but said the Communists want it to run for 8 to 10 years. The business newspaper Handelsblatt put the figure at 500 million marks, about $125 million.

Trade between the two parts of divided Germany amounts to $500 million a year and has been increasing.

The United States and some other members of the North Atlantic alliance oppose credits of more than five years to Communist nations.

Discussion Is Proposed for Women's Vote

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK, (AP) — Advice to candidates seeking the women's vote: No flattery; no patronizing; solid discussion of basic issues. And, most emphatically, no baby kissing.

That's the word today from leaders of important women's groups to campaigners hoping to woo a sizeable share of the nation's 381 million female voters during the next few weeks.

About the baby kissing: "That would not make an impression on me whether I was the baby or the voting mother," said Mrs. William Hasebroock, in Washington D.C. She is president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs with a membership of 11 million.

As for flattery — speechmakers' chivalrous references to "the magnificent array of pulchritude in the audience" — Mrs. Hasebroock can do without that, too.

"Women have no time for these amenities. They want to get down to the basic issues," she says. "Since what we stress is a togetherness world, a partnership of both sexes in solving problems, campaign speeches don't have to be slanted to please us."

Any condescension by political strategists is particularly bothersome to Mrs. James Zimmers of New York's League of Women Voters.

"Plenty of women are still not very interested in politics today," she concedes, "but any who take the trouble to hear a campaign speech are fairly sophisticated politically. Yet the speakers do not give them credit for being able to read the newspapers."

Nor do campaign promises of political or job opportunities for women cut any ice with league members.

"The league has divorced itself from a feminist point of view," said Mrs. George Vietheer, past president of the non-partisan group.

"Thoughtful voting is not a metter of gender with us," said Mrs. Vietheer. "We have a genuine interest in the issues involved, and how the candidate, male or famale, stands on these."

The orator's silver tongue or his boyish appearance may have a subconscious influence on the woman voter, conceded Mrs. George Malmgren of Chicago. But as citizenship chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, she is trying to educate club women to look beyond the superficialities to the candidate himself and how he stands on the issues.

Said Mrs. Vietheer: "Of course, I want everything to be sweetness and light. But it isn't. I expect to hear criticism. But I want to hear constructive suggestions with the criticism. And we're not getting these."

Vatican Council Resumes Debate On Revelation

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The controversial debate on the sources of divine revelation resumes in the Vatican Ecumenical Council today. Argument over the roles of tradition and Scripture became so bitter at the council's first session in 1962 that the late Pope John XXIII intervened personally.

Council sources said that the two-year-old question of the relationship between tradition and Scripture to the revealed word of God still was an open question, despite revision in the schema.

The 1962 draft expanded on Roman Catholic teaching that tradition and Scripture are twin sources of God's revealed word.

Many prelates complained its phrasing and tone lacked the pastroal spirit needed in the Christian unity movement. They said it failed to include modern theologians' views and put too much emphasis on tradition.

Pope John ordered a complete rewriting of the document by a special mixed commission. It was John's only direct intervention in the work of the council, coming after 1,368 prelates had voted to end disussion of revelation after just one week of debate.

Through the centuries the Church has viewed tradition as inspired word not found in the Gospels but handed down by word of mouth. Church teachings have been formulated on both the Scriptures and tradition.

Some Protestants accept only the Scriptures. Most consider tradition a source of divine truth, but give priority to Scripture and believe the insights developed through tradition must be rooted in Scripture.

The general conservative view in the council is that what the Church has concluded about the Bible through the centuries is definitive and needs no reexamination.

Progressive prelates hold that developments in archeology, comparative history and word studies can shed new light on the intentions and meanings of the scripture writers.

The Council of Trent 400 years ago affirmed that scripture and tradition were the double sources of the revealed word of God. That council was called in the wake of the Protestant Reformation, with its strict emphasis on Scripture.

Pope Paul VI met Tuesday night in the Sistine Chapel with 72 observers who represent 24 Protestant and Orthodox churches at the council sessions.

He told them he was planning an interfaith study center, apparently referring to a report that he wants a comparative theology study center built in Jerusalem as a memorial to his historic meeting there last January with Orhtodox Patriarch Athenagoras.

"This shows you, gentlemen and brothers, that the Catholic Church, while unable to abandon certain doctrinal exigencies to which she has the duty in Christ to remain faithful, is nevertheless disposed to study how difficulties can be removed, misunderstandings dissipated, and the authentic treasures of truth and spirituality which you possess be respected."

German Court Convicts Former Nazi

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A German court convicted former SS Gen. Karl Wolff today of complicity in the wartime murder of 300,000 Jews in Poland and sentenced him to 15 years at hard labor.

The former Nazi officer was pale but stood ramrod straight as he heard the court read the verdict. The prosecution had asked life imprisonment, the maximum sentence since West Germany abandoned capital punishment in 1949.

Wolff had been adjutant to Heinrich Himmler, leader of the SS, and at one time was Himmler's top liaison man with Hitler. The prosecution charged that he was a member of the Nazi brain trust which planned the extermination of the Jews.

Wolff pleaded innocence and claimed he did not learn of the Nazi murder of the Jews until after the war.

To the charge that he helped in the deportation of 300,000 Jews from the Warsaw ghetto to extermination camps in Poland, Wolff replied that he believed they were being moved for resettlement.

At the end of the war Wolff negotiated secretly with the Americans to arrange the surrender of German forces in Italy. He was a witness at the Nuernberg trial of the top Nazi leaders. The Allies did not prosecute him.

During the 10-week trial, some of the scores of witnesses testified that Wolff used his office to help Jews. Others said he had been seen in the Warsaw ghetto with Himmler and later visiting Auschwitz and other extermination camps.

Documents submitted by the prosecution showed that Wolff thanked railroad officals for running the trains in which Jews had been shipped to the camps.

Wolff had claimed he saved several Jews from persecution and that Adolf Eichman once challenged him to a duel after he scolded Eichmann for refusing to free Jews.

Eichmann, head of the Nazi secret police's Jewish affairs division, was hanged in Israel for his part in the Nazi extermination program.

Wolff's two and a half years in confinement before his trial will be deducted from his term.

The court said it was convinced that Wolff had been "the eye and the ear" of Himmler.

"He was Himmler's highest confidant," Judge Erich Manhardt said.

"Wolff played an important part in the mass extermination of Jews of the Warsaw ghetto, in full knowledge of the murderous plans of Himmler and Hitler," the judge declared.

He said Wolff, who had been living comfortably in a Bavarian lakeside resort until his arrest, was brought to trial belatedly because legal authorities did not get access to implacting documents until recent years.

Deaths

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Nacio Herb Brown, 68, who composed the music for "Singing in the Rain," "The Pagan Love Song," and many other popular melodies died Monday of cancer after an illness of 1 ½ years.

WINCHESTER, England (AP) — Sir George Dyson, 81, a composer and former director in the Royal College of Music and a governor of the Sadler Wells Opera Co., died Tuesday. He had lived in retirement since leaving the royal college in 1952.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Albert H. Ely, 70, a director of Moral Re-Armament and a representative of the movement for more than 30 years in Africa, Latin America, Europe and Australia, died Monday. He had practiced law in New York and Washington.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Brig. Gen. William A. Barron Jr., 71, retired board chairman of the Gillette Razor Blade Co., who served in both world wars, died Tuesday. Barron was a native of Newburyport, Mass.

Red Chinese Atomic Blast Not Crucial

TOKYO (AP) — A nuclear test explosion by Red China at this time would have no military significance and therefore should have little psychological or propaganda effect in Asia, William P. Bundy, U.S. assistant secretary of state, said today.

"An initial explosion of this kind does not mean nuclear capability," Bundy told a news conference. "There is no evidence that Communist China has any effective nuclear weapons or any prospects for systems of delivery."

The most notable thing about Red China's nuclear program, Bundy said, is the fact it has not exploded a nuclear device before this.

"Up to 1960, the Soviet Union supplied the real essentials of the Communist Chinese nuclear program," he said. "With that kind of a start, the fact that the Chinese have not exploded a device up to this time would indicate they do not have a good technical or scientific capacity for nuclear development."

Discussing the war in South Viet Nam, Bundy said infiltration of men and supplies from North Viet Nam "is crucial to the success of the Communist Viet Cong in South Viet Nam."

"If the military leadership and supply of arms and men from the North were removed, the Viet Cong insurgency in the South could be reduced to manageable proportions in a matter of months," he said.

Five Soviet Sailors Rescued From Barge

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Soviet Communist Party Paper, today reported the rescue of five Soviet sailors trapped in the submerged cabin of an overturned barge for nearly nine hours.

Pravda said three members of a navy resuce team and a border guard had been decorated for heroism.

It said the rescuers took two sailors off the overturned hull. Then an officer dived under the vessel with an aqualung to the wheelhouse, which apparently had remained watertight with five crew members inside. One was a woman.

Soviet Ships Relax Watch of Exercise

LONDON (AP) — An Atlantic alliance strike force steaming toward the Bay of Biscay for the final phase of NATO war games says Soviet ships have relaxed their watch on the naval exercise.

"To our knowledge only one Russian trawler and one submarine are still shadowing the force," U.S. Navy Capt. Frederick C. Turner, operations officer of the Blue Strike fleet, told newsmen Tuesday night.

The task force — 55 ships, 80 planes and 21,000 men — has been carrying out simulated attacks with both conventional and nuclear weapons against targets in Norway, Denmark and Britain.

The European robin belongs to the same family as the U.S. native robin, but is smaller and its habits are quite different.

Cholera Germs Blamed For Deaths in India

BOMBAY, India (AP) — An investigation into the death of 38 Indian school children stricken after eating American famine relief supplies has showed cholera germs in water used to prepare their meal.

Health authorities cleared CARE — the Cooperate for American Relief Everywhere — of blame in the deaths at Maddikera village 10 days ago. Their report said no contamination was found in the corn and powdered milk the children ate.

A lucky couple we know weigh just 107 pounds each, eat like crazy and say to heck with calories. Why do they drink Canada Dry low-calorie Ginger?

Actually, there's nothing unusual about our friends, but there is about our low-calorie Ginger. It tastes great! Lots of companies came out with low-calorie soft drinks but the trouble was they didn't taste like much.

At Canada Dry, we didn't want to bring out just a pale imitation of a soft drink. We experimented with flavor ingredients and carbonation. We kept calories down—to less than one per 6-ounce serving—but went all out to get real taste. We made a Ginger, an Orange, a Lemon, a Cola, and a Root Beer, and we gave each of them Special Sparkle. Then we tried them out on every type of person we could think of. That's when we found out that Canada Dry low-calorie beverages taste so great even skinny people like them.
